MELLON INCOME TAX PROBE PUSHED BY U. S.

Today

Remember Wilson's Trips. Young, Old, Men, Women. Mr. Insull Finds a Job. Swift Death in Italy.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LONDON, MUCH pleased, hears that President Roosevelt will go to England to attend the economic parley, "making a record crossing on the United States cruiser Indianapolis."

The President announces that he has "no present intention" of attending the conference. Perhaps he remembers what happened after President Wilson made such a trip, visiting en famille at Buckingham Palace, and getting his portrait substituted for Garibaldi's in many Italian homes.

That Buckingham lodging and Garibaldi substitution cost this country many billions of dollars, to say nothing of the depression.

THERE WAS recently a conference in Washington concerning billions that Europe owes us. Mussolini did not come, the president of France did not come; the King of England did not come.

They sent somebody, although they OWE US. Is there any particular reason why President Roosevelt should go? He has work to do here, and is employed by the people to do it HERE.

ON THE Mayflower, while Calvin Coolidge was President, somebody brought up George Harvey's suggestion that the United States should send delegates to London to discuss the debts. President Coolidge quietly remarked:

"They hired the money here, didn't they? Why can't they discuss it here?"

That New England gentleman would not have made any "record trip" to Europe on a cruiser, or anything else, while President.

POOR GANDHI already shows signs of weakness, after a fast of a few days. Doctors hope he will survive, if left in peace. His disciple, Dr. Margaret Spiegel, a young German woman, abandoned a fast she began with his, being told that her fasting worried him.

You observe that many young women will take intense interest in a feeble, half-starved, toothless old man like Gandhi, whereas thousands of older women were intensely fascinated by the young, dark-haired Valentino, some even going to see his pictures fifty times in succession.

A charming young woman was violently in love with Montaigne, when he was old, and there are many such instances in history. Plato solemnly assures you that young men, back from the wars, should be looked after by women old enough to be their mothers.

CHICAGO WILL not be surprised that Samuel Insull, at present residing in Greece, should be inspecting mines of lignite, a low-grade coal, near the village of Devi. Backed by British capital, Mr. Insull expects to supply fuel to ports on the Black Sea and the Agean. If he succeeds, as he probably will, perhaps, when conditions change, North and South Dakota will invite him to come and show them how to utilize the endless supplies of lignite that they possess.

Now they import expensive coal from the East. Why not burn the lignite where it lies, distribute it in electric current?

IN ITALY, Ugo Traviglia, secretly tried and convicted of treason for disclosing Italy's naval plans to a foreign power, has paid with his life. It was a typical prompt Mussolini event.

The condemned man was tied in a chair, his back to the firing squad. Before his death he begged pardon of the squad that was to kill him, and shouted:

"Long live Italy!"

The condemned man's wife knew nothing of his whereabouts. Speed and secrecy marked everything. Shooting in the back is the penalty for enemies of Italy, which does not punish ordinary murder with death.

Chancellor Hitler tells German labor:

"My life has fitted me to see the needs of all classes."

It ought to have fitted him to see those needs, for he has been a worker, a plain soldier, desperately wounded, in prison, in hospitals, in poverty.

But all this has not enabled him to see the most important truth, namely, that where there is no justice, there can be no success.

THE LEAGUE of Nations being still engaged in futile peace talk, the Japanese continue their conquest of China. A Japanese plane drops leaflets on the forbidden city of Peiping, warning Chinese to cease resistance, or suffer. Efforts of Chinese anti-aircraft guns are worthless, of course. The Japanese plane flies too high.

AT THE SAME time the League is shocked by Paraguay's declaration of war against Bolivia. Bolivia and Paraguay have already been fighting for eleven months, with about 50,000 killed or wounded. Nine republics, including ours, tried vainly to prevent the declaration of war.

Our business is to keep out of war, while making it too dangerous for anybody to force it on us, and pray for peace, while attending to our own affairs.

SIR FRANCIS GOODENOUGH, wise Englishman, predicts that when prosperity comes back it will rise to a height "never before enjoyed by the human race."

Americans, asking each other "what do you think?" will forget their present troubles in a great burst of prosperity when the time comes. The main thing is not to make too many foolish mistakes now.

NAZIS GIVEN WARNING BY ALLIES

France, Briton Hint Reoccupation of Rhineland

International News Service.

A menacing situation suddenly arose in Europe today, due to announcement by the Hitler administration that Germany intends to build up great armaments at once if the Geneva disarmament conference fails, which seems probable.

Joseph Paul-Boncour, French Foreign Minister, declared France, in such a case, would insist upon application of the Versailles treaty. This might mean reoccupation by Allied armies of the west bank of the Rhine.

In London, Lord Hailsham, Minister for War, voiced a similar attitude.

Declarations by Allied statesmen stirred anger in Berlin, where it was declared France was plotting to violate the Versailles treaty and provoke war.

The Geneva disarmament conference, meanwhile, remained in deadlock over Germany's insistence upon complete arms equality and opposition to British limitation proposals.

International News Service.

PARIS, May 12.—France will insist upon application of the sanctions provisiosn in the treaty of Versailles if Germany breaks up the disarmament conference and proceeds to rearm, Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour declared today.

Paul-Boncour expressed keen gratification over the statement of Viscount Hailsham, British secretary of state for war, who declared Germany would be liable to sanctions if it persisted in its intention to rearm. Paul-Boncour said:

"I appreciate the stand taken by Great Britain on the disarmament question, particularly regarding Germany.

"This stand is similar to that of France Wrecking the disarmament conference will throw everything back to the treaty of Versailles, which must be applied."

Sections of the Versailles treaty providing for sanctions against Germany are applicable until 1935. They provide for reoccupation of German territory west of the Rhine by former Allied forces.

BRITISH WARNING

LONDON, May 12.—(AP.)—Lord Hailsham, secretary for war, said in the House of Lords last night that he believed German's attitude at the disarmament conference might lead to the restoration of sanctions provided in the Versailles treaty.

These sanctions called for occupation by the Allies of German territory west of the Rhine and

Nobel Prize Winner Periled in Crash

MORRISON, Ill., May 12.—(AP.)—The life of Prof. Arthur H. Compton, of the University of Chicago and co-winner in 1927 of the Nobel prize for his researches on cosmic rays, was endangered when his car hit another machine yesterday on the Lincoln highway, near Sterling, Ill.

He was able to lecture last night at Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Ia. His wife and son were brought to a local hospital.

Given Divorce

JOAN CRAWFORD

JOAN DIVORCES DOUG, JR.

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—(INS.)—Joan Crawford, screen land's personification of the modern American girl, today was granted a divorce from Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., an equally famous younger film actor.

Charges of "grevious mental" cruelty related from the witness stand won the titian-haired Joan a decree in a brief court appearance before Judge Minor Moore.

Appearing highly nervous, Miss Crawford took the witness stand attired in a smart sports outfit, which set off her tanned face.

Instances in which she said Fairbanks' "jealous and suspicious attitude regarding her friends" were given by the actress in support of her claim her husband's actions had caused her "great mental suffering."

Stocks Close With Buying Flurry

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Profit-taking slowed down the security and commodity markets today.

Stocks, however, ended an irregular session with a flurry of buying that canceled earlier losses.

Several issues, notably the alcohol and bottling equipment shares, were strong all day, making extreme gains that ranged up to $6.

Transactions approximated 4,400,000 shares.

Wheat's closing prices varied from a small decline to a minor advance. Cotton, off about $1 a bale at one time, rallied from the lows. Sugar futures eased after an early advance, while silver was moderately lower.

BLAST TRAPS TENANTS IN APARTMENT

Hill Explosion Wrecks Building, Victims Buried in Debris

A terrific explosion buried several persons in wreckage of an apartment building at 1415 Clark street this afternoon.

The rear of the building was shattered and windows on Clark and Fullerton streets were broken. The bomb and arson squad was sent to the scene.

Firemen and volunteers dug the victims from the debris. Three were taken to Mercy Hospital.

The first floor of the building was vacant, but the second and third were occupied.

The district was shaken by the blast. Two fire alarms were sent in a few minutes after it occurred.

The number of persons living in the three-story brick structure was not immediately learned, and police had not determined how many were in the wreckage.

JOB AID PLAN TAKEN TO F. R.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP.)—A revised draft of the public construction-industrial control bill was carried to the White House today by Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, for a final check with President Roosevelt and a last minute determination of the taxation program.

Speaker Rainey predicted to newspapermen that the $3,300,000,000 measure would be ready for Congressional presentation next week.

Wagner held a brief conference with Donald Richberg, representative of organized labor, just before turning to the White House with the latest draft of the revolutionary plan for controlling and speeding up industry.

He said the form of taxation to finance the proposed construction program would be the last thing determined, indicating other features were complete.

Speculation on the form of taxation to be imposed to raise an annual liquidation fund of $220,000,000 has centered around forms of sales taxes.

Heart Attack Kills H. M. Hisey, Broker

Hayes M. Hisey, 56, for 30 years an active member of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, died today in West Penn Hospital. He was stricken with a heart attack two days ago. His home was at 1216 Cochran road, Mt. Lebanon. For many years Mr. Hisey represented A. E. Masten & Co. He leaves his widow, Mrs. [illegible] Hisey, a sister and a brother.

Fire Alarm 'Bug' Bites Man, He's Fined

Edward Betz, 25, of 3765 East street, was fined $25 or 30 days today in North Side Police Court, where he was accused of keeping seven fire companies on the run early today.

It was testified six false alarms were sounded within three hours and at one time seven companies were speeding for the boxes.

Boy's Pet Alligator Wanders from Home

Virginia, a pet alligator of David Bendix, 15, of 727 North Euclid avenue, is missing.

Virginia is nine inches long and barks.

Her principal diet is raw meat. David hints to the finder. He'd like very much to have Virginia back.

JURY INDICTS CAVANAUGH

Six homestead officials and political leaders were indicted by the County Grand Jury today on charges of conspiracy in altering tax assessments in the borough prior to the September primaries in 1931.

Those named are Charles J. McBride, former secretary of the County Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes; Burgess John J. Cavanaugh, a former member of the Tax Board; William Dee, a subordinate tax assessor; Jess Honse, president of Council; Martin Delaney, Councilman, and Port Eckles, superintendent of Homestead schools.

McBride and Cavanaugh also were indicted on charges of misbehavior in office, making false entries and fraudulent making and uttering written instruments. In addition, Cavanaugh is charged with altering public records.

The defendants are alleged to have conspired to raise tax assessments of political enemies and lower assessments of friends, with a view to enhancing their political power. The indictments are the outgrowth of an investigation by Leo Riordan, chief county investigator.

Ann Harding Home After Cuban Tragedy

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—(INS.)—"Too nervous and shaky to make the trip by air," Ann Harding, film actress, had returned to Hollywood today by train with her secretary, Marie Lombard, from Havana, where they escaped drowning in an accident in which a Cuban yachtsman lost his life. Alexander Kirkland, film actor who accompanied them to Havana, has gone to New York, Miss Harding said.

Asked whether she would marry Kirkland, she said:

"Silly nonsense. I don't ever intend to marry again."

MEANS SAYS BEER BARON TOOK BABY

Ex-Agent's Weird Tale Puts Lindy Crime On Hassell

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Two new figures, Max Hassell and Max Greenberg, liquor runners and gangsters who were recently "bumped off," were named today as members of the gang which kidnaped the Lindbergh baby by Gaston B. Means, as the ponderous convict-spy-detective resumed his bizarre testimony in District Supreme Court today.

Means and Norman T. Whitaker, described as "The Fox," are on trial for attempting to swindle Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean out of $35,000, after Means had already mulcted her out of $104,000. Means is now serving 15 years for that.

SLAIN 'BIG SHOTS'

Both Hassell and Greenberg were so-called "big shots" in the racketeering underworld of New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania. They were recently shot to death in a typical gangland killing in a hotel in Elizabeth, N. J.

Introduction of their names brought to five the persons Means has named in his rambling account of the kidnaping.

Previously he had said Violet Sharp, maid in the home of Dwight Morrow, father-in-law of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was "the skirt" who tipped off the gang. She died from poisoning at her own hand.

The others he has named are "Irving Fenton" and "Wellington Henderson," the latter described as a Detroit Communist. They have never been more completely identified

Means said Henderson directed Greenberg and Hassell as to their procedure in the kidnaping, and that "connections" of the two rum runners actually carried it out, Means said:

"Here is the way the thing was done. There was no ladder used in the kidnaping. Col. Lindbergh has on occasion, as a practical joke, placed his baby in a closet and pretended that it was kidnaped. This was known to the servants.

TELLS OF 'KIDNAPING'

"On the night of March 1, Greenberg's 'connection' was ordered to go to the Lindbergh home with three bottles of beer in his pocket. These connections had been in the habit of supplying the Lindbergh servants with beer for some time. The designated connection was directed to go in the house as usual, get the baby and walk out. If he was discovered he was to let three bottles of beer be seen and say that the baby kidnaping was a joke.

"One of the connections did walk in and get the baby. The baby was then taken to the cave where Hassell and Greenberg kept their whisky."

He added that on one occasion, after lengthy negotiations with Fenton for the return of the baby, he returned to Washington and found a memorandum saying that "in an attempt to remove the baby from its hiding place in New Jersey the baby was dropped on its head and was killed."

SWIFT ON HILL FOR BUCS

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, May 12.—Cloudy skies still prevailed over Manhattan Island this afternoon as the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants warmed up for the second game of their series. The Pirates won the opener yesterday, 7 to 6.

Bill Swift, crack righthand recruit of the Buccaneer slab staff, who has won four of his five starts this season, was all set to tackle the Giants today. Manager Terry had Fred Fitzsimmons and Hal Schumacher ready for mound action.

Girl Bandit Fires Into Crowd

LUCERNE, Ind., May 12.—(INS.)—A woman bank bandit sprayed a crowd with machine gun bullets during a spectacular attempt by a gang to hold up the Lucerne State Bank here today.

Two women spectators were wounded by the gun fire.

About 40 shots were exchanged between the bandits and bank officials.

The wounded are Miss Ethel Witters, 20, shot down in front of the bank when the feminine bandit turned a machine gun loose on a crowd that had gathered following the first exchange of shots, and Mrs. Doris Minor, 24, who was dressing in her bedroom at her home near the bank.

The bandits escaped.

There were two battles between the robber gang and bank officials. The first one occurred within the bank when bank employes, driven into the vault by two bandits, opened fire with guns hidden there.

The two gunmen then rushed out of the bank into a sedan containing two women.

'WELCOMES' QUIZ, REED ASSERTS

Cummings to Conduct Special Inquiry on Evasion Charge

WASHINGTON, May 12.—An investigation of the income tax returns of Andrew W. Mellon, the wealthy former Secretary of the Treasury and Ambassador to Great Britain, has been started by the Justice Department.

Charges made on the floor of the House by Representative McFadden (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, form the basis of the action. McFadden asserted that Mellon, while in President Hoover's cabinet, had been guilty of "a specific tax evasion" on approximately $6,700,000.

LETTERS URGE PROBE

In addition to the McFadden charges, Attorney General Cummings said, a number of letters had been received from private citizens asking for such an investigation.

A. W. Mellon welcomes a thoroughly impartial investigation, Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, declared today. He said:

"Not as Mellon's lawyer but as Mr. Mellon's friend, and based upon conversations I had with Mr. Mellon after the McFadden charges in the House, I am convinced that the charges are absolutely without foundation.

"As Mr. Mellon's friend, I welcome an investigation by an impartial tribunal and I am sure that Mr. Mellon also welcomes the investigation."

SEES GRAVE CHARGE

Cummings indicated he would handle the case through a special investigator. He said:

"It is fair to say that the policy of the department is to investigate all cases where the complaint indicates that there is some substance to the allegations. This is a serious charge and has to be treated seriously and I hope fairly."

McFadden last week read a letter to the House from David A. Olson, former investigator for the Senate stock market committee, asserting that in 1931 Mellon sold stock in the Western Public Service Company and the Pittsburgh

Gains in Steel Output Of District Continue

Pittsburgh and its industrial environs today continued on the upward swing.

Youngstown district steel mills today announced schedules showing operations next week would be above 40 per cent capacity. Thirty-eight of 83 open hearth furnaces in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys are scheduled for melting and additional blast furnaces are expected to be in operation.

Notable gains over the current week were reported by Carnegie Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube and the Republic Steel Corporation.

The Hanna Coal Company will open its Lafferty mine, idle a year and the Willow Grove mine, employing 250, will start Tuesday.

Telegraph companies here reported wires are humming in the business revival.

The Western Union upswing is reported as 10 per cent over last

VET BONUS PAYMENT SEEN AS DEMANDS GROW IN HOUSE

U. S. OUTLINES BIG RELIEF PROGRAM

Economy Act Revolt Looms; Job Army Ranks Opened

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A broad program of aid to needy veterans was being developed by the administration today as demands for cash payment of the $2,200,000,000 soldiers' bonus grew in the House, and revolt was threatened against the veterans' economy act.

The recruiting of 25,000 veterans in the reforestation camps on the order of President Roosevelt was declared by congressional members of the "veterans' bloc" to be only the beginning of the program.

CONSIDER BONUS

Specific consideration of the needs of veterans in the administration of the $500,000,000 Wagner relief bill and preferential treatment in the development of a vast public works program were being considered.

The administration also was considering the plea of a House delegation to devise means of paying the soldiers' bonus or increasing the loan value for veterans in dire circumstances.

With a petition signed by 26 members of the House lying on the Speaker's desk for discharge of the Ways and Means Committee from consideration of the cash bonus bill, Democratic House leaders have informed the President there is a possibility of the House revolting and demanding payment.

VOTE ECONOMIES

The independent offices appropriation bill, embodying the greatest economies yet accomplished by the new administration, passed the House today. The vote was 249 to 118.

The bill carries a total of $543,000,000, being $460,000,000 less than was carried in the same bill which passed in the last Congress, only to be vetoed by President Hoover.

The only major change in the bill since it came from committee was the addition of $8,000,000 to keep open regional offices of the veterans' administration.

F. R. IN BATTLE OF BANK KINGS

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt was revealed today as having entered the banking war between the Rockefeller and Morgan interests by indorsing the Rockefeller demand for a law divorcing investment banking from commercial banking.

The Senate Banking and Currency Committee was told of the President's interest by Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, who said Mr. Roosevelt personally asked inclusion in the new banking reform bill of provisions prohibiting commercial banking by investment bankers.

The drive to divorce the two types of banking was launched several weeks ago by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and immediately opposed by J. Pierpont Morgan.

If adopted, the provision would cripple the great banking business of J. P. Morgan & Co., while making the Chase National Bank—which Rockefeller dominates—the greatest commercial banking institution in the nation.

Couple Reunited By Lie Detector

CHICAGO, May 12.—(INS.)—Walter Clissold and his wife, Gladys, today owed their reconciliation to the lie detector.

Mrs. Clissold had her suit for separate maintenance dismissed, explaining that they were living together again after a lie detector test proved the charges made by her husband were false.

TARIFF TRUCE PLAN ADOPTED

LONDON, May 12.—(AP.)—The American proposal for an international tariff truce was unanimously adopted today at a meeting of the organizing committee of the world economic conference.

The armistice was agreed upon after the representatives of the eight nations on the committee had been in session more than three hours.

Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's negotiator, came from the conference room in the Foreign Office, his face wreathed in smiles. He said:

"It is good news."

Child Punishment Held Unnecessary

CLEVELAND — (INS.) — Mrs. Garry C. Myers, child expert of Cleveland College here, would correct the old phrase, "Spare the rod and spoil the child," to bear the import that it is not at all necessary to inflict corporal punishment on children. She said:

"If children feel happy when they do the right thing, they will repeat that right thing. Parents' attitudes have a great deal to do with children in their training. If they are encouraged by a smile or a word of commendation for doing the right thing they will want to repeat the thing which brings satisfaction. I don't think whipping is necessary."

FARM 'STRIKE' DUE TOMORROW

DES MOINES, Ia., May 12.—(INS.)—Generally apathetic, midwestern agrarians went quietly and calmly about their business today on the eve of a national "farm strike" scheduled to start tomorrow.

National Farmers Holiday Association headquarters here insisted that 1,500,000 farmers would join the movement to raise prices of all classes of farm commodities by "starving" consumers in a concentrated non-selling "strike."

At St. Paul, Milo Reno, National Farmers' Holiday Association president, said he had asked President Roosevelt whether he intends to declare a moratorium on farm foreclosures and executions on chattel mortgages.

LANCASTER, Pa., May 12.—(AP.)—The statewide strike of farmers scheduled for tomorrow has been canceled.

In announcing the cancellation of plans, Samuel L. Shaffer, state organizer of the Farmers' Holiday Association, today said "any effort on the part of farmers in Pennsylvania to send farm produce into western states where the strike will be in effect will be met by picketing tomorrow."

Finished Products Lead U. S. Exports

WASHINGTON.—Finished manufactured products constituted $624,903,000 or 39.6 per cent of United States exports totaling $1,576,821,000 in 1932, the Commerce department reported. Crude materials accounted for the next largest group of exports, with a value of $513,649,000 or 32.6 per cent. These export groups compared with $1,119,675,000 and $566,791,000 respectively, during 1931, when exports aggregated $2,377,982,000.

The only imported products to show a percentage increase during 1932 over 1931, were crude foodstuffs and manufactured foodstuffs.

INFLATION BILL MADE LAW BY ROOSEVELT

President Asks That Mortgage Holders Delay Seizures

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt this afternoon signed into law the massive bill to raise farm prices, giving him extraordinary inflationary powers and enabling easement of the agricultural mortgage burden.

At the same time, in a formal statement, he urged farm mortgage creditors to abstain from foreclosures pending operation of the law.

In taking over unprecedented management over currency, the President had made it clear he was ready to use it "when, as, and if it may be necessary."

The legislation gives him power to increase paper money, reduce the gold content of the dollar and to fix a ratio between gold and silver.

The farm provision gives the administration wide latitude to control production either by acreage allotments or by the leasing of lands to withdraw them from production.

The refinancing of agricultural mortgages allows for a lower interest rate with a three-year moratorium on interest payments.

In signing the measure into law, the President, in a formal statement, said:

"Every effort will be made to administer the act promptly, considerately and justly.

"I urge upon mortgage creditors, until full opportunity has been given to make effective the provisions of the mortgage refinancing sections of the farm relief act, that they abstain from bringing foreclosure proceedings and making any effort to dispossess farmers who are in debt to them."

NAZIS TO BAN LAND DIVISION

BERLIN, May 12.—(AP.)—One of the most revolutionary laws proposed in a century will be passed May 15, radically changing land inheritance laws, prohibiting Jews from inheriting lands or farmers from selling them, Hans Kerrl, president of the Prussian Diet, announced last night.

The switch will be made from Roman law, under which land was regarded "as a commodity," to an old Germanic statute.

The possessor under the statute will be prohibited from selling his land and from dividing it among his heirs, only one of whom will get the property.

U. S. COOL TO FRENCH OFFER

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—France's renewed offer to the United States to cut her debt default of last December in exchange for assurances that the June payment of $40,000,000 will be postponed, apparently brought no change today in the Administration's policy of "sitting tight" where the debts are concerned.

The assurances sought by France are exceedingly difficult for President Roosevelt to give. He is without authority to grant the postponement. Only Congress can do that, and up to now sentiment in Congress has been overwhelmingly against any further moratorium.

U. S. TO GUARD AMERICANS IN PEIPING

Jap Troops Nearing City; Chinese In Retreat

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service.

PEIPING, May 12.—Nelson T. Johnson, American minister to China, moved today to protect American lives and property in Peiping from danger as Japanese-Manchukuo troops swept down from the north and a second Japanese bombing plane hovered over the city.

Johnson told International News Service:

"We are prepared to do everything possible to protect Americans from the dangers of invasion."

STREAMS OF WOUNDED

Even while he spoke, new streams of wounded Chinese soldiers arrived from the northern battlefronts, telling a grim story of the hostilities there.

Meanwhile, to the north of the Peiping-Jehol city road, grim fighting continued as the Japanese strove to oust the Chinese defenders from their positions.

PEIPING, China, May 12.—(AP.)—Reports that the Rockefeller Hospital interests had been involved in alleged Japanese bombings of Chinese hospitals in the North China war zone are false, Roger Greene, superintendent of the Rockefeller Peiping Union Medical College, stated today.

BOMB AT U. S. CONSULATE

MUKDEN, Manchuria, May 12.—(AP.)—Bombs were discovered today in the residence of the American Consul General, Myrl S. Myers, and in the British Consulate General. They were removed without exploding.

Japanese police are investigating the incident.

MELLON'S TAX RECORD SIFTED

Coal company showing a loss of $6,700,000, "which loss was deducted for income tax purposes."

REPURCHASE CHARGED

Olson's letter said the Pittsburgh Coal Company stock was repurchased by the Coalesed Company, "which company is owned 100 per cent by Mr. Mellon and his family." It was added that the stock was purchased in 31 days and that the "loss deducted on the income tax returns is not a proper deduction."

McFadden said the circumstances were similar to those which caused the indictment of Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, but that in the Mellon case the offense was "made more serious" because of the latter's position as Secretary of the Treasury.

Mellon Here, Silent On Tax Investigation

Andrew W. Mellon, here today, maintained silence about the tax investigation. In New York yesterday he also refused to discuss it.

He left the Smithfield street entrance of the Mellon National Bank shortly after noon. He was dressed in a plain dark suit and carried a topcoat on his right arm.

He looked neither right nor left as he strode across the sidewalk and into a low, tan limousine.

Austria Restricts Welcome to Nazis

VIENNA, May 12.—(INS.)—Police today prohibited two of three Austrian Nazi mass meetings scheduled for Saturday and Sunday to celebrate the arrival of German Nazi leaders, including Hans Kerrl, Prussian Minister of Justice.

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi propaganda minister, was originally scheduled to come here, but apparently has given up this plan in view of warnings he would have to restrict his speechmaking.

MITCHELL CASE TO CALL RICH

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—A long list of Wall street's mighty men will be called in the government drive to convict Charles E. Mitchell on a charge of evading $858,429 income taxes.

Federal Attorney George Z. Medalie disclosed this late yesterday at the trial of the former head of the National City Bank.

Men of "substance and prominence" would be called, he said.

The trial was put over until Monday because Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard, Defense Counsel Max D. Steuer and Medalie all have throat infections.

Last night the jury—with a coffee merchant as foreman—was completed.

NEW YORK, May 12.—(INS.)—Hugh B. Baker, former president of the National City Company, has been questioned by federal authorities in connection with affairs of the banking organization, it was learned today.

Baker, one of the recipients of money from the management fund which came under scrutiny of the Senate Banking Committee, went to the Federal Building yesterday during the trial of Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank.

Jewish War Vets Ban German Goods

Members of Pittsburgh Post No. 49, Jewish War Veterans of the United States, were on record today as pledged not to buy any merchandise "of German make or origin or to use German transportation," until the German government "restores to German Jews rights of citizenship and property."

The pledge was taken at a meeting last night in the Y. M. & W. H. A. Building, Bellefield avenue.

Declares Roosevelt Backs Movie Probe

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP.)—Representative Sirovich (Dem.), of New York, created a sensation in the House today when he declared that President Roosevelt was for his resolution calling for a Congressional investigation of the motion picture industry.

His statement was immediately questioned by a number of members.

ALLIED THREAT MADE TO GERMANY

the bridgeheads of Cologne, Mainz and Kehl until 1935.

The allied armies of occupation, including that of the United States, evacuated the Rhineland before the time limit on assurances that the Versailles treaty provisions were being respected by Germany.

CRISIS LOOMS

Lord Hailsham told the lords it was his personal opinion that any attempt on the part of Germany to re-arm would bring into operation the treaty sanctions. If Germany walked out of the arms conference it would be a matter for "gravest consideration" by the allies, he added.

Lord Hailsham and Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, special envoy for Chancellor Hitler, conferred privately Wednesday, at which time the latter was reported to have asserted Germany will fight for the right to manufacture heavy guns, tanks and airplanes, weapons the disarmament conference seeks to abolish.

GENEVA COMPROMISE

GENEVA, May 12.—(INS.)—A compromise was adopted by the steering committee of the disarmament conference this afternoon in an effort to save the conference from collapse over Germany's armament demands, which have aroused Europe.

An admittedly face-saving agreement, proposed by Arthur Henderson, presiding over the conference, was accepted at a 20-minute meeting, and Rudolph Nadolny, German delegate, will return to Berlin tonight to seek new instructions from the Hitler government.

The agreement provided that the general committee begin on Monday a "general discussion of the entire British disarmament plan," thus enabling all countries to express their likes and dislikes.

The hope was expressed that the delay thus obtained will permit the Hitler government an opportunity to adopt a more conciliatory attitude.

BERLIN RAPS FRANCE

BERLIN, May 12.—(INS.)—By refusing Germany arms equality, France is attempting to sabotage the disarmament conference "for selfish reasons," an obviously inspired statement circulated in political circles charged today.

The statement said:

"France is assuming a terrific responsibility before the world by forcing decisions at Geneva, thereby attempting to veil her intention of sabotaging real disarmament for selfish reasons."

The newspaper Boersen Zeitung, generally regarded as the mouthpiece of the German army, charged that France and her allies were on the verge of violating the Versailles treaty. It declared:

"We were cheated by the promises of Wilson's 14 points. We were disarmed and dishonered by the war guilt lie.

"But we are not slaves. Germany is no colony. They are even threatening a 'preventive war' but they forget that the German people, driven by despair are bound to drag the whole of Europe with them to the edge of a precipice.

"The more brutal the force employed against her, the more passionate will be Germany's fight for freedom. Germans have regained control of their nerves and now refuse to be frightened."

F. R., Schacht Agree On Disarmament Need

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP.)—A joint statement issued today by President Roosevelt and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, German representative, said both were convinced that the world economic conference could not be a success unless "along with economic disarmament, there is military disarmament."

The statement issued at the conclusion of the informal parleys with Germany's representative preparatory to the world economic conference in London said:

"Quick and far-reaching solutions are necessary to save the economic life of the world."

Schacht said it had been Germany's intention to agree to a world tariff truce all along and remarked he did not understand why so much confusion on the point had been created. He said Germany's reservations were minor compared to those of Great Britain and France, both of which have specified provisions designed to enable them to raise tariffs to meet depreciation of currencies.

Drys Back Pennington As U. S. Probes Charges

Preparations to investigate charges aginst Commander John D. Pennington, Prohibition Administrator for Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, were being made today by order of United States Attorney General Cummings.

Friends here expressed the hope the administration would stand by the dry chief. Dr. R. H. Martin, president of the National Reform Association, said:

"We have always been opposed to the administration. If it stands by Pennington, it will go a long way in re-establishing our confidence in their policies.

"Pennington is a four-square shooter and he isn't afraid of the big shots—you can't bribe him. We are going to protect him."

Attorney General Cummings, in Washington, said Prohibition Director A. V. Dalrymple laid the case before him and he told Dalrymple it would be well to go to Philadelphia and study the situation.

Cummings would give no intimation of what the charges were.

The Administrator's office thus has added fuel to the patronage battle between Pennsylvania Democratic Congressmen and Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, Democratic leader. Guffey said he is "backing Pennington to stay."

The Rev. A. R. Robinson, pastor of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church, said he received a letter from Pennington a few days ago in which he stated he did not know what lies ahead of him. The Rev. Mr. Robinson added:

"It seems too good to be true that Guffey is backing him. Many people are strong for Pennington and I am going to do whatever I can to see that he stays in office. It will be too bad if he is ousted."

Yank's Flower on War Memorial Stirs London

LONDON, May 12.—(AP.)—A man who identified himself as a former captain in the United States Army took a hand today in the criticism of Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, the special representative in London of Chancellor Hitler, of Germany.

A lone lily was found at the base of the cenotaph. Britain's memorial to her war dead, and with it was a card reading

"If the unknown soldier could speak to this 'unknown American' he might voice his preference for this single flower to the wreath of a murderous dictator which now desecrates this monument.

"S. S. M., Ex-Captain,
"U. S. Army."

At a Police Court yesterday, Capt. James E. Sears, British World War veteran, admitted he had stolen and damaged a wreath placed at the cenotaph by Dr. Rosenberg. The Rosenberg wreath bore the Swastika, emblem of Chancellor Hitler's Nazis.

A crowd collected at the cenotaph this morning, police soon appeared, removed the card and left the lily.

Contrary to the statement in the card of "S. M. M.," there is no Hitler wreath on the cenotaph now. Its place was taken by a wreath deposited by an unidentified Briton.

SWEATSHOP OPERATORS 'RACKETEERS'—MRS. PINCHOT

LIVE ON RELIEF FUNDS, SHE DECLARES

Governor's Wife Says Society Must Feed Low-Paid Workers

International News Service presents herewith an article on sweatshop labor written by Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, and militant crusader against the evils of sweatshop labor.

Mrs. Pinchot recently focussed nation-wide attention on sweatshop conditions prevailing in some Pennsylvania towns by herself marching in three parades of child pickets at Allentown, Pa.

By CORNELIA BRYCE PINCHOT

(Written exclusively for and copyright, 1933, by International News Service.)

MILFORD, Pa., May 12.—The sweatshop manufacturer is nothing more or less than a racketeer, living upon the funds raised for relief just as effectively as if he broke into the vault in the bank where these funds are stored.

That is no exaggeration. Let me show you how it works.

Many of them are paying $4, $3, sometimes $2 or even less, for a week's work—full days, mind you. The long hours, often overtime, sometimes even work on Sundays. And with every one speeded up to the limit it is obvious that on such a sum, it is impossible for any man, woman or child to live in decency, less to support dependents.

LARGE FAMILIES

In all the interviews I have had, I do not remember a single case where the worker was not contributing to the support of perhaps three or four, sometimes as many as 11 or more members of his or her family with only a few dollars coming in a week.

What can a family do?

What does it do but apply for help to the county relief board in the majority of cases.

Asking for such relief is the last thing the family wants. Indeed, over and over again, they put off applying for help until their health and morale has been broken down, until all sorts of diseases associated with malnutrition have started to sap their resistance and that of their children.

When the application does come, however, the relief board is forced to act. The family cannot be allowed to starve, so the help is given, enough to make up the difference between what the wage earner brings in and what it costs that family to keep body and soul together.

In other words, the community chest pays part of the manufacturers' wage bill; pays because it cannot let the family starve.

So you see, the sweatshop manufacturers are not only exploiting their own workers, but they are robbing the community as well, by dipping their greedly fingers into the community chest funds and getting the public to carry a definite share of their business obligations.

WIDE RAMIFICATIONS

That is not the only harm they do. The ramifications of their evil practices extend farther than the immediate communities in which they live; extend to the business life of the country itself, operating to destroy its vitality exactly as the starvation wages they pay operate to break down the health of their employes.

It is obvious that no worker of such wages can possibly buy the products of any other mill or factory; no shoes, no shirts, no suits, no hat, no radio, no new car, no gasoline, no coal, no milk for his children, no canned goods, etc.

Thus the racketeering manufacturer is responsible for closing down and keeping closed more and more factories and so throws a stone into the millpond of industrial life that hits thousands of other businessmen as well as their employes.

HURTS OWN BUSINESS

And this racketeering manufacturer is not only hurting his community and the business life of the community in which he lives, but he is hurting his own business as well, although he is often so dumb that he cannot see it.

His argument is that the best thing that he can do for business is to cut costs to bring down the price of the article he sells. That is the excuse he gives for cutting wages.

What in the name of heaven, however, is the good to him of putting a shirt on the market that can be sold for 25 cents if people are so poor they cannot afford to buy the shirt that he makes?

MAUG'S SISTER WINS FREEDOM

Mrs. Edward Friedel, 25, of 116 West Erie street, sister of John Maug, the killer still at large after his recent escape from the Western Penitentiary, was declared not guilty in a directed verdict by a jury in Judge Harry H. Rowand's court, of charges of possessing explosives and being accessory after the fact of robbery.

Maug's sweetheart, Gladys Jackson, and two of the killer's sisters pleaded guilty to the same charges and were paroled from heavy sentences several weeks ago. They all were arrested at the time of the Maug gang capture and were alleged by police to have "cooked" the explosives used by the gang in blowing safes.

Mrs. Friedel declared she knew nothing about the nitroglycerine and dynamite found by the police and was ignorant of the stolen money found in her home.

When Assistant District Attorney Earl R. Jackson told the court the state had no direct evidence against Mrs. Friedel, Judge Rowand directed the jury to acquit her.

Mayview Mystery Man Identified By Priest

"John Doe," mystery man at the city hospital, Mayview, has been identified after seven years.

He is Albert Totaro, 47, of 243 Carver street.

Officials of Mayview took the mystery man to the Larimer avenue district yesterday. There the Rev. Sigismondi Rosati, pastor of the Help of Christians Church, Meadow street, identified him.

Then the mask that darkened his mind lifted. He recognized his brother Anthony, of 243 Carver street, and several relatives. Next came his friends.

Totaro came out of nowhere. No one knew him. Effort to find his home, friends and relatives were fruitless. He was suffering from a loss of memory.

Dr. J. C. MacLean and Fred Glynn, both of the Mayview staff, pieced together Totaro's past. They had only this simple story to work from in the hospital records:

"Found September 9, 1926, with heavy beard, a recluse in a vacant house on the Boulevard of the Allies, near Seneca street. Height 5 feet 5½ inches; weight 200 pounds; number 10281; age, unknown."

MORE U. S. DEBS BOW TO QUEEN

LONDON, May 12.—(INS.)—Eight more American debutantes and matrons will make their double curtsey to the English throne tonight in the second of the five royal courts of 1933. They are:

Mrs. Heyward Cutting, of New York City; Mrs. F. Hamilton Dyckman, of Orange, N. J.; Miss Alice Geyelin, of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Mrs. Arthur Lehman Goodhart, of New York City; Mrs. Franklin C. Gowen, of Philadelphia, Miss Augusta Harrison, of Villa Nova, Pa.; Mrs. John P. Upham, of St. Paul, Minn., and Mrs. Frederick Bate, of Chicago.

Although he spent a good night, King George will be prevented by rheumatism from attending tonight's court, as he was last night's.

At the first of the royal courts last night, eight American women made their bows to Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales, who deputized for his father.

The prince wore the kilted ceremonial uniform of the Seaforth Highlanders, of which he is a colonel. In doing so he paid a typical compliment to this regiment which recently suffered odium through conviction of one of its officers, Lieut. Norman Baillie-Stewart, under the official secrets act.

Tattle Murder Defense Seeks to Upset Guilty Verdict

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—A fight to overturn the verdict that convicted Harry Murch, 16, of murdering a 12-year-old chum was mapped by defense counsel today.

Murch stared stolidly last night when a jury—including 10 fathers—adjudged him guilty of second degree murder for luring Willie Bender to a deserted house, binding and gagging him on a pretense of playing a game, and then plunging a knife into his heart.

The state said he wanted to get even with Willie for "snitching."

Murch faces a sentence of 20 years to life.

His mother fainted in the courtroom last night and was carried out.

Defense counsel, accusing detectives of keeping Murch without food from 4 p. m. until 3 a. m., when he signed a confession, said:

"In the eyes of God, he's a baby."

But the judge said:

"A defendant over 12 years of age is presumed to be responsible for his acts."

KILLINGS LAID TO REVENGE

NEW YORK, May 12.—(Universal.)—The millionaire "Scrooge of the Ghetto"—88-year-old Edward A. Ridley—was murdered with his 45-year-old secretary, Lee Weinstein, by a revenge-seeking madman who two years ago last January killed Ridley's former secretary and bookkeeper, 60-year-old Herman Moench.

This was announced by Chief Inspector John Sullivan as headquarters detectives pored over yellowed records of loans, mortgages and rents in the musty sub-basement office in the lower East Side where the mutilated bodies of Ridley and Weinstein were found Wednesday.

Beyond the revenge theory, and the striking similarity with the murder of Moench, who spent 51 years on a tall bookkeeping stool in Ridley's employ before his body was found under a desk in the same subterranean office two years ago, police had no clues.

The will of the frugal eccentric left $200,000 to the bookkeeper killed with him and yielded no clue as to the identity of his slayer, although as recently as two weeks ago Ridley casually told a cousin his life had been threatened.

STEEL OUTPUT CONTINUES TO GAIN

month. A statement by officials of the Postal Telegraph Company said:

"There has been a considerable improvement and we figure we have turned the corner. The advance in telegraph business is not confined to steel, but is general, indicating a thorough business improvement. Traffic over private business wires has gone up steadily since January, especially in the last three weeks."

STEEL RELEASES TO AID

The increase in Western Union business has been brought about by a renewed activity on the part of sales departments of industrial concerns, it was reported. A large part of the telegrams have been purchasing orders and others have quoted prices.

Local steel heads viewed with optimism the 23,572 gain in unfilled steel orders reported by the United States Steel Corporation and there was assurance that Pittsburgh mills would share in approximately 75,000 tons of new business about to be let in the country.

This new business consists of 38,000 tons of structural steel to be used in large construction projects throughout the nation, 25,000 tons of new rails for the Pennsylvania Railroad and 12,000 tons of rails for the New York Central, of which Pittsburgh's share should be appreciable, according to experts.

Although unconfirmed, a considerable portion of this business is said to be destined for the Homestead mill of the Carnegie Steel Company.

IDLE CARS DECLINE

While an official statement by the National Tube Company viewed the general steel and industrial picture with confidence, it held out no prospects for an immediate pickup in its own production. The statement, in part, said:

"Indications are in all industries that an increase in business may be expected. National Tube was one of the last to feel the effects of the depression and quite naturally, it might be expected, recovery of its business will be slow."

The railroad picture, for the first time in several months, presents a bright spot on the business horizon, according to Robert Harlan, secretary of the Allegheny regional advisory board.

In the wake of the Pennsylvania's reported 5.5 per cent increase in car loadings for the first week in May over that same week of last year, Harlan announced the surplus in idle freight cars for the country was reduced for the week of April 14 from 681,203 to 650,966.

Surplus coal cars for April 14 showed a decrease of 1,647 cars over the previous week.

COAL SALES IMPROVE

Western Pennsylvania coal operators were encouraged today by the report that the businss of Appalachian Coals, Inc., the first central coal sales agency, has a "most promising outlook for the first three months of its existence," according to J. D. Francis, of Huntington, W. Va., president.

Interest in this report here is due to the fact that plans are now being made for a similar regional sales organization for Western Pennsylvania.

A month's production is represented in four large orders announced today by the National Fireproofing Corporation, with headquarters in Pittsburgh. They are 120 carloads of interior facing material for the $10,000,000 federal building in Philadelphia, 100 carloads of floor, fireproofing and partition units for the federal building in Pittsburgh, and contracts for the Minneapolis postoffice, Shreveport army barracks and the Plattsburg barracks.

C. W. Luton, a refinery manager of the Valvoline Oil Company, has announced the plant is 30 days behind orders and is working three shifts of 200 men daily.

Announcement of a 200 per cent increase in tire production over March in the Akron (O.) factories of the B. F. Goodrich Company was made today by President J. D. Tew. New schedules will bring reemployment for a number of former employes. Six hundred workers have been re-employed by Goodrich in 30 days.

Definite improvement has been noted by students of the glass industry in all three of its branches. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company has noted an increase in orders. The United States Glass Company's plant at Glassport has felt the effects of the demand for beer glasses and the J. T. & A. Hamilton Company, of Pittsburgh, and the Glenshaw Glass Company have taken a spurt in the manufacturing of bottles, according to reports.

Employment pickup in the glass business in this district has been estimated at 10 per cent by authorities.

An increase of about 10 per cent also has been recorded in recent weeks in the cork and allied products industry.

Department store figures became encouraging today, sales showing a decline less than seasonal from March 4 to April, according to the Federal Reserve Board's sales index.

Except where otherwise indicated, the data cover, approximately, 11 counties in Western Pennsylvania.

FARLEY TO FILL FEDERAL JOBS

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP.)—Postmaster General Farley last night pleaded with impatient patronage-seeking House Democrats to sustain him in his efforts to deal out some 150,000 federal jobs for the benefit of the party nationally and locally.

Meeting with nearly 300 representatives, Farley explained the problems of handling the "deluge of applications" and assured his audience that the jobs would be filled with deserving Democrats as rapidly as possible.

Farley explained that in handling patronage, he was trying to fill the "key places" first and added that places under the key appointees could not be filled until the Senate confirmed the "key men." This had occasioned delay, he said.

Goodrich Output Gains 200 Per Cent

AKRON, O., May 12.—(INS.)—An increase of 200 per cent in production during May over March was announced here today by the B. F. Goodrich Company, one of the largest rubber concerns here.

At the same time, J. D. Tew, president, revealed that the company started operations today on a 24-hour day, six-day week basis.

URGES CAUTION IN GIVING RUM

Physicians today were warned not to relax precautions in prescribing liquor despite the new law permitting unlimited prescriptions by Dr. Robert L. Anderson, chairman of the Allegheny County Medical Society legislation committee.

Dr. Anderson quoted and indorsed a statement issued by Dr. Charles Falkowsky, Jr., of Scranton, president of the State Medical Society, declaring:

"Though the medical profession has won part of its long fight on principle enabling a physician to prescribe as much spiritous liquor as he deems necessary for his patient, every doctor must be extremely cautious to prescribe only an amount needed."

Dr. Anderson urged each physician to observe the same precautions deemed necessary under the old law, to prevent patients from taking advantage of the liberal ruling for any financial gains.

Auto Driver Freed In Beer Drinking

MEADVILLE, Pa., May 12.—(AP.)—William Yeager is clear of a charge of driving while intoxicated, lodged after he drank one bottle of 3.2 beer. A jury acquitted him and pinned the costs on the prosecutor.

Michigan Hails Return of Beer

DETROIT, May 12.—(AP.)—Beer was back in Michigan today and several hundred thousand persons were prepared to testify that it has the old-time flavor, real labels and everything.

Washington County Beer Permits Sought

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 12.—More than 1,000 applications for beer permits were received by County Treasurer C. E. Carothers yesterday.

BEER REVENUE HELPING U. S., SAYS RAINEY

Revenues from beer are already larger than anticipated, according to Henry T. Rainey, Speaker of the House of Representatives. He spoke from Pittsburgh over radio station KDKA last night to the annual meeting of the American Association of Advertising Agencies in Washington, where he was scheduled as guest speaker of the evening.

Mr. Rainey, on a speaking tour, has been flying on his route. He was stranded in Pittsburgh by the storm.

SEES HUGE YIELD

Speaking of the revenue from beer he said:

"It is not too much to hope that from this source alone, there will pour into the Treasury of the United States, during the next fiscal year, $150,000,000. The induced revenue from related industries started in motion from the manufacture of beer will soon be in evidence."

He believes confidence is rapidly being restored and that the administration program of reconstruction will succeed because of the co-operation of Democrats, Republicans and the public in general.

POINTS TO RELIEF

He continued:

"Already the measure which provides for mortgage relief for farmers is about to operate. Moratoriums, payments of past due interest, moratoriums on all taxes, and lower interest rates are all provided in this particular legislation.

"But while we are restoring economic conditions to normal, we cannot afford to permit people to suffer, and the bill providing half a billion dollars for direct relief for states will also soon be in operation."

Mr Rainey predicted a balanced federal budget within the next fiscal year and a gradual recovery from present economic conditions.

Mill Worker's Body Found in Shed

The body of John Creamer, 51, 624 Minnesota street, was found in a shed at the rear of 143 Greenfield avenue today. The shed was occupied by two other men, attaches of the Coroner's office said. Creamer was employed at the Pittsburgh works of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation. The cause of death was not determined.

3.2 Beer Illegal Judge Rules in Dry Stronghold

GREELEY, Col., May 12.—(AP.)—Sweeping aside the opinions of some of the ablest constitutional lawyers in Congress, who aided in drafting the 3.2 per cent beer bill, District Judge Claude C. Coffin has declared its passage in violation of the Constitution.

In his decision yesterday, which denied the Greeley Elks Club and Fred N. Fetch, cafe owner, a writ of mandamus which they sought to compel the Greeley City Council to issue beer permits, Judge Coffin said the Congressional declaration that 3.2 beer is non-intoxicating is contrary to the "general known physical facts."

APPEAL LIKELY

Fetch said he may appeal the decision immediately to the state Supreme Court and possibly to the Federal Courts. The judge said:

"Congress, by legislative action, might state that gasoline is non-inflammable, but that does not keep it from burning.

"I think that not only the state beer law but the act of Congress legalizing 3.2 beer is an attempted evasion of the Eighteenth Amendment, and hence, unconstitutional and invalid.

"It follows that, as the privileges asked for by these petitioners are claimed through an invalid law, that the right asked for should not be granted."

BASIS FOR DECISION

The basis for his decision, he said, was a Rhode Island case in which the Supreme Court held that neither Congress nor Legislatures may pass measures "thwarting or evading provisions of the U. S. Constitution."

Greeley long has been a dry stronghold and deeds to most of the property in the city provide that if intoxicating liquors ever are sold on the premises title shall revert to the Union Colony, original owners of the town site.

Judge Coffin is a Republican, but in his political campaigns has never been aligned either as a wet or a dry.

BEER LICENSE FORMS SENT TO COUNTY

Beer license application forms have been shipped from Harrisburg, according to word received in the County Treasurer's office today, and it is believed that licensing of distributors and retailers here can start Monday.

Printers are already at work on the licenses, the contract for 20,000 engraved certificates having been let yesterday by County Commissioners.

FORMS AWAITED

Deputy County Treasurer A. E. Anke has been in charge in the office in the absence of Treasurer Robert S. Cain, who returned today. According to Anke, no license applications are being accepted until the official forms are ready.

Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank said that later the use of blanks printed by outside sources may be allowed as long as the forms are legal.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park has found that the Legislature gave him an additional duty in making him the legal representative of the County Treasurer in beer licensing disputes. As a consequence Park has been giving some study to the new beer laws.

CONFERENCES NEEDED

As some sections of the law are vague enough to require considerable interpretation, it is believed numerous conferences between the County Treasurer, County Solicitor and District Attorney will be in order before the law takes effect June 1.

Appeals from refusals of the County Treasurer to issue licenses will be heard by Judge Samuel H. Gardner, now presiding in Quarter Sessions Court.

Modern Girl Not A 'Dish Bather,' Says Educator

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 12.—The modern girl is not a "floor manager" or a "dish bather," co-eds of Seton Hill College were told in a lecture by Dr. Henry Charles McKown, of the education department of the University of Pittsburgh.

The attitude of a few years ago regarding woman as a "lesser man" has greatly changed, he said.

LONG PROPOSES 100 PCT. TAX

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(INS.)—Efforts to convert a minor tax measure into an instrument for the "redistribution of wealth" were launched in the Senate today by Democratic and Republican insurgents. They were doomed to defeat.

Senator Long (Dem.), of Louisiana, urged his amendment providing a new surtax schedule increasing to 100 per cent on incomes above $3,000,000.

A less drastic but still formidable surtax increase was sponsored by Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota. He said:

"We must do something to check the hothouse growth of millionaires that will spring up as a result of the currency inflation program."

EDUCATOR WINS IN FRAUD CASE

MEADVILLE, Pa., May 12.—(AP.)—Paul J. Murphy, former principal of Titusville High School, was acquitted yesterday of four charges of fraudulent conversion of school funds.

Costs were divided between Murphy and the School Board, the prosecutor. Thirteen counts of conversion and forgery remain to be tried. About $5,000 is involved.

COURT CHECKS WIFE'S SPEEDY TESTIMONY

Mrs. Bessie May Trich, 615 Walnut street, McKeesport, talked so fast yesterday in asking Judge Frank P. Patterson for a divorce from Howard Paul Trich, that the court told her that if she did not slow down he might find a reason why her husband left her. Then Mrs. Trich remarked:

"I beg your pardon, but I just cannot help talking fast."

Judge Patterson told the libellant no stenographer could take testimony as fast as she was talking, although C. H. McKibben, the court reporter who took the testimony, is known as a lightning recorder.

Mrs. Trech testified her husband had threatened frequently to kill her. She had no witnesses of ill treatment, she said, because her husband was never abusive when any third party was present.

Mrs. Hazel W. Lewis, 145 Grant avenue, Bellevue, told Judge Patterson, in asking a divorce from Albert D. Lewis, that her husband once seized her mother, threw her down and threatened to kill her.

Mrs. Lewis said this occurred when her mother was visiting her. Lewis, his wife said, was jealous and accused her of "running around."

Lewis also threatened often to kill her, she testified. She gave Vilsack road as the address of her husband, who is charged with indignities. He did not contest the action.

BENEFIT SHOW ON SUNDAY

Residentts of the East End district will turn out next Sunday for the big food benefit show to be held at the Sheridan Square Theater from 2 until 11 p. m. under the auspices of the Emerson Club of Sacred Heart Church, Shady avenue and Walnut street.

Donations of food will be the only "tickets" required and this food will be distributed to the poor of this parish irrespective of church affiliations. The Rev. Father E. Lawrence O'Connell, who is arranging the details of the affair, has been advised by Manager J. O. Hooley, of the theater, that an unusually big program will be offered.

Father O'Connell said this morning:

"We hope that the 'Mother's Day' appeal will be the guiding spirit of the public in bringing donations of food to this benefit show Sunday.

"This year, more than ever, there are mothers in our immediate midst who are carrying burdens greater than ever before.

"There are many mothers face-to-face with real hunger, and I hope that there will be enough food donated Sunday to supply all mothers within my call."

ARMY PLANES MEET IN AIR

RIVERSIDE, Cal., May 12.—(AP.)—In a four-hour maneuver yesterday some 300 planes of the United States Army Air Corps made a successful rendezvous over the municipal airport at Los Angeles at an altitude of 7,000 feet.

The craft were assembled there under wireless commands by Brig. Gen. Oscar Westover, commander of the air force, after taking off from the central base here.

The maneuvers were the fourth in the series to be executed during three weeks of training here.

The first accident occurred when a bomber of the 95th Squadron, Langley Field, was damaged in landing, but the crew was not injured.

WIDOW FREED IN KILLING OF CONSTABLE

Three men were indicted for murder and a death charge against a widow was ignored by the county grand jury late yesterday.

Mrs. Anna Lane, of 39 South Emily street, Crafton, was freed on the fatal shooting of her husband, Constable George Lane, 42, at their home, March 24. The grand jury ignored the bill. It was testified Lane came home intoxicated and attempted to beat his wife, who shot him in self-defense.

Ross Madio was indicted on a murder charge in the death of Joseph M. Stiegler, 28, of 3208 Mitchell street, April 1.

It was testified there had been enmity between the men for about a year. Stiegler got out of his automobile in front of 3218 Central avenue, where he met Madio. He removed his glasses and coat to fight. They clinched, and Madio stabbed Stiegler more than a dozen times with a knife, according to police reports.

Edward Warsheck, of Blawnox, was indicted for the killing of Joseph Szparkowski, 40, of Blawnox, who died in St. Margaret's Hospital March 19 from illness resulting from a fracture of the jaw, said to have been suffered in a fight.

James Watson, Negro, was indicted for the death of Matthew Bryant, Negro, of 843 Mumford street, stabbed in a fight February 22.

POLICE MANUAL BILL WAITS O. K.

What will be done with a bill asking $1,000 payment for police manuals ordered by the former police superintendent, Peter P. Walsh, was undecided today, awaiting the return of Mayor John S. Herron, Superintendent Franklin T. McQuaide asserted.

The manuals, to be sold police for $1 apiece, met police grumbles when put up for sale in April. They refused to pay for them, feeling they were the same as the old ones with one exception—they had Walsh's name on them.

Council refused to appropriate for such booklets in the budget sessions. McQuaide said today:

"It strikes me that some sort of a bill pertaining to police manuals came, but I laid it aside, not knowing the nature of it. I'm not familiar with the proposition, and will wait until the Mayor returns and has a chance to discuss it."

The work was undertaken privately by the William G. Johnston Company, Walsh said.

WARD CHAIRMAN ACQUITTED

Harry Feldman, of 321 Melwood street, chairman of the Fifth Ward, and Louis A. Schwartz, of 3337 Webster avenue, employes in the City Bureau of Building Inspection, were found not guilty of conspiracy to indict in a verdict directed by Judge W. Heber Dithrich, in Criminal Court today.

Abe Feldman, recently deposed crusading constable of the Fifth Ward, had brought the action following his acquittal in a trial caused by informations of Harry Feldman and Schwartz that he voted when not a citizen.

The jury today divided the costs between the two Feldmans and Schwartz.

FOUR DROWNED IN AUTO PLUNGE

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., May 12.—(AP.)—Four persons are believed drowned in the swollen waters of Elk Creek early today. The automobile in which they were riding plunged off the road.

Joe Polis, 18, of Fairmont, apparently was the only survivor. Others in the car were Mary Polis, 26, his sister; Mrs. Mary Polis, 24, his sister-in-law; Miss Gail Merrifield, 24, of Mannington, and the driver, a Barracksville barber.

Police, firemen and volunteers are searching for bodies.

West View Woman Wills Son Estate

The will of Mrs. Mary Hogan, of West View, filed for probate today, leaves the bulk of her $5,500 estate to her son, Andrew E. Hogan. Rose Marmo is named executor.

Millionaire's Wife Robbed of $30,500

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—(INS.)—Two bandits entered the home of Mrs. Marian Smith, wife of Edward Morris Smith, millionaire machinery manufacturer, while she was alone, and robbed her of cash, jewels and furs valued at $30,500, police reported today.

Boy Hurt Helping Baby Robin to Nest

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., May 12.—Aiding a baby robin to get back into its nest, Clarence Freeman, 19, Marion High School student, fell 15 feet from the limb of a tree. He suffered concussion of the brain.

Cardinals Greet Pope on Name Day

VATICAN CITY, May 12.—(INS.)—Pope Pius XI received Name Day congratulations from 24 cardinals in the papal library of the Vatican today.

County to Reject Mail Short of Stamps

A general order to county employes to refuse mail on which additional postage is needed has been issued by the County Commissioners.

This especially pertains to bids received at the Controller's office, where on many occasions it has been necessary for county employes to dig down in their own pockets for the extra pennies.

Bidders are warned by the Commissioners that their communications will have the necessary postage or be refused.

HAIL SOPRANO IN U. S. DEBUT

OMAHA, Neb., May 12.—(AP.)—Annunciata Garrotto, 24, lyric soprano, made her American debut before a capacity audience in the Omaha City auditorium last night and captured the hearts and plaudits of her home-town hearers.

Miss Garrotto, known to her friends as "Nuncy," scored a brilliant triumph—a triumph that overshadowed in her mind the many others she had scored during a four-year career that saw her singing her way almost around the world before returning to Omaha.

Down in the front row, their faces shining with pride and happiness, sat Mr. and Mrs. Aflio Garrotto, immigrant Italians, who came to this country in 1903.

Mother, Three Girls Killed by Blaze

ELWOOD, Ind., May 12.—(AP.)—A mother and her three children were burned to death today when fire destroyed their home here.

The victims were Mrs. Eva Sosbe, 42, and her daughters, Marjorie, 8; Marion, 17, and Beulah, 19.

MOTHER, YOUTH BURIED IN SAND

ALLENTOWN, May 12.—(AP.)—A mother and her son, buried waist-deep in an abandoned sandpit beside the Bowmanstown-Ashfield highway, were rescued by motorists using improvised tools and bare hands.

The victims, Mrs. Naomi Koons and William Koons, 19, of Lehighton, were taken to the Palmerton Hospital, both injured severely.

Tribute to Friendship Of Howe, Roosevelt

BALTIMORE, May 12.—(AP.)—A scroll entitled "America's finest friendship" will be presented Louis McHenry Howe by the Men's and Mother's Clubs of the First Methodist Episcopal Church here as a tribute of the friendship between him and President Roosevelt.

The presentation will be made at a banquet at the church next Thursday night at which Howe, who is the President's secretary, will be the principal speaker.

WINGS CONTEST APPROVED BY AERO CLUB

"Win Your Wings," an aviation contest for boys and girls from 6 to 60, which begins in The Sun-Telegraph next Sunday, has won the approval of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh, and leaders of practically every phase of the aviation industry in Pittsburgh.

Ten prizes, including a full course of pilot's instruction, mechanics' and pilots' ground courses, round-trip flights to Chicago, Washington, Cleveland and Akron, are being given away in this novel and interesting contest. It is a contest anyone can enter and enjoy.

SERIAL STORY

Instructive as well as entertaining, the contest centers around the experiences of a young student pilot whose activities from day to day will be recorded in serial form. Read this fascinating story; follow the installments from day to day. Answer the questions which follow each installment and send your answers together with an essay of 250 words or less to the "Win Your Wings" Contest Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Telegraph Square, Pittsburgh.

Five judges will be chosen to pick the winners. They will be men actively identified with the aviation industry. They will choose the winners for their accuracy, merit and neatness. The names of the judges will be announced simultaneously with the opening of the contest Sunday.

PRIZES OFFERED

Prizes will be awarded as follows:

First prize will be the choice of a pilot's course at the Penn School or a round trip to Chicago, good for 60 days.

Second prize will be the choice of a mechanic's course and full apprenticeship or two round trip flights to Washington, D. C., good for 60 days.

Third prize — Pilot's ground course or one round trip flight to Washington.

Fourth prize—Choice of pilot's ground course or two round trip flights to Cleveland.

Fifth prize—One round trip to Cleveland.

Sixth to tenth prizes, inclusive—Round trip flights to Akron.

Dry Cleaners' Safe Broken, Robbed

The combination of the safe of Sismour's, dry cleaners and dyers, 1399 Hodgkiss street, was broken off early today and an undetermined amount of cash stolen, according to a report to city detectives.

WASHES STREET HIMSELF

CARL RIEBEL: 'I WAS ARRESTED FOR WASHING AWAY THAT...'

BATTLES MUD WITH FIRE PLUG

Carl Riebel, who conducts a beer parlor at Twenty-seventh and Jane streets, South Side, today pointed to the mud and slime that covered the corner and was trekked into his establishment by feet from the beer parade.

Arrested, then discharged yesterday for turning on the fire hydrant to wash the slime from the streets, he had this to say:

"See for yourself. The sewer grates are on the high instead of the low corners. The mud and dirt piles up and comes into the place, splatters the walls. The street cleaners were here today, but you can see the only way to keep the place at all clean is by turning on the water from the plug."

The city today sent a dozen men and four trucks and with sprinkler and hose, cleaned the mud from the area.

17th Ward Women To Hold Card Party

The Women's Regular Republican Club of the Seventeenth Ward will hold a dance and card party tonight in Old Turner Hall, Eighteenth and Jane streets.

ROOSEVELT SON HAPPY IN JOB WITH AIRLINE

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—Another Roosevelt has rolled up his sleeves and gone to work.

Tackling the task of earning a living, Elliott Roosevelt, 22-year-old son of the President, yesterday assumed his duties as general manager of the Gilpin Airlines.

Earlier in the day his appointment to the post had been announced by H. C. Caffrey, secretary-treasurer of the company.

Flashing a typical Roosevelt smile, the husky son of the nation's leader outlined his plans for a career as an aviation executive, saying:

"I've been interested in aeronautics for six years. I believe in aviation, and when I was given this chance to get into it actively I wasted no time in accepting the offer. I've got a lot to learn, I know. But I'm going to spend 20 hours a day, if necessary, learning it."

His arrival in Los Angeles by automobile from Tucson, Ariz., brought him to Southern California for the first time. He remarked:

"I'm glad to be here, I'm glad to have a job and I've got an overwhelming determination to make good—strictly on my own."

Describing himself as the "smallest member of my family," the youth is a stalwart six-footer. He is equipped with a pair of keen blue eyes and has a shock of blond hair.

Business Men, Sons Of 'Y' Hold Outing

Members of the Business Men's Club of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. and their sons will have their fifth semi-annual outing at Ross Mountain, near New Florence, tomorrow. Over 100 will make the trip, according to Henry Meermans, director of the club.

Earthquake Shock Felt in Bulgaria

SOFIA, May 12.—(AP.)—A sharp earthquake shock was felt here and at other points in Bulgaria last night. The epicenter was believed to be outside Bulgaria, possibly in Greek Macedonia. No damage was reported here.

STATE MARKING HOSPITAL DAY

Thousands of citizens throughout the state were observing Hospital Day today, with visits to their local institutions.

A. R. Hazard, of Easton, is chairman for the event, which is signalized by exhibits of X-ray, laboratory research, surgery and other hospital work. Radio talks on public service rendered by hospitals in the present emergency were to be broadcast from Pittsburgh and other cities.

ORMER MINERS LEARNING NEW OCCUPATIONS

Turning the surplus miners' ef- rts to new crafts and making ining communities self-sustain- g for the thousands who never pect to return to mining for a elihood is receiving the atten- on of the American Friends' rvice Committee.

Making of chairs, tables and ands, shoes and woven cloths are nong experiments being carried it, according to Clarence E. ickett, executive secretary. Mr. ickett was a speaker at the merican Mining Congress, which osed its sessions yesterday at the otel William Penn.

EN, WOMEN TAUGHT

The first experiment was estab- shed at Crown Mine, a closed ine near Morgantown. Services Bud Godlove, who had earned s living for years making chairs ccording to patterns handed own in his family, were obtained nd he taught 17 miners his craft.

Women were taught carpet eaving and the making of bed overlets and scarfs. A second ex- eriment along the same crafts as established at nearby Cheat anyon.

In a group of six communities in learfield and Cambria counties, second type of experiment was tablished. Raw wool is purchased nd the method of washing, dye- ng, carding, spinning, weaving nd tailoring is being developed. everal men knew how to tan ides. Hides now are purchased rom nearby farmers at 2 cents a ound and turned into finished ork shoes. Flax is being grown o develop linen weaving.

ARMING UNDERTAKEN

Agriculture has not been over- ooked. An 80-acre tract has been ased for six families to determine e importance of turning surplus iners to farms.

Throughout the experiments, e objective of making self-sus- aining communities is being car- ied on both by a cash and a bar- er basis. Goods are sold to some xtent to outside communities. dditional cash is earned by men btaining part-time work in the ines.

BAND ACCUSED AS HIJACKERS

Thirteen men, four of them ac- used of some of the biggest hi- acking jobs in Allegheny County, vere rounded up by State Police rom the Greensburg barracks to- lay.

Among the robberies charged are the $10,000 tire job near Wil- kinsburg last August; a $3,000 general merchandising truck rob- bery near Glenfield; a $6,000 hi- jacking of electric refrigerators and washing machines on the William Penn highway, near Burke Glen, and a robbery of the Anderson garage, New Alexandria, last March which netted $1,000 accessories.

Charged with robbery are Patsy Tierno, 29; his brother, Raymond, 21, New Alexandria; Joseph Hanlon, 20, of 32 Emmett street, Pittsburgh, and James Hugh, 24, of 2907 Home avenue, Overbrook.

Charged with receiving stolen goods are Harry Siffer, 29, and Lewis Essner, 29, Duquesne; E. J. Fogel, 53, Morgantown, W. Va.; Benjamin Bondy, 43, McKeesport; Emanuel Epstein, 40, of Guarino road, Pittsburgh; Fred Hoffman, 32, and Sam Grossman, 43, McKeesport; Henry Samovitz, 30, Braddock, and Leon Freidman, 6332 Phillips avenue, Pittsburgh.

SEIZE SUSPECT IN RAIL THREAT

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—(AP.)—An unemployed truck driver, said by police to have demanded $75,000 in a series of letters to the Pennsylvania Railroad under threat of blowing up passenger trains, was held today.

Police said the man, who identified himself as James Vanderslice, 32, admitted writing the letters but stated the threats were a "bluff" made to obtain funds to support his undernourished wife and three children.

The letters demanded the $75,000 in bills of specific denominations and asserted nitroglycerin would be used to wreck trains.

City and railroad detectives arrested Vanderslice as he reached into the rumble seat of a parked automobile which was supposed to contain the money demanded.

Big Freight Planes To Have 80-Mi. Speed

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP.)—Freight planes that would travel at 80 miles an hour and carry three automobiles were predicted for the near future by L. B. Manning, president of the board of American Airways.

Manning said plans for the planes were nearing completion at Wayne, Mich., and that construction would be started within a few months.

Merchants' League Leader Backs F. R.

PITT STUDENTS WIN HONORS

E. H. R. Pegg, of Uniontown, was selected the outstanding student in the 1933 graduating class of the University of Pittsburgh School of Engineering by a committee of students and faculty members.

Awards were given to five other seniors representing all departments of the engineering school. They were Elliot W. Mason, of Crafton; Allan A. Currie, of Erie; Laurence A. Shick, of Latrobe; Paul F. Phelan, of 519 Avery street and Charles B. Gump, Jr., of 7160 Upland street.

Each man will receive a paid membership in the Pittsburgh Engineering Alumni Association. In addition to this, Pegg will be given membership in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

What Mothers Do When Child Ails In Dead of Night

Thousands Save Heartache, Worry; Give Youngsters "The Family Physician" Medicine

Thousands of mothers who used to worry themselves to the verge of nervous breakdown every time one of the children took sick now rely on "The Family Physician" medicine to ease the little one, break fever, soothe tortured membranes and bring sleep while waiting for the doctor to come.

This famous old medicine, which has been in use for 68 years, is now being explained by a special laboratory representative at the Sun Drug Store, 211 Diamond St., Pittsburgh. Don't fail to see him and learn how this remarkable preparation can save you hours of heartache and worry, keep the children fit and regular, and bring them through the summer in tip-top condition.

It's really amazing the swift relief which this simple, harmless herbal medicine brings in many cases. Often when a child suddenly runs a fever in the dead of night because of sick stomach, a cold, or constipation, a few spoons of "The Family Physician" sweetens the stomach, soothes the membranes and breaks temperature. Generally the tot goes to sleep before the doctor arrives. So "The Family Physician" makes mother's heart lighter and doctor's work easier. You no longer have to get your doctor out of bed for every little ache or pain if you have "The Family Physician" medicine at hand.

MOTHER AND GRANDMOTHER SAY IT'S "BEST MEDICINE"

"I think 'The Family Physician' is the best medicine made for colds and sore throats, but for that matter it's just as good for upset stomach and clogged bowels. My mother used it for us children as far back as I can remember. I count on its help, too, when anyone in the family takes sick." Mrs. John Funk, West Arlington, Md.

Every single bottle of "The Family Physician" medicine is carefully and religiously made after the original formula of the late Dr. John T. Houchens, its discoverer. Every single bottle is guaranteed effective. Unless you receive prompt, effective results, your money will be refunded. Don't fail to see the special laboratory representative at the Sun Drug Store, 211 Diamond St., Pittsburgh. Bring the children.

WINE SHIPMENT REACHES HERE

The first shipment of legal wine—the kind that contains 4 per cent alcohol by volume—arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday from the Mouquin wineries in New York.

The allotment filled orders of long standing, and it was being served today in many of Pittsburgh's leading restaurants. The largest part of the shipment, howver, went to private homes.

McClements, Wood street, distributors of the new drink, aver that it contains the same flavor as the real product. Seven varieties were included in the shipment.

CHARGES MATE ALREADY WED

Elizabeth Sears, 126 South Sinclair street, who says her husband, John Sears, also known as Henry E. Sees, had anothr wife when he married her, has filed a libel in divorce, asking for annulment of the marriage.

Mrs. Sears alleges that Sears was married to Frona Sees on July 9, 1919, under the name of Henry E. Sees. The libel sets forth that Mrs. Sears and John Sears were married July 21, 1926. Sears' address was given as 434 Brownsville road.

Libels in divorce also were filed by Edward E. Patton against Dorothy Patton and by Jeanie H. Rehnstrom against Edward L. Rehnstrom.

TOWN TO BUILD NEW HOSPITAL

SAYRE, May 12.—(AP.)—The Robert Packer Hospital, destroyed by fire, will be replaced by a seven-story building to cost $300,000 the directors of the institution had announced today.

Work on the new structure, which will accommodate 285 patients, will be started within 30 days.

Several parts of the old hospital buildings which remained standing after the fire, are being used to carry on the hospital's work.

FIREMEN SAVE CAT IN CHIMNEY

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Little Evelyn Harmon's 11-year-old cat is in her second kittenhood, causing firemen trouble, no end.

Old enough to know better, Tabby got frisky, crawled into a chimney—and fell 70 feet down to the second floor.

Evelyn cried. Firemen bored a hole through the wall—and just then Tabby fell to the first floor. A hole was bored there—and Tabby scuttled to the third floor. The third hole got her.

MALONE SCORES HERRON, COYNE AND RACKETS

By MARK SHIELDS

James F. Malone, candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination, last night in an announcement of his platform, pledged the elimination of "gangsterism and racketeering" from Pittsburgh.

He said:

"Racketeering of any description could not prevail 24 hours without the approval or agreement of some person or persons in the police department or higher office."

The statement of Malone, made before an audience of a thousand in Schenley High School auditorium, was greeted with enthusiasm.

COURTS INDEPENDENTS

Malone, following his promise of last week, when he announced his candidacy, to outline his platform, presented a comprehensive list of things he would favor and oppose. He made a direct bid for support from various independent and disaffected organization elements to support him against Mayor John S. Herron.

The Fifth Warder compactly linked Herron with Senator James J. Coyne, and excoriated the Oakland Senator for his opposition to old-age pensions in the recent session of the Legislature. Malone promised the weight of the city administration behind old-age pension and minimum wage legislation should he be elected.

The meeting, primarily a gathering of Malone's Fifth Ward neighbors, was actually an invitation to all anti-Herron elements to center on him as the single candidate with whom to fight the present Mayor. It was patently an attempt to wither the candidacies of other aspirants whose names have been heard, a suggestion that they remain out of the fight so the battle could be a two-handed affair.

ASKS ALL TO JOIN

In this connection, Malone said:

"To all political groups and uncontrolled and independent voters in Pittsburgh, I submit my candidacy and solicit your support. I trust you shall all join us in this combat, so that we may all participate in the elimination of the Coyne-Herron machine."

Throughout his speech Malone fired shots at Coyne and Herron, always linking them, and resented intimations in political circles that he had thus early entered the fight to create a three-cornered contest in which Herron would have the advantage.

CHARGES NOMINATION THEFT

Malone charged that the nomination had been stolen from him in 1929 when he ran against former Mayor Charles H. Kline and the late Judge Richard W. Martin, and asserted that the theft had been committed by "cohorts of the Coyne-Herron political combination."

In sentence after sentence Malone rammed home the previous connection between Herron, Coyne and Kline, and pointed out that when he was Secretary of Property and Supplies in the Babcock cabinet there had been no scandal such as resulted in the resignation of Mayor Kline after conviction.

Malone said he favored:

A further reduction of taxes.

Keeping taxes down.

The elimination of every unnecessary bureau, commission, division and job.

The complete separation of the police, fire and municipal employes from political domination by anyone.

Prosecuting any public official who threatens, coerces or intimidates any public employe along political lines.

A civil service commission that will be a civil service commission in all the word implies.

A controller of budget with ample authority to control.

Wide open specifications for the purchase of supplies and for construction work.

A complete change in the present system of collection and disposal of garbage and rubbish.

The administration taking an active lead in the production of legislation that will benefit our citizens and opposing legislation that is harmful.

An open door to the public to make investigations and checks in any department at any time.

A work program that will absorb our unemployed citizens. There are many large and much needed projects that will take care of this.

He said he opposed:

The increase in property assessments for political reprisal.

The discharge or penalization of any public employe because he votes for a person of his own choice.

Any outside interference in every department.

Gangsters and racketeers.

The ward chairman dominance of patronage and interference in city business.

FAVORS WELFARE MERGER

Malone said he was for a combination of the city and county Departments of Welfare, an amalgamation of the city and County Treasurers' offices and the elimination of delinquent tax collectors. He favored abolition of the city tax assessors, and would have the work done by the county assessors for both county and city. A bill for this purpose was defeated in the recent legislative session.

Something of a factional political tinge was given the meeting by the presence of Ben Anderson, former secretary to E. V. Babcock, as chairman. Malone was chief of the supplies department in the Babcock administration. Anderson praised Malone as a man who had given efficient public service in every post he had filled.

55,000 SIGNERS

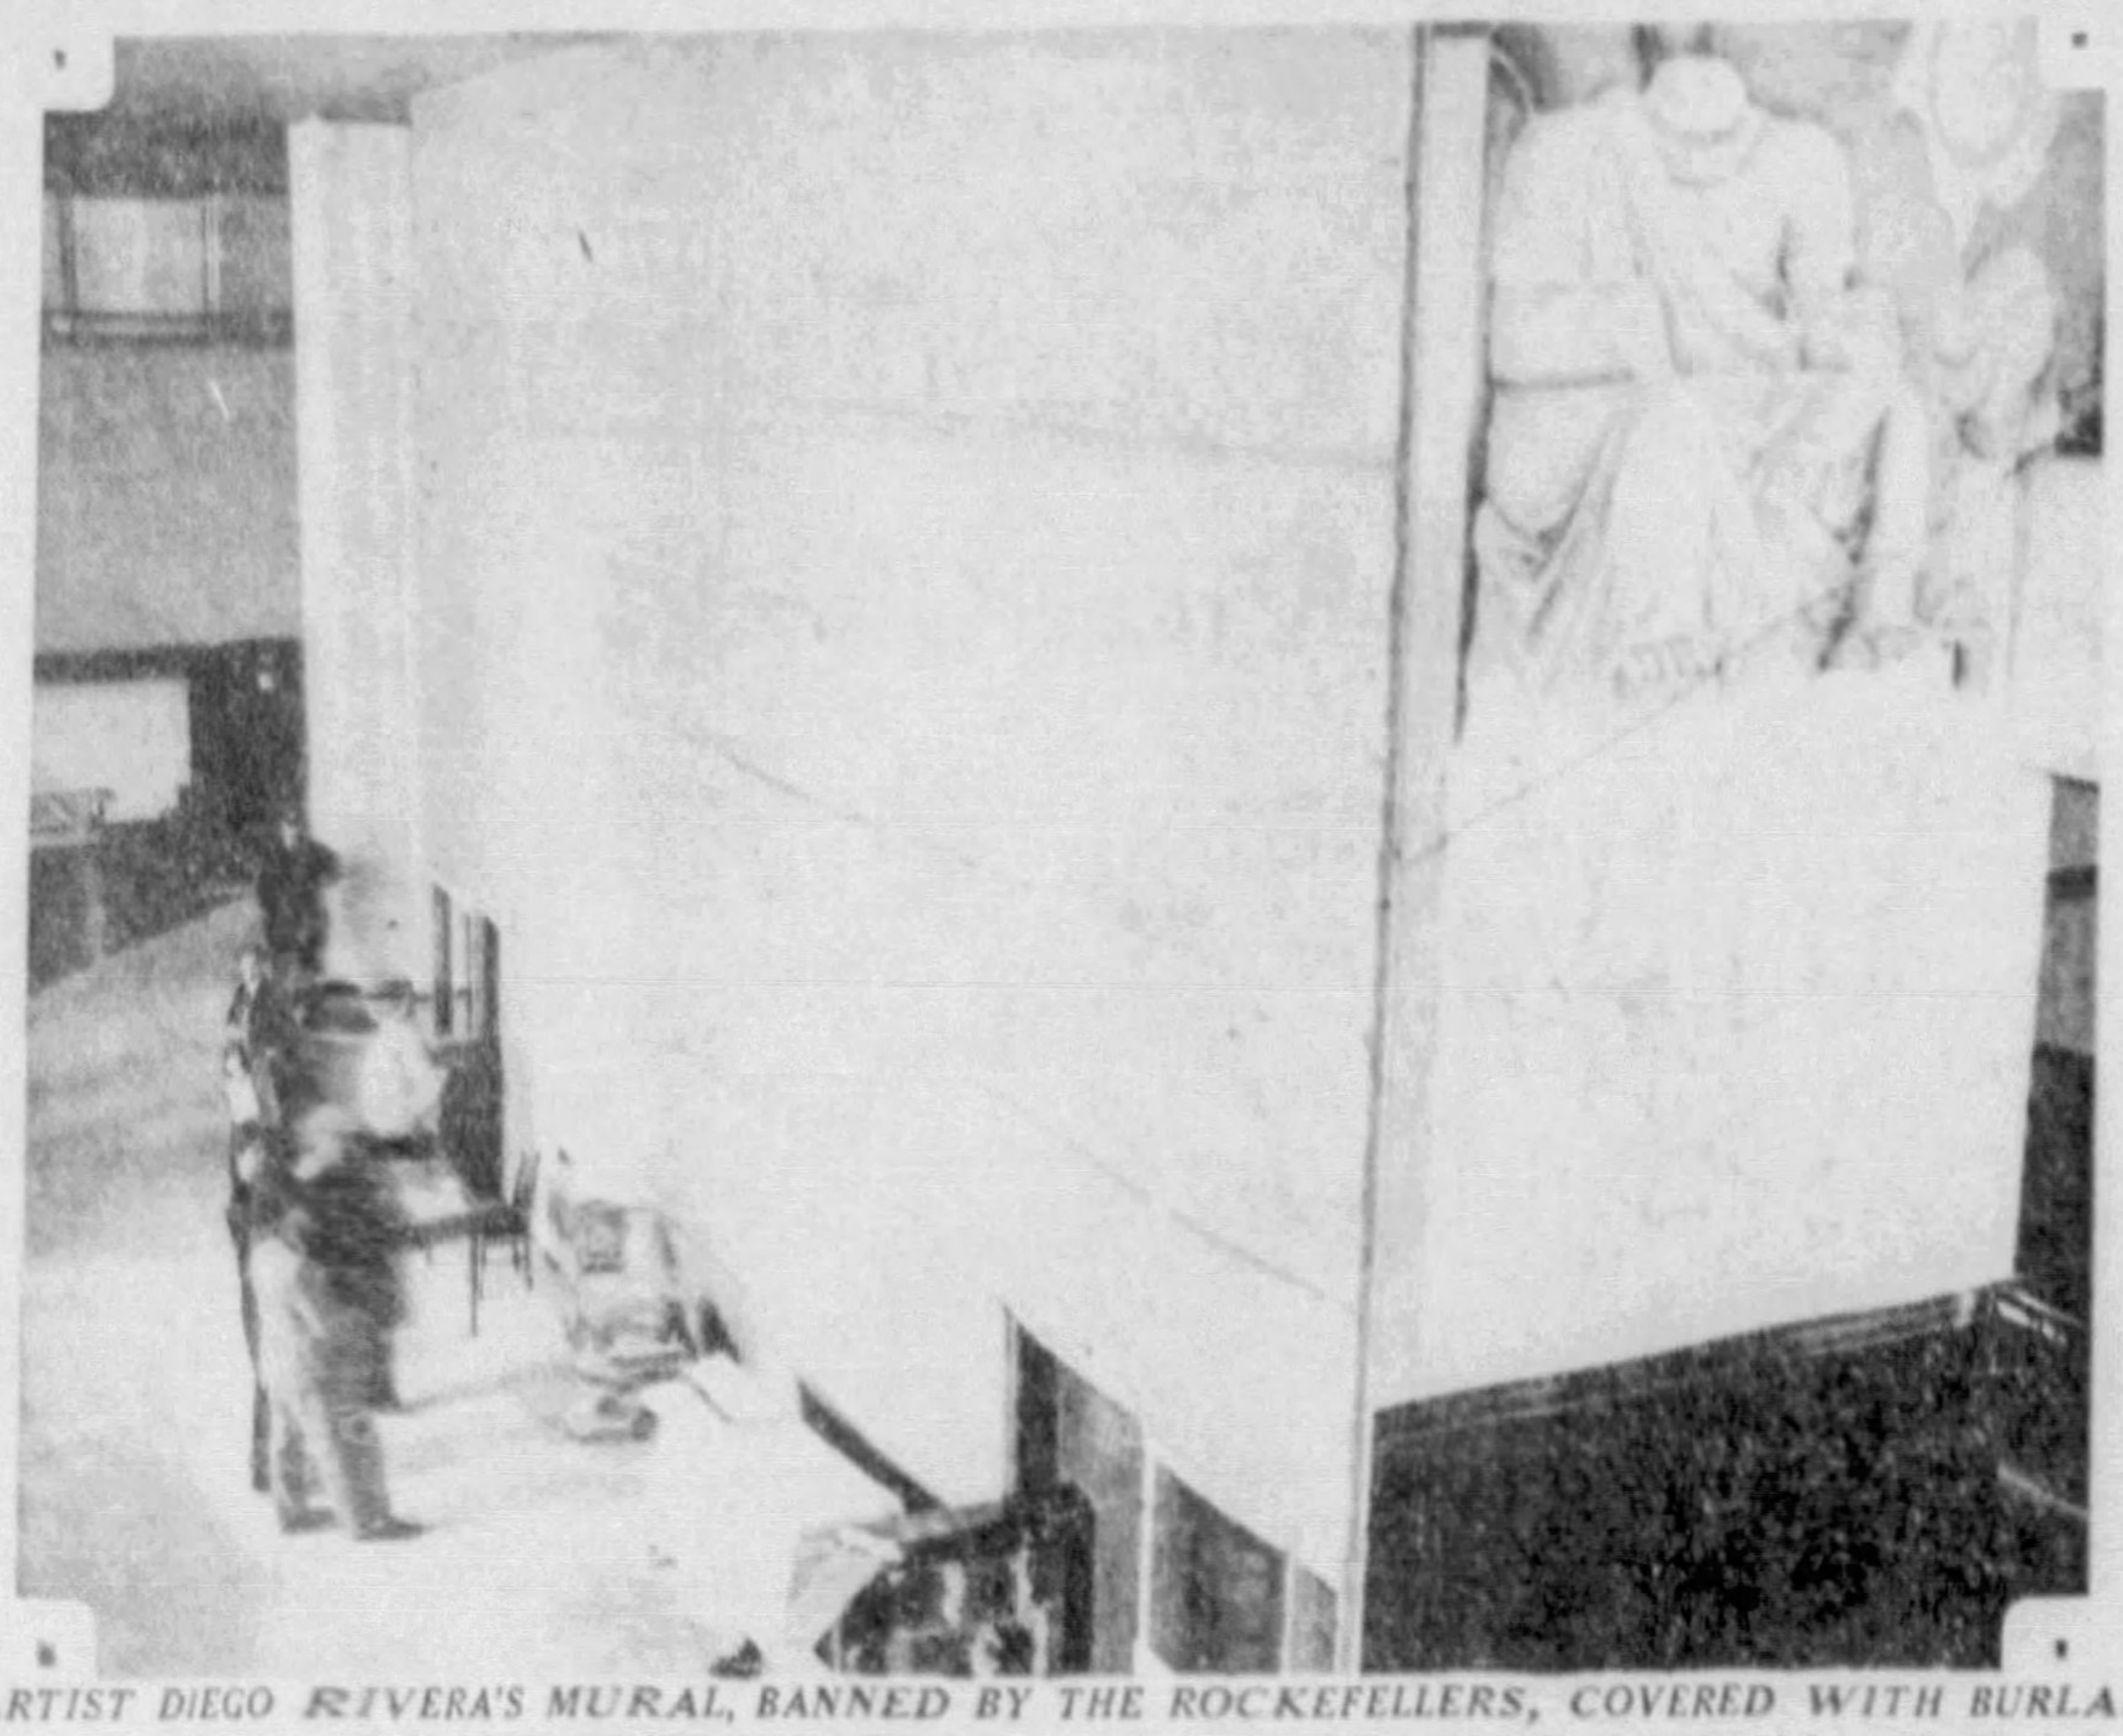
He announced that more than 55,000 persons had signed petitions asking Malone to consent to be a candidate.

Martin J. Griffin, former alderman, opened the meeting and introduced Anderson. Others speaking were Ellwood Robinson, neighbor of Malone; the Rev. Scott Wood, formerly of the Holy Trinity Church; Albert Gregg, representing the Rev. James Robinson, of the Macedonia Baptist Church, and Mrs. Cora Irvine, former state committeewoman and vice chairman of the Republican organization in the ward.

Fred L. Dennis, treasurer of the Malone campaign four years ago, and Alderman William Hughes, of the Sixteenth Ward, sat on the platform.

For a meeting which had no assistance from the city or county payroll, there was a surprising amount of enthusiasm, and the crowded auditorium could not be laughed off by other candidates.

RIVERA'S BANNED MURAL UNDER WRAPS



ARTIST DIEGO RIVERA'S MURAL, BANNED BY THE ROCKEFELLERS, COVERED WITH BURLAP

The foyer of the RCA Building in Rockefeller on which Senor Rivera, Mexican artist, has stopped his work on his great mural—because the Rockefellers don't care for his painting of Lenin, Russian revolutionist. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

Curb on Food Ads Denied by Bureau

WASHINGTON, May 12.—W. G. Campbell, director of regulatory work of the Department of Agriculture's food and drug administration, said today that his bureau is not considering any legislation to censor food and drug advertising.

The department is, he said, thinking of certain legislation to curb "obvious rackets" among certain classes of food, drug and medicine dispensers.

RIVERA LOSES FAIR CONTRACT

NEW York, May 12.—(Universal.)—The "Lenin mural" in Rockefeller Center, done by Diego Rivera, Mexican artist, apparently has cost him a contract for a mural at the Chicago World's Fair.

Rivera yesterday received a telegram from Albert Kahn, architect for the General Motors Building at the Century of Progress Exhibition, announcing cancellation of a proposal to include a mural. Rivera was to have painted the mural to be called "Forge and Foundry." The telegram said, however, that "undoubtedly due to the notoriety" of the Rockefeller mural controversy the General Motors executives had changed their plans. Rivera, non-plussed, said:

"This is a blow to me. I wanted to paint men and machinery."

He declared he had planned no political figures for the Chicago mural and no communistic influence.

Norman Thomas Talks Here Tuesday

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President in 1932, will speak in Carnegie Hall Tuesday night. He will speak in Greensburg tomorrow night, in New Castle Sunday afternoon and in New Kensington Sunday night.

HELD FOR COURT IN LEGACY FAKE

Alleged to have fleeced an Ambridge man of his life's savings in a bogus real estate transaction, Joseph Pridicevich, 35, of 103 Peach way, Duquesne, was held for court under $5,000 bail on a charge of larceny by trick and artifice, at a hearing last night before Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan, of Sewickley. After the hearing he was turned over to city detectives for investigation.

Posing an executor of a large estate, Pridicevich is alleged to have induced Frank Zorman, of 335 Maplewood avenue, Ambridge, to turn over $1,145, his life savings, as a "bond." A satchel containing $4 and newspapers was left as Zorman's share of the "legacy," it was testified.

Boy Scouts Study Traffic Court Rules

The first practice session for Boy Scouts from the East End, Black Hawk and Fort Pitt districts, taking part in the eighth annual city traffic count, will be held at Horne's store at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Taken to aid making a "traffic flow" map of the city, this year's poll will include counts on downtown entering and leaving volumes and distribution, and of all major and secondary street systems.

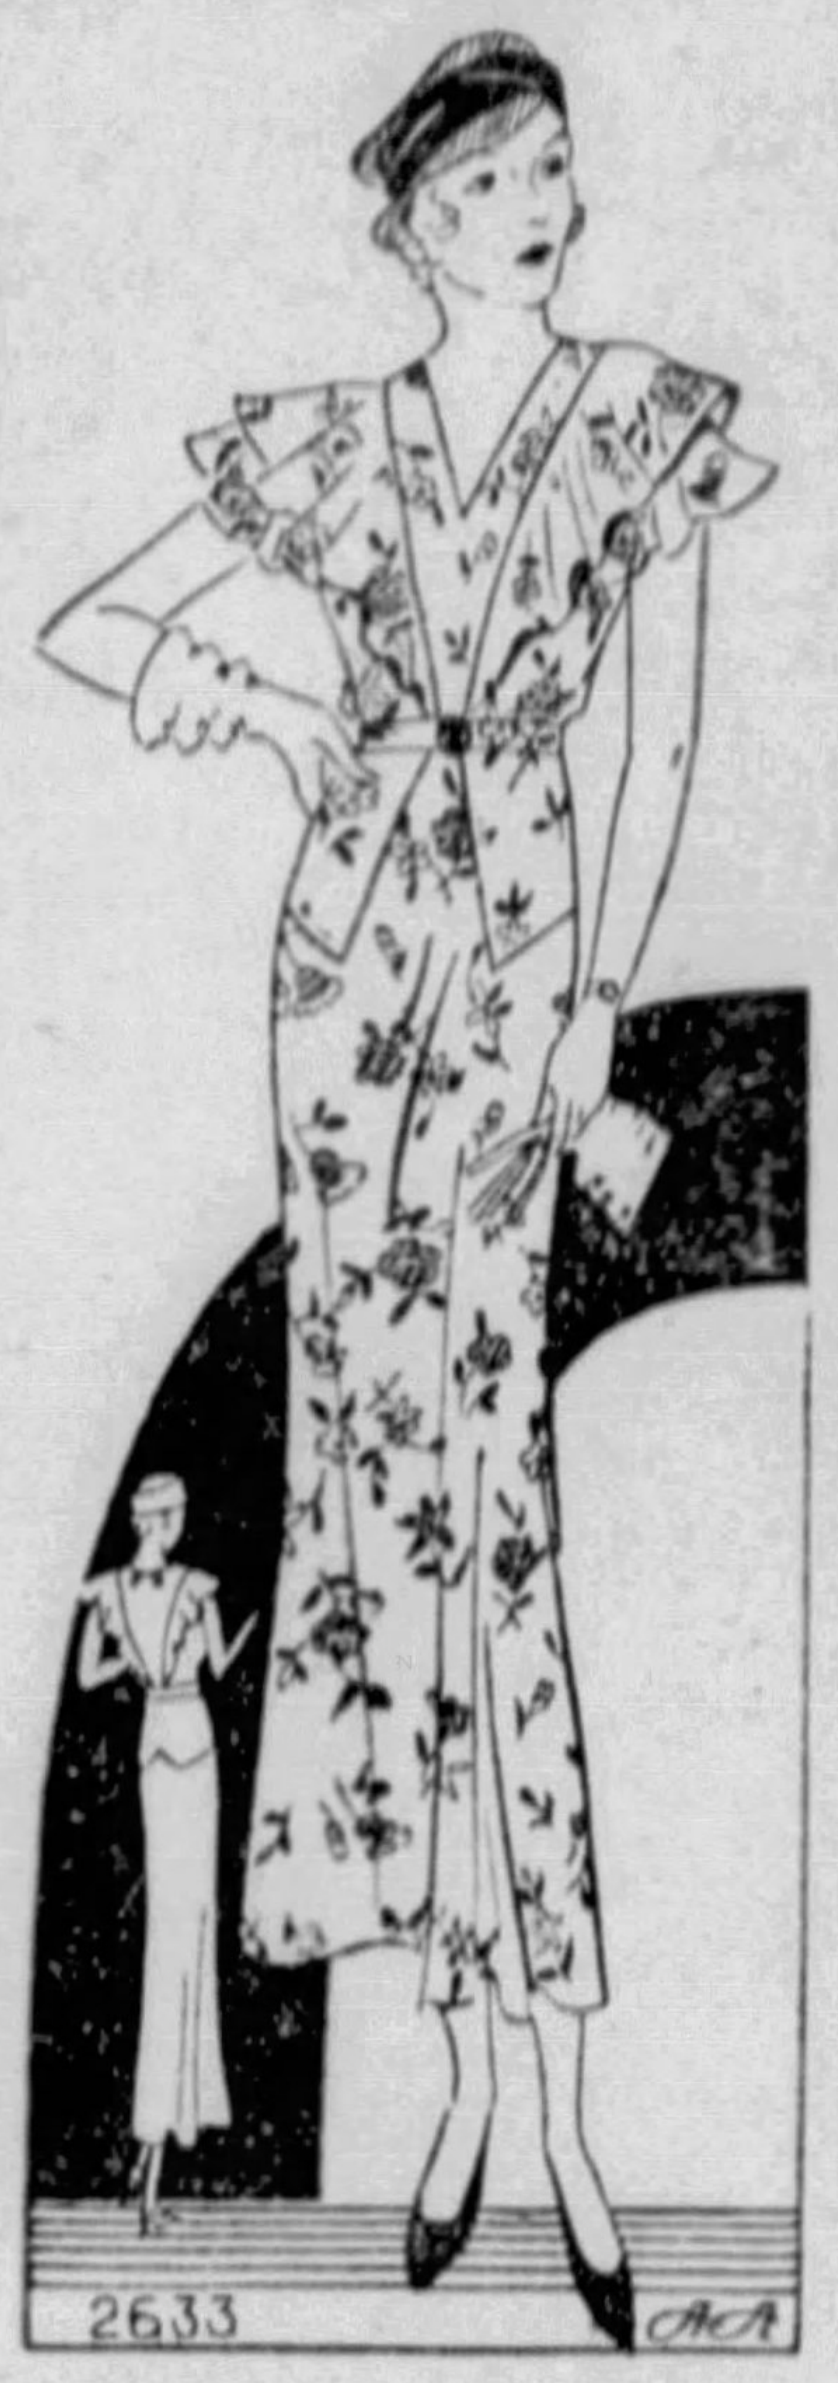
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern



Soft, graceful flares are perfect for the glorious sheers in vogue for warm weather months. For the loveliest, most colorful and most becoming print you can find, this frock would be a dream. The flared bretelles and sleeves charmingly reflect the broad shoulder vogue, and clever pointed seaming conforms with the slim silhouette. On all occasions that demand a bit of femininity, you'll lead your set when you wear this model.

Pattern 2633 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4 yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

Stolen Meat Left At Tennessee Church

M'KENZIE, Tenn., May 12.—(AP.)—A shoulder of meat stolen from the smokehouse of Rufus Hastings turned up at the Bethlehem Baptist Church. The owner said he believed it was left there as a token for the taker's conversion at a revival.

Tough Easter Bunny Chases Dogs, Cats

GLEN ELLYN, Ill., May 12.—(AP.)—A bunny acquired about Easter time by Robert G. Collins, Chicago banker, has developed into the "world's toughest rabbit," Mrs. Collins says, spending odd moments chasing dogs about the village. The rabbit even put the Collins family cat to rout.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

I like Mrs. Roosevelt . . . She has a "way about her" . . . I like hearing that she hasn't forgotten her friends since she became Mrs. America . . . When she can—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt motors to Endicott, N. Y. (a whole day's drive) and visits friends who dwell in humble homes—one of those two-family houses—and these friends are "not in the money," as we say around Longacre Square . . . And after each meal—Mrs. Roosevelt insists on going out into the kitchen and helps wash and dry the dishes! . . . Nice to read these notices on "Tonight or Never," which stars Fritzi Scheff—who has finally been given a job . . . The Atlantic City oracles praise her talents enthusiastically . . . It made me ill a little during that Paramount week—every time Fritzi came out to sing "Kiss Me Again" . . . It made me ache, I mean, realizing that a couple of flash-in-the-panners like Bernie and myself had no real reason to be there—and the one-time heroine of the musical comedy stage was getting coffee-and-cake coin . . . Well, Fritzi is starring again—and enticing "raves" from critics, and that makes me feel so much better . . . There are too many counterfeits getting breaks . . . Too many of them who can't do anything—but do it so well.

John, the most popular of the barbers on Broadway, has finally been rewarded after long service . . . He is now a partner of a shop to which come the hordes he has shaved so well elsewhere . . . John doesn't talk to you when he is making you prettier . . . He always has your favorite ciggies—gratis . . . He keeps the radio down low, and tunes in on your pet bands . . . A poor man all his life, who worked standing up for decades, making friends . . . All of whom followed him when he became co-boss . . . Now John will no longer take orders—but he doesn't give them, either . . . And it hasn't gone to his head! . . . He insists upon waiting on his customers! . . . He certainly rates this recognition from one whose only relaxation in a long day and night comes in his chair . . . And he never gives you a hill-billy hair trim—which is so important to Broadway-ikes . . . But best of his routine is the tender touch over your tired eyes, which sends you into dreamland—free for a while—from this care or that one . . . John will clip and frame this sugary wordage about himself—and put it on the wall . . . And he will send copies to his friends in Italy to prove he has made good . . . "Because," John will say, "dis Winch fella—he never give write-up unless he means it. Winch my friend long time. Mark my friend, too. Mark give me bigger tips. But dis Winch he puts in d' pape! O, boy! Okay, Amereek!"

George Olsen, who delves into the encyclopedias, found this fact, he says . . . That in 1863 the Confederate States of America borrowed 15 million smackers from France on bonds redeemable after the war in cotton—and that the debt has never been paid . . . Maybe there are two sides to every argument, at that.

Swell Movie In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Swell picture in the Fulton—"Zoo in Budapest." It is both an "animal picture" and a romance. It has in abundance many things that make a photoplay unusual, a good story well told, grand photography, many beautiful natural scenes and a gripping sequence of animals loose in a zoo, tearing and clawing at each other. That is the fly in the ointment that denies it the classification "for all of the family." Small children easily terrified might be frightened. For all others, from flapper to grandpa, it should prove diverting and enjoyable.

The cast is topped by Gene Raymond, Loretta Young, O. P. Heggie and Wally Albright, the latter a bright little boy. Raymond hangs around the zoo because he loves animals, but he is in bad with one of the officials because he steals furs from women visitors and burns them. Loretta Young is an orphan who weekly visits the menagerie with a class. They are attracted to each other, and when she manages to escape he hides her in the zoo. Wally Albright visits the institution with his nurse. When he doesn't get a ride on the elephant, he eludes her and sneaks back just as the gates are closing.

So when night falls there's a search for all three, and their separate stories are all tied in together in a remarkable and thrilling climax. Gene not only escapes punishment for snatching the fur of a woman, who had delegated her husband to buy the zoo's finest black fox as a match for it, but he has the pretty Loretta as his bride.

Any normal person should like the drama and romance of this film, and be charmed, especially by twilight scenes of bird-life on the lake of the zoo, much of which is a natural park.

Forest Workers Increase Weight

FORT KNOX, Ky., May 12.—(AP.)—Fifty men picked at random were weighed when they joined the federal reforestation camp here. Twenty-eight days later they were weighed again and their average gain was 11 pounds.

Pat Wing is one of the dancing cuties in "Gold Diggers of 1933," coming film that is another example of what they are doing in the way of musical production.

Miss Rogers Cast for Drama

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 11.—Belated recognition, concludes Ginger Rogers, is better than none.

Miss Rogers.

Continuing the good luck the red head has enjoyed since "42nd Street," RKO gave Ginger the feminine lead in "Rafter Romance," a story so well thought-of that Merian C. Cooper once had it in mind for Dorothy Jordan and Joel McCrea. The assignment carries added significance because it will allow Ginger to try her hand at a dramatic role. It was the success of a dramatic test that finally moved RKO to offer the actress a contract.

Ginger came through in "The Purity Girl," a satire on the radio world, and now the studio is eager to get her into another picture. Kenneth MacGowan, who's to be associate producer on "Rafter Romance," will get the cameras turning as soon as he can find a leading man.

And, for a romance note, Lew Ayres still is high man with Ginger.

* * *

They were swapping stories out at Fox about critical slams.

Herbert Mundin dug a faded clipping out of his wallet. The author, an English reviewer, went on to praise or blame the performers in a play. He saved Mundin for the last, he wrote:

"And I see by the program that Herbert Mundin is a comedian."

* * *

For the first time in many a picture, Connie Bennett is consenting to work overtime. Usually, La Bennett puts in her eight hours and makes her departure. Now it's sometimes as long as 12. They say it's the song of the islands calling her.

Miss Gaynor

The reason Janet Gaynor is so thrilled over furnishing her new home in Beverly is that she will now have her own things for the first time. Though one of the big stars, Janet always has rented furnished places . . . For the asking, Gary Cooper also will sing the praises of the chickens, walnut trees and quiet on his Van Nuys ranch . . . And Joan Crawford has been personally retouching her kitchen furniture. Must be the spring air.

* * *

They have a sick list at Fox. Elissa Landi has a touch of flu and Victor Jory combines a bad cold with a painful case of sunburn. The other morning he played nine sets of tennis, wearing only a silk undershirt over his shoulders. The sun went through.

Miss Harlow

Theda Thayer, stepdaughter of Tiffany Thayer, looks very much like Lyda Roberti . . . Latest Hollywood camera fiend is Jean Harlow. She snapped pictures all over the set and studio yesterday . . It will be Palm Springs for Bing Crosby from now until his next picture. One of the hotels in the desert resort will defy the heat and remain open all summer . . . Randy Scott has eyes only for Vivian Gaye these days and evenings. She is Sari Maritza's pretty manager . . . Ruth Biery and Eleanor Packer are flying to New York Saturday to contact the magazines. They'll be partners in writing about the movies . . . Scenarist Grover Jones is the despair of the members of the Pacific Writers' Yacht Club. He scorns to learn nautical terms.

"The tops'l is that sail that looks like a duck's back," says Grover.

"I haven't found a thing on a yacht that I couldn't successfully refer to as a hootenanny."

Did you know: That Helen Twelvetrees' face has appeared on 17 covers of a famous weekly magazine?

BILL BALES AND PATTI LITTEL IN "OVER THE COALS," TECH REVUE IN PITT TONIGHT

Charles Farrell Learns To Say 'No'

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—(AP.)—Charles Farrell is improving his polo if not his career since he parted with Fox last November. Indications are that he is striving for honors as a no-man in yes-yes land. He turned down a job as Constance Bennett's leading man, rejected another affiliation on a contract basis, and changed his mind about going to England for a picture.

He isn't going back to Fox to play opposite Janet Gaynor—not now, anyway. Warner Baxter gets that call for "Paddy-the-Next-Best-Thing."

Vacation With Pay Lures Actors

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—(AP.)—For many Hollywood actors going to England it's a chance to travel and get paid for it. For others, better salaries than they can command here are the inducement. The British studios make films most economically and hence are able to meet Hollywood salaries—at least some of them.

But Hollywood has a goodly number of English stars taken in exchange, so to speak—Lillian Harvey, Benita Hume, Elizabeth Allan, Diana Wynyard, Heather Angel, Merle Tottenham, Una O'Connor and Elissa Landi.

'Warrior's Husband' Broad Satire

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—(AP.)—Goings-on among the Amazons and the Greeks in 800 B. C. are the basis of "The Warrior's Husband," a new film which is satirical if not always polite, contains broad comedy with Marjorie Rambeau and Ernest Treux, and offers Elissa Landi in a buoyant youthful mood contrasting to her previous tragic emotionalism.

Comedy Film In Warner

By MILDRED FILLMORE.

"So This Is Africa," film in the Warner, attempts to work in the "wild woman" idea, but the result is rather tame. It stars Wheeler and Woolsey, whose very names, by reason of previous performances, promises plenty of comedy. We'll have to excuse them this time because the movie-makers haven't done right by our Bert and Robert. There may have been some bawdy hilarity in it originally, in fact there is evidence there was, but Will Hays or the censore have carefully removed it, although leaving a few double-meaning lines.

The film is a burlesque. It is a take-off of the Martin Johnson films, "Trader Horn" and "Tarzan." Our heroes are owners of a trained lion act, so Mrs. Johnson Martini thinks they'd be very helpful to her on an expedition to Africa. There they are captured by a tribe of Amazons. To escape they disguise themselves as Amazons just in time to be captured again, this time by savages who raid the Amazon camp to provide themselves with wives.

Raquel Torres is in it as the Amazon leader. A news reel, a custard-pie comedy, "Sweet Cookie," and an enjoyable tour of the Mediterranean ports, via the Magic Carpet, complete the bill.

Vet Bureau Closing Protests Held Vain

Protests of Senator David A. Reed against closing Pittsburgh and Philadelphia offices of the United States Veterans' Bureau have been unavailing, according to an Associated Press dispatch today. Maj. Gen. Frank T. Haines, veteran's administrator, told Senator Reed that he has made no decision to keep the office open.

Foreign Policy Group To Banquet Tonight

The Pittsburgh branch of the Foreign Policy Association will hold a dinner at the Hotel Schenley tonight. Dr. Harold G. Moulton, economist, and Dr. William W. Cumberland, financial expert, will speak.

Dorothea Wieck Likes Serious Roles

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—(AP.)—Dorothea Wieck, importation from Germany, is much occupied learning English, but among things occupying her mind is "Madame Bovary." She wants to create that Flaubert heroine for the screen.

"In Germany once I have written a script of it," she laughed. "I would show it to no one now, for I have a new picture of her in my mind. But I hope I can play her here."

She likes serious roles. She will make first "Hangman's Whip," then "Cradle Song" and then, perhaps, "Madame Bovary."

"Maedchen in Uniform" gave her a test of emotional roles.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Over the Coals," a revue conceived, written, staged and acted by students of Tech, not the drama department alone, but of the entire institution, who style themselves "The Bacchanalians," will be given in the Pitt Theater tonight and tomorrow night. The second night is for students, principally, but there will be seats available to the public also. As the title indicates, the skits take certain parties "over the coals," and we understand some of it relates to city officialdom. The actors will include girls as well as boys, something unusual in college dramatics. Among the attractions will be a dancing chorus of 12 pretty co-eds.

* * *

Roles of four letters have been frequent in the career of Lenore Ulric, who will open a three-day engagement in "Hard-Boiled Angel" in the Nixon Monday. She has been Rose in "Tiger Rose," Lulu in "Lulu Belle," Kiki in "Kiki," Lien in "The Son-Daughter" and Mima in "Mima," the latter a production that played only in New York because of the practical impossibility of transporting the production. Mima also is the name of the character she portrays in "Hard-Boiled Angel," the performances of which will include a Wednesday matinee.

* * *

Among the attractions of next week also will be a Yiddish play, "Yoshe Kalb," presented by a company of 70, headed by the eminent Jewish artist, Maurice Schwartz. This play, wherever it has been shown, has attracted many gentiles as well as Jewish patrons, because of its dramatic merit and the excellent work of the big company. It will be given in Syria Mosque Thursday evening, May 18.

Weds Man on Dare, Marriage Annuled

BALTIMORE, May 12.—(AP.)—After she had testified "he dared me to marry him," Mrs. Genevieve K. Hauer obtained in Circuit Court an annulment of her marriage to William J. Hauer. She said the wedding was more of "a joke than anything."

The Reward Magnificent

MARGIE turned from Fifty-ninth street and walked slowly into Central Park. She was worried, and her pretty face showed it plainly. The present was tough, and the future looked tougher. If a chorus job or a vaudeville act didn't turn up very quickly, it meant going back to the folks in Boston as an admitted failure. And that was something she hated like the devil to do.

But there didn't seem to be much of a choice. How long had she been away from home? Almost two years. Well, it seemed like 20. And those letters she had written! All about the kindness of the producer, and how her agent had promised she'd be a star in six months. She smiled a bit ruefully when she thought of the $50 she had sent home on two occasions, just to make the folks think she was doing big things. She had gone without plenty of things in order to do that.

This girl, of course, was only one of the very many who find themselves in similar situations on Broadway or in Hollywood 12 months out of the year. Big hopes when they start; sad eyes when they finish.

But let's get back to Margie. She had been a little luckier than most. She, at least, had been able to find a second and a third job after the first one came to an end.

But now what? Two months had gone by without a semblance of a job, and the little money she had was fast disappearing. No shows were being cast, and the vaudeville agents were looking for other jobs themselves. It was all, to say the least, very discouraging.

Margie sighed, and sat down upon a bench. She watched the passing cars with troubled eyes. Suddenly she sat erect, and instinctively put her hand to her mouth to stifle a scream. A little dog—a toy bull—had raced across the road. And a large limousine had missed the animal only by the narrowest of margins.

The dog stopped in front of her, and Margie wagged a finger.

"Bad doggie," she muttered. "You gave me a terrible fright. Just as though things weren't bad enough!"

The animal wagged its tail—or what there was of a tail—and nipped playfully at the girl's ankles. Margie grinned. She leaned over and patted the dog.

"You're a nice little fellow," she said. "Where's your owner?"

She looked around. No sight of any owner. She looked at the animal's collar. No name there, just a number. Margie was puzzled, and just a trifle worried. This animal very evidently wasn't accustomed to city streets.

Margie stood up. She shrugged her shoulders and spoke to the toy bull as though he were a human, even as you and I have done on occasion.

"I can't help you, doggie," she murmured. "I've got plenty of my own troubles. But the people who own you should certainly be more careful."

She strolled toward the park's exit. The dog trotted dutifully at her heels. She walked further. The dog was still there. When she emerged from the park the animal was still with her. So, acting on a swift decision, she picked the dog up, turned west and walked to her rooming house . . .

The animal seemed highly content in Margie's little room. He raced all around the place, and the girl gazed upon him with smiling eyes.

"It's all right, feller," she observed. "Enjoy yourself all you want. I guess we'll be all right together. Two can always starve as cheaply as one."

To make the pooch more comfortable, she removed the dog's collar. And as she turned the object over in her hand, her eyes almost popped from her head. For there, engraved on the back, was the name of the dog's owner. And what a famous name it was!

Not a particularly famous name to those of us who know him, but extremely famous in Margie's eyes. It was the name of an ex-motion picture star who lost out when the talkies came along. He has been touring the country the past year or so in an attempt to gather in a few shekels on the strength of a bygone reputation. He was playing in one of the Broadway picture houses at the time this story took place, which was about eight weeks ago. And if you recognize him from that description, please keep the name to yourself.

At any rate, you can imagine Margie's feelings. Here was a big star's dog in her possession. It meant an introduction to the noted man—and who knew what that might lead to? Maybe a job in the act. Maybe a note to Hollywood. Maybe—well, maybe almost anything. It was the biggest break of her life. She tumbled into her coat, picked up the animal again and raced over to the theater in which the star was appearing.

At the theater, they didn't want to let Margie in at first. But when she sent in word about the dog, the great man—himself and in person — raced down to the stage door and gathered the dog in his arms. He did everything but kiss the pooch, and he brought Margie back to his dressing room with him.

"I'm due on the stage in a minute or two," he cried as he glanced at the clock, "and I haven't the time now to tell you what you've done. But I can tell you this much:

"I love that little dog more than anything in this world. He disappeared from my hotel this morning and I've almost gone daffy waiting for some word about him. And now you find him and bring him back to me! It's simply wonderful of you.

"I'm going to give you a reward and I insist that you take it. No, don't you dare tell me that you won't take it. I absolutely insist. Don't you understand, my dear child, what the return of my dog means to me? I want you to accept this reward—because it will come from me to you from the bottom of my heart.

"Please put your name and address on this sheet of paper. I must run down now, so just slam the door when you leave. And all I can say is thank you, thank you and thank you."

Margie walked back to her room with a smile on her face. It had been good to know the big man, and he had been so happy to get his dog back! Of course, things hadn't turned out exactly as she had hoped. He hadn't spoken of a job, and the road to Hollywood was still blocked by plenty of detour signs.

But, after all, there was still that reward. Surely that was something. It would tide her over until something popped up. And that was nothing to be sneezed at in her situation.

Nothing came that night, but on the following morning a gentleman left an envelope for Margie. You can imagine the kid's feelings as she tore open that envelope—and you can imagine her expression when the reward fell out.

It was an autographed picture of the faded star . . .

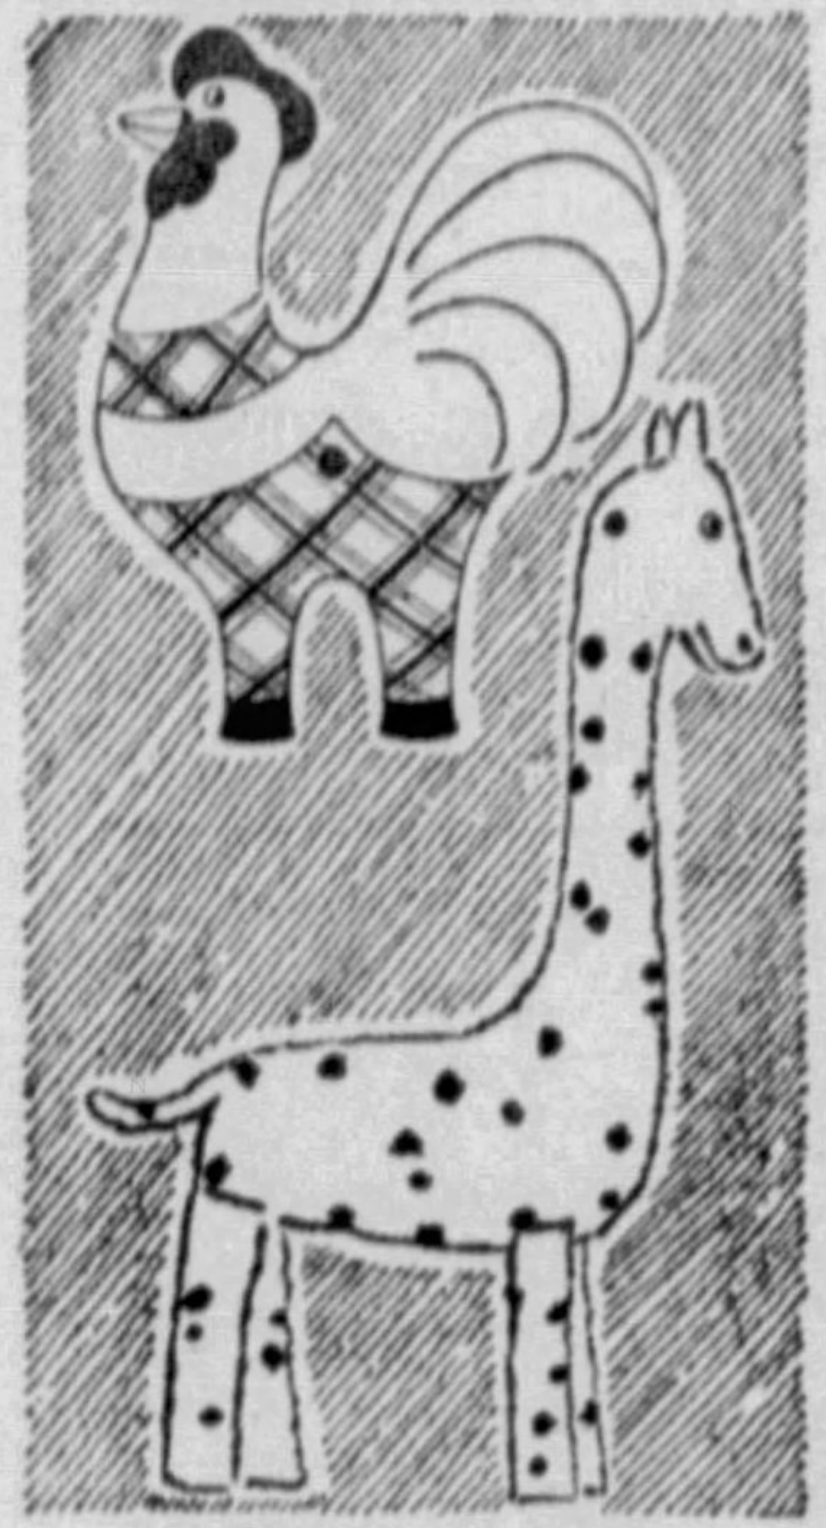
Make These Toys



Pattern No. 408

By LAURA WHEELER

The long-necked, spotted giraffe and the pert be-feathered rooster are a real addition to children's toys. A transfer pattern for each animal includes complete instructions for making them, as well as suggestions for materials to be used. The giraffe is about 14 inches high when finished and the rooster stands about the same size.

To obtain a pattern for these toys send 10c to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

GIFTS OF BREAD STILL NEEDED

The appeal for bread made to Pittsburgh housewives to feed the hundreds of destitute families that come to Father Cox every day for aid has resulted in several donations, but far from enough to meet his urgent daily requirements.

The Sun-Telegraph had hardly been on the street when an automobile drove up to the parish house and left 50 loaves. This donation, however, was from a man—not a housewife.

Father Cox will send his trucks for donations of bread or any other kinds of food, furniture or clothing. Telephone the parish house—Grant 4390—and tell him when you want his truck to call. He really needs more than 1,000 loaves of bread a day and believes that the women of Pittsburgh are big-hearted enough to see that he gets them.

He is still meeting with gratifying success in his campaign for Sun-Telegraph subscriptions. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

SANDY APPEAL FUND MOUNTS

Of the $250 necessary to push the legal battle to save the life of Sandy, condemned mongrel, Mrs. Ethel Cannon, of 627 Junilla street, today announced her fund had reached $133.

Judge S. L. Reed is scheduled to return here Monday from Cambria County to sentence the dog's owner, Frank Sechan, of Versailles Township, who has failed to dispose of Sandy in accordance with his six months' parole.

He had pleaded guilty to keeping a ferocious dog. Sandy had bitten a 3-year-old neighbor's child.

The fund to appeal the case to Superior Court has been deposited in the Dollar Savings Bank, Fourth avenue.

DIVORCEE SUES 'FIRST LOVE'

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 12.—First love that endured through marriage to another cooled when she was freed of her matrimonial bonds, Katheryne Sloan, 29, of Johnstown, alleged in a $50,000 suit against Dr. Theodore V. Leatherman, a dentist, on file here today.

The suit charged breach of promise to marry.

Miss Sloan alleged she divorced her husband, Richard Hardy, a Johnstown salesman, because Dr. Leatherman urged it. They met in July, 1921, and Leatherman paid court until she married in August, 1926, she claimed.

Even then, she said, Leatherman did not lose heart, and finally persuaded her to obtain a divorce in December, 1929. He had promised before the divorce to marry her, she claimed.

With the barrier gone, Leatherman continued his attentions, but recently, she alleged, he refused to make her his wife.

She claimed her character and social standing were injured as a result.

Thaw Gay, Generous On Tour With Evelyn; Her Mother Stranded

SYNOPSIS

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, having told of her triumphs on Broadway, her romance with Stanford White, and her pursuit by Harry Thaw, described in yesterday's installment Thaw's tears and rages in Paris after he had forced her to admit her love for White. Today she continues her story which she says is a warning to all girls tempted to break the rules that "you can't win."

By EVELYN NESBIT THAW,

CHAPTER VIII.

In a sense I lived an extraordinarily sheltered life in Paris. Thaw tolerated no friendships with persons of either sex unless he approved. Like a hawk, he watched every move I made. I was never permitted to go anywhere alone. Even on small shopping excursions I was accompanied by someone of whom he approved.

A beautiful victoria drawn by two prancing bays, a closed carriage for rainy days, and a de Detreich motor were at our beck and call constantly. But living luxuriously, seeing the best plays, eating the finest food in the world, wearing Rue de la Paix clothes did not make me happy. None of these things have any value if one must sacrifice personal independence.

I learned from bitter experience that nothing in the world can compensate for the loss of personal independence. I missed it without being exactly aware of what was bothering me.

During the run of "The Wild Rose" I had a small part, but I had risen from the chorus ranks and was earning $75 a week. It had been a gorgeous feeling, taking that money home each week. How I longed for the theater, the freedom, the joy of earning my own living again!

Ever a Struggle

Life with Harry Thaw was a constant struggle. One had to speak cautiously, avoid his pet peeves, try to sidestep his unreasonable fits of temper. Living under the same roof with a person cursed with a terrible temper is an almost unendurable agony.

It took a long time for me to interpret what O. O. McIntyre has so aptly described as Thaw's "turkey-gobbler talk." Every night he drank too much champagne and the wine thickened his speech, which was difficult of interpretation even when he was sober.

At that time I was either too young or too inexperienced to notice the trend of events. As I said before, Thaw would sit for hours at times biting his nails and staring into space.

At such times, I know now he was plotting and scheming to separate me from my mother, although in those days I was totally unaware of his cunning.

Looking back on it all now, in the cold light of reason, I can understand why, at that time, I suffered now and then from vague fits of uneasiness, fits of restless homesickness, nostalgia.

Anything which displeased or annoyed my mother he noted, and took particular pains to see that the displeasure and annoyance was repeated.

He was constantly working up and augmenting quarrels between us. In spite of that fact, however, I did not realize that his one ambition was to separate us.

One day Thaw announced suddenly that he was obliged to go to London for two weeks. He took my mother and myself to Boulogne-sur-Mer and installed us there to remain while he was in London.

I was delighted with the change and felt that in this resort I would at last find some peace and quiet and an opportunity to rest.

One evening my mother and I went to a performance given by a traveling French opera company and after the show we visited the Casino, where we played petits cheveaux.

This was quite an experience for my mother, who had been brought up to believe that gambling in any form was a great sin. But I persuaded her to try her luck. We had a most amusing time, but between us we lost the money which Thaw had left us.

WABASH TUBE COST SEEN AS $6,472,000

Engineer Advocates Four-Lane Artery; Sees Real Need

It will cost Allegheny County approximately $6,472,000 to purchase the Wabash bridge and tunnel, construct a companion tube under Mt. Washington and establish a four-lane vehicular traffic artery from the triangle to the South Hills, Ole Singstad, New York consulting engineer, estimates in a report to the County Commissioners.

Singstad said he believed the purchase price of the bridge and tunnel and easements, amounting to $3,000,000, was commensurate with the benefit the county would derive. He declared that it would cost $1,189,000 to convert the properties into a two-lane traffic artery and that this could be done within 12 months.

ADDITIONAL COST

The engineer advocated a four lane artery, which would cost an additional $2,283,000.

He again reiterated the need for another main highway into the downtown from the South Hills, saying the Liberty Bridge and tunnels have reached their capacity for handling traffic. He declared the Wabash properties suitable and convertible to vehicular use. He said it harmonized with traffic plans of city and county planners and was essential to bring about traffic relief in the congested downtown area.

A. H. Burchfield, of the Joseph Horne Company, urged the Commissioners to take action immediately toward purchasing the properties, as did John Sharp, downtown real estate dealer. Both said the need was apparent and that such a project would do much for employment.

URGES NEW SHAFT

Singstad urged abandonment of the present air shaft into the tube and urged construction of another nearer the southern end of the tube. He said the proposed shaft and ventilating system for one tube would conform with that of the second tube to be built in the future.

Singstad said the county could first construct the two-lane artery and later expand it to four lanes without interference with traffic. He said the present bridge was strong enough to permit construction of two additional roadways on the sides.

The conference was attended by Commissioners C. C. McGovern and W. D. Mansfield, city and county public works engineers and members of the city and county planning commissions.

Gallatin Descendant To Wed Tennis Star

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Frederic Gallatin, Jr., of Paris and New York, announced yesterday the engagement of his daughter, Miss Nancy Trowbridge Gallatin, to Edward Wanner Burns, tennis star.

Miss Gallatin is a direct descendant of Albert Gallatin, of Pennsylvania, Secretary of the Treasury from 1801 to 1812.

JURY SELECTED FOR BALLOT PROBE

Members to Report in U. S. Court June 12 To Hear Charges

The special grand jury to consider the evidence in the alleged election frauds in the Thirtieth and Thirty-second Congressional districts has already been chosen and its members are being notified to report June 12.

Scarcely was the order for the new panel signed late yesterday by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson before the new names were drawn from the wheel.

The move, assuring speedy consideration for a mass of evidence gathered by more than a score of agents of the United States Department of Justice, came with the force of a surprise.

The motion for a new grand jury was made by United States Attorney Louis E. Graham. Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed was present.

One of the reasons cited by Graham in asking for the new panel was that Reed had been appointed only a few days before the opening of the May grand jury and had been unable to acquaint himself thoroughly with the voluminous reports of the investigators.

After the signing of the order, Reed said:

"We will be ready to go ahead on June 12. Of course we are still continuing our investigation."

This added strength to the report that a number of Department of Justice agents are still delving into the details of the Congressional fights between Mrs. Anne E. Felix, Democrat, and Michael J. Muldowney, Republican, and between Twing Brooks, Democrat, and Edmund F. Erk, Republican.

SPEED HELD URGENT

Among other reasons given in the motion for a special grand jury was that the boxes containing the ballots involved in the elections under consideration will be called into use early next fall and hence should be submitted to the examination of a grand jury with all possible speed.

The election frauds committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association has been working with the government in gathering evidence. They will be represented in any court proceedings by Attorney John M. Henry.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park has also offered the assistance of his office to the government. He has stated he will prosecute violations of the state law which do not come within the scope of the federal statute.

Pretty Miss Evaline Baker, 21, told a story in five words today as she stood on a scale. The words are:

"Gosh — I gained seven pounds."

When the dry era ended just a little over a month ago, Miss Baker, who lives at 5025 Dearborn street, said she weighed 104 pounds. She explained that since that time she has drunk on the average of one bottle a day. She said:

"I thought that it was just a lot of prohibition propaganda when I first heard that beer would make one gain weight. So I thought I would find out for myself, and I did!"

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Oklahoma never looked prettier. Haven't seen a tractor working all day. The country has gone sane, and got back to horses. Farmers all look worse, but they feel better. Fathers Attend Boy Scout Dinner

Patrol stunts, speeches and exhibits featured the dinner and get-together of members of Boy Scout Troop No. 23 and their fathers in the Dormont Methodist Episcopal Church, Potomac avenue.

Andrew T. Benson, Scout executive of Allegheny County, and Blair Davis, scoutmaster and founder of the oldest troop in this area, were the principal speakers. The members of the troop are all shriners of the American Revolution, doing special duty in caring for graves of soldiers of the Revolution. E. M. Golden is scoutmaster.

ASSESSORS GIVE ALIENS VOTE, RIORDAN SAYS

False Entries to Bring Arrests; Probe Underway

Scores of names of aliens from industrial sections of Allegheny County are being placed on the books of register assessors as eligible voters in violation of the law, Leo A. Riordan, chief county investigator, today announced. Riordan warned that register assessors will be prosecuted for each case of registering an alien as a citizen.

Riordan explained that more than a dozen assessors already have been summoned to his office and warned that a check would be made of their records as soon as the books are completed, May 26. No arrests are to be made until after the registration period has ended, the investigator explained.

INVESTIGATORS AT WORK

Attaches of Riordan's office said that in 1931, prior to the primaries, several thousand names of aliens were removed from the books. Riordan has several men now working in industrial districts, following the register assessors, and where it is learned that aliens have been registered as qualified voters, the register is called in and directed to change his records. There will be no further warning, Riordan declared.

Riordan stated that in past years it has been the practice to register aliens and that repeaters vote under their names on election day. The law provides that register assessors can be prosecuted for each and every name of aliens placed on the records, and that any alien who states that he is a qualified voter also faces arrest.

EIGHT ACCUSED

Riordan said that his office is continuing the work of preparing informations against eight register assessors from McKees Rocks and Homestead, who are accused of placing thousands of phantom names on the books during the registration period preceding the 1931 primaries.

A check of the books, Riordan said, reveals that phantoms were listed as living in theaters, gasoline stations, vacant lots and under railroad bridges, and in one case more than 100 persons were listed as residing in one frame dwelling in Furnace street, McKees Rocks.

DISABLED VETERANS AT MARINE HOSPITAL MAKING POPPIES FOR TOMORROW'S SALE

All Urged to Wear Symbols of Help For Suffering

Tomorrow is Poppy Day.

Because the poppy is both a reminder of the World War and because the money is needed for veterans' relief, American Legion officials are asking everyone to wear the red blossoms.

All over the city, ladies of the Legion Auxiliary under direction of Mrs. Charles Yost, poppy chairman of the Allegheny County Council, will put on sale more than 300,000 poppies.

For the first time this year, too, the legion will give the poppies to school children free, asking only that contribution envelopes be taken home for such gifts as each family cares to make. This distribution will begin May 22.

All money collected from the sale of the poppies will be used for welfare work among disabled veterans and their dependents. Legion officials contend that President Roosevelt's economy measures have greatly increased the need for veterans' relief and ask the public to consider thus.

Poppies for the local sale were made at the Aspinwall and Marine hospitals under supervision of Mrs. C. L. Boogs. Working entirely by hand, the veterans fashioned from cloth and wire imitations of the red flowers which grew so cheerily on the drab battlefields of France.

Petter Bandit Victim Punches Suspect

Arthur Mooney, 24, held by city detectives as a suspect in petting party holdups, today was nursing a sore jaw, the result of blows dealt by one of his alleged victims during a "standup" in the Detective Bureau last night.

Mooney, occupant of a houseboat in the Monongahela River, near Browns Bridge, was arrested Tuesday night by Patrolman Andrew Butko, of Mifflin Township, and turned over to Detectives Sol Fromme and Joseph Jackson.

The detectives summoned two couples who had been held up recently in Commercial street to view the suspect. Edward Hefferman, a city fireman, of 910 Locust street, held up with a girl, April 13, and robbed of $41 and a hat, identified Mooney as the holdup man. He suddenly leaped forward and struck Mooney on the jaw several times. It required four detectives to pry him from the suspect.

Hefferman also identified the hat which Mooney was wearing as the one stolen from him in the holdup.

Robert Heintzelman, of 29 St. Clair drive, Mt. Lebanon, also held up with a girl companion, identified Mooney. Heintzelman was robbed of $3 and a wrist watch, tied to a tree and his companion attacked. Mooney denied the charges.

MARKET PLAN DEFENDED BY KAUFMANN

Edgar J. Kaufmann, Pittsburgh merchant, today replied to a protest by Diamond street and other merchants who are opposing a Reconstruction Finance loan for the building of a new market at Smithfield and Diamond streets.

The merchants and groups protesting sent a telegram to Harvey Couch, of the R. F. C. in Washington yesterday, protesting "against the proposed Kaufmann food store," and asking audience before action is taken on the loan.

TEXT OF PROTEST

The telegram:

"We strongly protest against pending R. F. C. loan to proposed Kaufmann Food Store and urgently request audience to present certain facts before loan is granted if you are seriously considering granting same.

"As we understand it, the Wagner R. F. C. bill permits government loans for construction projects which are needful and in the public interest or for rehabilitation purposes.

"This proposed Kaufmann Food Store is not a rehabilitation project, but is an entirely new project which is positively not needed and is not in the public interest. Food stores are now overdeveloped in Pittsburgh, especially in downtown district.

"Within three city blocks of proposed Kaufmann Food Store are the million dollar city-owned public market, the three-million dollar Donahoe Food Store and the three-million dollar McCann Food Store, and many other smaller food stores. Every grocer, butcher, restaurant man and farmer in Pittsburgh district is against using government money to finance a new food store in an already overcrowded industry.

"The published estimate of permanent employes on payroll proposed food store will have is greatly overestimated; furthermore there is little unemployment in the retail food business in Pittsburgh.

"There is a very strong sentiment here among all classes, general public, the business men and the farming element against this loan."

REGRETS OPPOSITION

Kaufmann's reply follows:

"The telegram sent to Director Harvey Couch, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at Washington by the Pittsburgh Public Market House Protective Association, the Retail Grocers' Association of Allegheny County, the Retail Meat Dealers' Association of Allegheny County, George Lafbury, president of the National League Commission Merchants, McCann & Co., Donahoe's Inc., Feigenbaum Bros., Pittsburgh Butter and Egg Exchange and the Retail Merchants' Association of Pennsylvania has been called to our attention through the public press.

"We regret that there should be any opposition to the proposed Smithfield Market by the above associations and individuals.

"Their statement to Director Harvey Couch is unfortunate and incorrect. Under the emergency relief and construction act of 1932, in order to assist in creating employment, the R. F. C. is authorized and empowered to make loans 'to private corporations to aid in carrying out the construction, replacement or improvement of bridges, tunnels, docks, viaducts, water canals and markets devoted to public use and which are self-liquidating in character.'

FOR PUBLIC USE

"The purpose of the Smithfield Market is to build a market devoted to public use and falls, as we have been advised, legally under this head. There is nothing in the act which refers to a construction project being 'needful,' 'in the public interests' or 'for rehabilitation purposes,' as quoted in their telegram.

"The telegram is misleading in calling it the Kaufmann Food Store as it will not be operated by the Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc., but the building will be constructed and owned by the Smithfield Market, which will rent stalls to individual merchants, who will conduct their own business in the spaces provided and devoted to public use.

"We believe that if the various organizations would study our plan and our proposal they would welcome this improvement as it would in the end inure to the benefit of all merchants in the downtown district, and provide employment so badly needed in the construction field.

ESTIMATE DEFENDED

"We challenge their statement that we have greatly overestimated the permanent employes on payrolls after construction. We have estimated the market will provide for the employment of over 1,000 people for six days a week at a total yearly payroll of about $850,000.

"We also challenge the statement that the market is not needed or in the public interest, evidenced by the fact that we have many applications for the renting of these stalls and have bonafide proposals for the entire basement and restaurant, the parking space and over 40 per cent of the stall space.

"Prior to seeing this public statement in the papers we understand a hearing to ascertain the facts had taken place in Pittsburgh between these associations and a representative of the R. F. C."

LAWYER AIDS KIDNAP FIGHT

BARNSTABLE, Mass., May 12.—(AP.)—Elias Burwick, Worcester lawyer, will undertake the defense of Kenneth Buck, confessed kidnaper of Margaret McMath, 10-year-old Harwichport girl and granddaughter of wealthy Detroit residents.

Burwick, who came here last night and talked with Buck in the County Jail where both he and his brother, Cyril, are awaiting action by a special session of the grand jury, said he felt "reasonably sure there is more to this case than has come out."

Moonshine Taken In Three Hill Raids

Moonshine was reported seized by police in raids on three alleged speakeasies in the Hill district last night. Those arrested were Mike Nossi and five visitors at 901 Webster avenue, Charles Abraham, at 44 Washington place, and Joseph Trapolis, at 801 Washington place. They were charged with keeping disorderly houses.

GROCER FACES DEATH CHARGE

David Fishman, 29, a grocer, of 2219 Bedford avenue, was held in the county jail today on a murder charge following a Coroner's inquest into the fatal stabbing of William J. Suppers, 36, of 2409 Ridgeway street.

Fishman was alleged to have stabbed Suppers with a butcher knife during an argument over a $6 grocery bill in his store, April 30. Suppers and his wife and five children had been receiving help from a welfare agency. A few days before the killing, he found employment in a Bedford avenue brick yard.

Robert Lane, Suppers' employer, testified Fishman called on him and asked him to discharge Suppers for his failure to settle the bill. Lane refused.

Suppers went to the Fishman store and in an altercation with Fishman was stabbed with a butcher knife, police reported.

Woman Injured In Window Leap

Mrs. Anna Rapp, 28, of 2622 California avenue, suffered a probable fracture of the left shoulder early today when she jumped from the first floor window of her home in an attempt to end her life, according to North Side police.

Police said they were unable to find a motive.

Death Calls Father Of 4 Marx Brothers

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—(AP.)—Samuel Marx, father of the Four Marx Brothers, died yesterday at the home of his son, Arthur (Harpo), after an illness caused by a kidney ailment. He was 72 years old, and was born in Alsace, France.

CHICAGO MAILS TEACHERS' PAY

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP.)—The city's 14,000 school teachers looked forward today to a quick succession of paydays within the coming weeks that would bring their salaries received up to last January 1.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly made the pomise late yesterday and to add reality to it said that checks totaling $3,400,000 for last September's unpaid salaries had been put in the mails. Others amounting to about $13,000,000 would go out within the next few days, he promised.

The payments were made possible by a promise of Chicago bankers to buy $12,750,000 worth of 1932 school tax anticipation warrants—if conditions laid down by them were acceptable to the Board of Education.

Splinter in Hand Fatal to Man, 64

Joseph Bellemare, 64, of 538 Tripoli street, died late yesterday in Allegheny General Hospital of blood poisoning caused when a splinter entered his right hand as he was scrubbing the floor of his home April 14, according to a coroner's report. Amputation of the arm failed to check the poisoning.

Unemployed Class Graduates Today

Closing exercises were to be held today for the Duquesne University "Adult Session" or school for unemployed in the Campus Theater. The Very Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of the university, was to be the principal speaker. An original play by Mrs. E. R. Cochran, one of the students, was on the program.

House Raided Twice, Rum Seized, 5 Held

Four women and a man were arrested, and wine, whisky, gin and moonshine whisky were reported confiscated by North Side police in two raids at 915 Irwin avenue early today.

Minnie Shaffer, 40, was charged with keeping a disorderly house and the others with being visitors in the first raid. The raiders reported taking six gallons of gin, five gallons of wine and a quantity of whisky in the first seizure. The second yielded five five-gallon jugs of moonshine, they said.

Pretty Waitresses Held Boon to Restaurants

CINCINNATI, O., May 12.—(AP.)—Dr. Frank S. Slutz, Dayton, O., told the Ohio Restaurant Association good-looking waiters and waitresses help their business. He said:

Victor Gillner, 14, of R. F. D. 1, Glenshaw, died today in Allegheny General Hospital. He was struck by an auto while riding a bicycle yesterday, according to a Coroner's report.

CASH AID HERE FROM R. F. C. RESTRICTED

Only public improvement projects which pay their own way are in line for loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under the present rules, according to the committees from the city and county who have returned from Washington.

Further legislation is expected, however, which may ease some of the present restrictions.

The county delegation, headed by Charles Haydock, Philadelphia engineer, has announced it will make a formal report to County Commissioners.

The only self-liquidating projects in the county program are the bridges at Homestead, Aspinwall and Natrona, and they would be so only if toll is charged.

In the city's $22,500,000 program, the only project which may be considered as paying its own way is the $4,500,000 water works improvement including the new Lincoln district reservoir.

E. N. Hunting, Pittsburgh architect, who is chairman of the National Committee for Trade Recovery, has called attention to the fact that the R. F. C., even under the self-liquidating provision, has made loans in 24 other states and one territory totaling $58,038,250 for water supply systems.

Pennsylvania Tires

Jeannette Plant Busy

JEANNETTE, Pa., May 10.—(Special)—With hundreds of orders received within the last three weeks, the Pennsylvania Rubber Company, Jeannette, is now in operation 7 days a week at full capacity, according to W. O. Rutherford, president.

Men whose working hours were cut because of slack business during the past three years have been restored to their former pay basis, and a number of new employes added to the pay list.

"Business is better than it has been any time during the last four years, I believe we are at the turning point now," said President Rutherford, who yesterday celebrated his fifth year as head of the Pennsylvania Rubber Company and the thirty-fourth anniversary of the company's establishment.

"This old fly-rod" he says, "shows why fresh Gulf gas is better"

STALE GAS can't deliver full power. Stale gas can't give you full mileage —can't give you fast get-away.

New R-D-R process insures FRESHNESS in Gulf

That's why it's important—always—to get fresh gas. And Gulf gas is always fresh. Gulf's high-speed delivery system rushes fresh Gulf Gas to the pumps. And that gas STAYS FRESH LONGER, due to Gulf's exclusive R-D-R process—a process that actually delays deterioration.

Whether you buy Gulf Gas in the city where it's refined or on a lonely road miles away . . . that R-D-R process insures you're getting FRESH gas—lively, peppy gas—packed with power and mileage. Try a tankful—today! Doesn't cost a penny more!

5 important facts about fresh Gulf gas

On the basis of months of experiments made independently by a famous Chemical Laboratory, Gulf offer these findings to motorists:

- Fresh Gas starts faster than stale gas.
- Fresh Gas gives you more power than stale gas.
- Fresh Gas gives you more mileage.
- Fresh Gas is higher in anti-knock rating than stale gasoline.
- Fresh Gas is cleaner-burning—contains less motor fouling residue than stale gas.

"This fly-rod lost its whip and liveliness because it's old," says the chemical engineer. "Something's gone out of it that never returns. The same thing happens to gas. As gas gets old it gets weak . . . lifeless. The 'light ends'—the most important parts of gas have evaporated—never to return." So it pays to get only FRESH Gas—Gulf Gas!

MOTHER'S DAY PLANNING BEGINS

Sunday will be Mother's Day.

Proclaimed by President Roosevelt, observed in the hearts of millions of citizens, the theme of mother love will be celebrated in public gatherings here.

An advance observance will be held in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. at 6 p. m. tomorrow, when mothers will be guests at a banquet by the boys' division. "The Mother-Son Partnership," an address by Mrs. J. L. McBride, of Ben Avon, will feature the program.

On Sunday, hundreds of homeless men will gather at the Improvement of the Poor, at 428 Duquesne way and 1001 Webster avenue, for a service devoted to the memory of "Mother." Vocal and instrumental music, rendered by musicians sheltered by the association, will be offered; and "Mother" songs will be rendered in chorus.

Attorney M. Nerenberg will be principal speaker at the annual Mother's Day program of the Evergreen Club, Sunday evening in the Y. M and W. H. A. A one-act play, "Whose Money," and a musical number will be presented.

Meanwhile the hearts of the city and the nation will echo the prayer of the President's proclamation—that everything possible be done "for the relief and welfare of mothers and children who may be in need of the necessities of life."

Eleven Girls Die In Reformatory Fire

MANILA, P. I., May 12.—(AP.)—Trapped by bars, 11 girl inmates burned to death today in a fire which destroyed the Philippine Training School for Girls, a government reformatory.

Police suspect arson. Eighty-one inmates escaped from the building.

CHAMBER PICKS 12 DIRECTORS

Twelve new members of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce were elected yesterday in the Chamber rooms. From a list of 18 candidates the following men were elected:

F. L. Andrews, manager, William Penn Hotel; Frank F. Brooks, president, First National Bank at Pittsburgh; B. J. Cassidy, secretary, commercial department, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company; F. J. Chesterman, vice president, Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania; George S. Davison, president, Davison Coke and Iron Company; H. A. Gidney, vice president and comptroller, Gulf Refining Company; F. A. Merrick, president, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company; John M. Phillips, president, Phillips Mine and Mill Supply Company; Walter Rosenbaum, vice president, the Rosenbaum Company; A. B. Shepherd, vice president, Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation; Walter B. Spellmire, manager, General Electric Company, and Joe C. Trees, vice president, Benedum-Trees Oil Company.

The board membership is 36, those chosen yesterday being to fill terms that had expired.

MAN'S SUICIDE SAVES WIFE

NEW YORK, May 12.—(INS.)—Mrs. Margaret Grossman, biology student at Columbia University, had a fighting chance for life today because her husband became impatient with the slowness with which the poison they had taken in a suicide pact was taking effect.

He shot and killed himself in the bathroom of their apartment in upper Manhattan. The shot attracted the attention of other boarders in the building, who broke into the apartment, discovered Mrs. Grossman's condition and telephoned for police and ambulances.

The husband, Edgar F. Grossman, 39, was dead when police arrived. He was a candidate for the degree of doctor of philosophy. He left a note explaining why he and his wife had entered the suicide pact. It said:

"In routine of privations, not believing in another life, we merely desire the end of this one."

MATCH RACKET FOILED HERE

Police today sought two men whose scheme to obtain 2,500 boxes of matches from the Berry cigar store, 304 Diamond street, was foiled yesterday.

The Better Business Bureau reported the store received a telephone order for the matches from a man who said he was secretary of a well-known club. He said two men would call for them.

The store manager, suspicious, called the club and learned no such order had been placed. Arriving before the police, the pair departed hastily when the matches were refused them.

"Amazing—that Beech-Nut costs but little more than other coffees"

Mrs. A. Rex Flinn

Open a tin of Beech-Nut Coffee. Notice its mellow fragrance, its rich aroma. Different? Of course! It's a difference you'll find only in rare mountain-grown coffee... ripened in golden sunshine and rarefied mountain air. It's a difference that prompts Mrs. Flinn to write, "My friends actually praise my coffee since I commenced using Beech-Nut and they are very critical about coffee. They recognized the really delicious difference with the very first cup."

You, too, will find Beech-Nut extra flavorful, extra mellow, extra fragrant. With your very first sip you'll agree with Mrs. Flinn that "Beech-Nut is outstanding." For Mrs. Flinn adds, "I don't know of any brand of coffee that can compare with Beech-Nut, and I think I must have tried them all. It is really amazing that Beech-Nut costs but little more than what I would have to pay for other coffees."

•

Coffee ALWAYS at its best

Only those who use Beech-Nut Coffee regularly can appreciate the great difference between this rare flavor from tropic heights and just coffee.

So we thank you, Mrs. Flinn, for helping us acquaint the housewives of Pittsburgh with the superior quality of Beech-Nut Coffee.

Yet in spite of the extra trouble and expense it takes to get such coffee, Beech-Nut brings this delicious mountain coffee to you for but little more than you pay for ordinary coffees — it is a luxury in flavor, but no luxury in price.

And remember, the full fresh flavor of Beech-Nut Coffee is sealed in high vacuum tins a few minutes after it leaves the roasting oven. Its flavor and its freshness are always certain — it is coffee always at its best.

Rain is ruining golf during our prolonged rainy season, but there's one diversion that it doesn't interfere with one bit, thank goodness, and that is bridge. So for the time being bridge parties are taking the place of golfing in the sun.

A most attractive party is a bridge-luncheon Mrs. J. S. McCrady, Jr., of Braddock avenue, is giving in her home today. There are eight tables in play with the affair in honor of Mrs. Frank J. McClurg, the retiring president of the Dilworth Hall Alumnae Association. Mrs. McClurg has been president for the past six years.

The guests are either executives or committee members of the association. Aiding the hostess are Mrs. T. F. Ryan and Mrs. B. F. Daley.

The new officers of the club are Mrs. B. F. Handloser, president; Mrs. Paul D. Hutchison, first vice president; Mrs. C. F. Fergus, second vice president; Mrs. Thomas Pringle, secretary and treasurer of the scholarship fund; Mrs. W. M. B. Armstrong, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. B. F. Daley, treasurer.

Uniontown Girl Weds At Church Ceremony

St. John's Roman Catholic Church, Uniontown, was the scene of the marriage on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock of Miss Mary Cray, daughter of James R. Cray, of Uniontown, and John C. Sheedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Sheedy, of Bryant street. The church was decorated with tall standards of calla lilies and ferns. The Rev. B. P. Kenna officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin and rose point lace, princess style, with a full court train and her veil was of ivory tulle with a cap of rose point caught with oragne blossoms. She carried orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Howard A. Vilsack, as her sister's matron of honor, wore flowered organza with ruffled sleeves and a lace hat. She carried an arm bouquet of spring flowers. Morgan F. Sheedy was his brother's best man and ushers were Charles Sheedy, Dr. Leo P. Sheedy and Scott Sheedy, also brothers of the bridegroom, and Howard A. Vilsack, brother-in-law of the bride. James Cray Meade and Knighton T. Meade, nephews of the bride, were pages.

The bridegroom's mother wore a tea rose gown with brown accessories.

There was a wedding breakfast in the Cray home for 60 guests, after which Mr. and Mrs. Sheedy left for Havana. They will be at home in the Wal-Den Apartments here upon their return.

D. A. R. Chapter to Visit Gen. John Neville Farm

A motorcade pilgrimage to the historic Gen. John Neville farm has been planed for tomorrow by the Gen. John Neville Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The party will stop first at old St. Luke's Church, near Woodville, then proceed to the colonial home of Presley Neville, on to the site of the Gen. John Neville home and the journey will terminate at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew G. Smith, where short addresses will be made.

Among the guests will be Dr. John W. Oliver, John E. Potter and J. C. Chaplin. An informal dinner will be served the Daughters and their guests. Emerson S. Smith is directing the pilgrimage.

Delmont Club Entertains Last Federation Caravan

Although there were several good talks at the last of the State Federation's inter-county caravans yesterday, nothing on the program created as much comment as the profuse and artistic decorations with which the Delmont Clubwomen had filled the Presbyterian Church where the caravan concluded its travels.

Thirteen different towns were represented by the 100 women who were welcomed from three counties by Mrs. Eugene Ressler, president of the Delmont Woman's Club.

Mrs. James G. Chalfant, district president of the State Federation, presided and talks were given in the morning by Mrs. William Rossiter on "The Pennsylvania Clubwoman;" Mrs. E. L. Thomssen, district chairman of publicity; Mrs. Charles M. Bregg, club editor of the Sun-Telegraph; Mrs. C. C. Taylor, chairman of work for the blind in the federation, who gave a comprehensive survey of the school situation in the state, and Mrs. Mildred Scott Olmstead, of the Women's International League for Peace.

In the afternoon Mrs. J. Charles Runk, district chairman of fine arts, spoke concerning "The Quest for Beauty." Mrs. Samuel Cuthbert, district motion picture chairman, urged the women to vote for good movies by patronizing them.

Mrs. Richard B. Perry, district member of the program committee, gave an excellent talk with charts, and Mrs. Chalfant discussed the federation and types of clubwomen and their places in the work.

Mrs. Bert Guth gave a reading, with Mrs. Richard McNemar at the piano, and Mrs. Guth and Mrs. Arthur Frye sang a duet. Miss Mary Lauffer gave piano solos.

Rockledge Club First to Send Out Book

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The very first year book of this season is that of the Rockledge Garden Club, which begins its year when other clubs are ending theirs. Again unlike the regulation woman's club which recesses during the summer, the Garden Club meets through the summer months.

Rockledge will have its annual flower show in the Waverly Presbyterian Church on June 12 with a luncheon and a trip to Babcock Farms and Sewickley Gardens the same day. Mrs. Alexander P. Lindsay, a former president, will be hostess.

In July the club will hear an address by Stanley W. Leonard and in August a talk by Ralph Griswold. A trip to the Linden unit gardens and a seed exchange also are planned for August. H. S. Wieans is the speaker for September, Mrs. Roy Arthur Hunt for October and Miss Katherine Miller for November.

A sealed program is scheduled for January and the year will be concluded with the February and March meetings, at which Mrs. William H. Mercur and Mrs. Harry Davis are to be the speakers.

The club has grown to 82 members and this year has Mrs. Frank D. Newbury as its president.

FASHION BRINGS FORTH CHIC FOR COMMUTER'S COSTUMES

WITH THE advent of warmer days and the resulting informality of our nights it is essential to have clothes that one may wear during the day and still look nice in over the dinner table. This problem is particularly important to the business woman who commutes and for the suburban dweller who comes to the city to shop and remains to dine.

* * *

FOR THE business woman there is the dress sketched at the right, made of heavy ribbed sheer silk in that lovely dark string color so popular and smart this season. The short-sleeved dress has a high neckline with a turned over collar and a stitched fabric belt. Just for jest there is a perfectly enormous brown chiffon tie dotted in white. The wide-shouldered swagger coat is of the same material, although it might well have been of string color linen or thin wool. Note the small revers on the coat and the fine pleats at the sides of the frock. This is conservative for business, yet cool and soft enough without the coat to wear informally to dinner in town.

* * *

AT THE left i. an ideal ensemble for the suburbanite who comes in for dinner and the theater; conservative enough so as not to make the wearer feel conspicuous while en route. The jacket, with silver fox banding the sleeves, can be converted into a cape by unclasping the snaps that hold the sleeves together. And either way, as a cape or jacket, it boasts the new back fullness. The scarf, made of the same material, is attached to the jacket. The dress is likewise of heavy sheer except for the top of the bodice, which is of natural-colored alencon lace extending to the waistline in back, giving a dressy look when the cape is removed.

RACKET LEADER SOUGHT PEACE WITH U. S.

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Waxey Gordon, a fugitive since his indictment last month on charges of evading an income tax of $382,974, knew the indictment was coming and tried to settle with the federal government for $500,000, it was revealed today.

The Treasury Department, dealing with Gordon through Max Hassell, gangster since slain, refused to compromise and the grand jury action followed.

ATTACKS SYNDICATE

This vain dicker of the beer baron for his freedom was made known simultaneously with the government's latest assault on the Gordon tri-state syndicate of breweries.

Before Burt Andrews, chief counsel of the United States Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, Assistant United States Attorney General Norman Morrison yesterday endeavored to obtain revocation of a 3.2 beer permit issued to the Harrison Cereal Beverage Company, of Harrison, N. J.

Morrison sought the revocation on the basis of evidence linking the Harrison company to the headquarters of Waxey Gordon in the Elizabeth Carteret Hotel, where Max Hassell and Max Greenburg, Gordon aides, were executed by gang guns April 12.

GANG'S BILLS PAID

Telling that "the boys" hired the hotel suite for $50,000 a year, Pierre Kuneyl, manager of the hotel, revealed that Lou Cohen, one of the men sought by police since the Hassell-Greenburg shooting, had recently walked up to the desk and settled up all the gang's bills. Kuneyl said:

"Since then we have had to repaint the suite, cover up bullet holes and clean away blood stains on the walls."

OBITUARY

W. S. Brown.

Funeral services for W. S. Brown, 75, who died Thursday at his home, 15 Stowe street, Ingram, will be held there tomorrow afternoon.

Member of a pioneer Pittsburgh family and a lifelong resident of the district, Mr. Brown was the husband of the late Nellie Chapman Brown. For most of his life he was engaged in the awning business in the downtown section and Ingram. He was a member of Lodge No. 484, F. and A. M.

He leaves a son, J. S. Brown; four daughters, Mrs. W. G. Graham, Mrs. S. J. Creighton, Jr., Mrs. J. L. Austin and Mrs. John R. Taylor; two brothers and six grandchildren.

Ellen Quigley.

Mrs. Ellen Quigley, for 50 years a resident of Munhall, died yesterday at her home, 924 Eighth avenue, Munhall. She had been married 60 years last Saturday.

She leaves her husband, Christopher Quigley; three sons, William J. and J. Z. Quigley, of Munhall, and John, of Coatesville, and two daughters, Mrs. James Evans and Miss Nettie Quigley, both of Munhall.

She was a member of St. Mary Magdalene Church.

Brashear Funeral.

Funeral services for Alfred R. Brashear, 87, will be held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Howard R. MacBurney, Dickerson Run, at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Interment will be in Hoffman Cemetery, near Smithton. Mr. Brashear died Wednesday at his home in Dickerson Run.

RADIOING FOR THE FOREST ARMY

What Are You Going To Do About It?

Until a few days ago, William Brown was an unknown man.

He was known, of course, to his neighbors.

He was known also to his patrons in business as the head of a trucking company in New York City, and likewise, it seems, he was known to RACKETEERS. But the public had never heard of William Brown until lately.

According to police records, here is what happened:

A trio of men "organized" themselves as officials of "the Five Borough Truckmen's Association," purporting to "control" a large section of the metropolis, with its rich pickings.

Brown was "invited" to "join" the "association" and to pay for its "protection."

His business, his employes and his life were threatened if he did not join.

Brown replied that he was "an American citizen who knew his rights" and the "organizers" could go where they belonged.

Soon afterward, one of his trucks was stalled on the road with acid in its cylinders.

Then two employes—one of them his brother—were beaten.

Then Brown was visited again, and "invited" at the point of a pistol to "join" the "protective association."

Did he? He did not! He went to the authorities, and got the three men whom he accuses INDICTED for coercion, conspiracy and assault.

Today, William Brown is in the news—deservedly. He has HAD THE COURAGE TO EXPOSE A RACKET.

But ALL the rackets that prey on men like William Brown must be exposed and broken. And every law-abiding American can help to break them.

What are YOU going to do about it?

Refrigeration Men See Good Outlook

Anticipating a successful year, more than 500 refrigeration dealers and salesmen today had returned to districts throughout the tri-state territory, following a convention at the Fort Pitt Hotel.

E. A. Hamburg, president of Hamburg Brothers, presided, while Prof. Frank Steining, of the University of Pittsburgh, discussed mechanical details of the Majestic refrigerator. Other speakers represented Hamburg Brothers and the Grigsby-Grunow Company.

BUTLER FAVORS AL FOR MAYOR

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and a leading Republican, was on record today as favoring election of Alfred E. Smith, Tammany sachem, as Mayor of New York.

He hurled his suggestion like a verbal bomb into a gathering of Republican district leaders and party workers last night.

The audience gasped and then there was applause. Then Albert E. Schwartz, Republican leader of the Sixteenth Assembly District, assumed spokesmanship for the opposition. He declared

"Al Smith is a product of Tammany, a sachem of Tammany, and I wouldn't take him on a silver platter."

Doctor Attacked In Office by Gunman

ERIE, Pa., May 12.—(AP.)—An unidentified man attacked and threatened to kill Dr. Frank Beck in his office last night.

The physician sustained severe injuries to his left eye and head during a scuffle, while the gunman received deep lacerations about the forehead, when struck by the doctor with a bottle containing pills.

98 to Be Arraigned In U.S. Court Monday

United States Attorney Louis E. Graham today announced Monday would be arraignment day in Federal Court for 98 defendants in criminal cases, mostly alleged liquor law offenders.

Those desiring to plead guilty will be taken before the court at once. Others will be listed for trial.

FOREST ARMY'S MESSAGES IN CODE

Plain English is plain English, it seems, until an Army radio amateur starts to dot and dash a message. At least that's the way Lieut. Harold Evans, chief radio officer for the 2nd Combat Train, 176th Field Artillery, Logan Armory, explains the shorthand-like abbreviations which keep secret the messages sent through the ether by young men of the Civilian Conservation Army to sweethearts, friends and families back home.

Although the communications are not in code, abbreviations and symbols that would puzzle anyone but a well trained radio operator are used.

The two Logan Armory stations, known to radio amateurs as W8HEE and W8BEU, are part of a 25-station network the Army maintains in Western Pennsylvania. Through other Army stations near forest camps, two-way communication is maintained free for men who went to the camps from the Pittsburgh district.

When messages are received here, many of them are rebroadcast for quicker reception by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Globe Trotter. Where possible, others are telephoned or forwarded on special radiogram postcards.

Helping Lieut. Evans to operate the stations are Walter Glaus, Carl Lingenfelder, John Wargo and William Young. All have radio licenses.

WOMAN'S PLEA FOR CASH TOLD

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—(AP.)—Mrs. Estelle M. Wolon's alleged plea that Charles Newbold Welsh, wealthy clubman, "sell a few stocks and get Estelle a nice mink wrap" was read into the record today in the Chicago divorcee's suit for breach of promise against Welsh.

Only a few minutes before Mrs. Wolon walked into court, late, wearing a mink jacket, a black pancake hat trimmed with white flowers and a nose veil, and a long, close-fitting black dress.

Defense counsel has more letters to submit, each identified as having been written by Mrs. Wolon to Welsh from 1927 to 1930. During this period the tea room proprietress alleges she obtained a divorce because Welsh proposed marriage, and then gave her up for his wife.

Police Say Man Worked Racket On Them

Edward Mason, police allege, invaded police and fire stations and took orders for shoes at $4.50 a pair, collecting 50 cents, with the balance to be paid when the shoes came.

But the shoes didn't come. So the police went after Mason, and booked him in Central Station as a suspicious person.

City Detectives John McCollough and John Dean said Mason used an alias, A. W. Van Sickle, lived at 616 Taylor street, North Side, and admitted to collecting from 99 firemen and two score police.

$10,000 BOND SET FOR 7 IN BOMBING

Bond for six men and a woman held in the Tenth Ward racket bombing was set at $10,000 each by District Attorney Andrew T. Park today.

The bond was fixed at the request of Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd. One of the suspects is Frank Churazzi, 35, of 228 Gross street, described by Boyd as "the big shot who threatened to run the Police Department and the Detective Bureau."

Churazzi was taken back to a cell in Central Police Station from a bed in Allegheny General Hospital, where he was taken yesterday after complaining he was ill.

All were charged with arson and malicious destruction by explosives. They had been held on suspicious person charges, but five of them were released yesterday on $500 bond each by Judge Frank P. Patterson when they sought habeas corpus writs.

Judge Patterson dismissed the petitions today when informed they had been charged formally with the bombing. The seven will be arraigned in Central Police Court on the new charges tomorrow.

The home of Charles Martin, Republican chairman of the Tenth Ward, was bombed Wednesday. Detectives said he had refused to seek favor with the new city administration for racketeers.

Those held with Churazzi are Kathryn Cherry, of 309 Fifty-Sixth street; David Gauta, 35; Joseph Bondi, 32, and Nick Gurgiolo, 18, of 4823 Penn avenue; John Caldone, 21, of 6923 Greenwood street, and Joe Gurgiolo, 31, of 5164 Butler street.

Co-Eds Say Dates Are Spoiled by Initiations

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., May 12.—Fraternity initiations are "childish," "out of date" and "cruel," just as the Holcad, Westminster College student paper, said, freshmen women of Browne Hall have decided.

The co-eds declared that the initiations interfere with dating and that noises made by first year men, who were supposedly singing, were distracting during study periods.

The fraternities on the campus have bombarded the paper with protests to the editorial which appeared under the caption, "Wanted—Intelligence."

Man Like Maid Wife Says in Divorce Suit

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP.)—The complaint Mrs. Anna Szymanski made against her husband was this:

"He prefers to stay home and keep house and cook and scrub. Also, like a maid, he insists on having Thursday night off."

She asked a court to give her a divorce.

Horse Shoots Self By Tramping Shell

MILWAUKEE, May 12.—(AP.)—There was an explosion under the hoofs of George Held's horse as the animal pulled a milk wagon. Held found four wounds caused by bird shot in the horse's chest.

The horse apparently stepped on a shotgun shell and shot itself.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

WEDDING CAKE WITH THREE ICINGS — 2 pounds butter, 2 pounds sugar, ½ cup caramel, 8 cups flour, 18 eggs, 6 pounds currants, 1½ pounds mixed peel, ½ pound blanched sweet almonds (grated), 2 lemons (grated rind), ½ nutmeg (grated), 1 ounce mixed spice, ½ pint sherry, 1 teaspoon salt.

Wash and dry currants. Add grated nutmeg. Cream butter well, add sugar and cream well until light and fluffy. Add salt, and beat in eggs, one at a time. Work flour in gradually, then remainder of ingredients, but only a little at a time. Mix very well. Line large cake tin with three layers waxed paper, pour mixture in and bake in moderately warm oven five hours. Allow it to stand for one or more days, then cover with almond icing, and coat with royal and transparent icing. Lastly decorate cake with royal icing according to taste and artistic skill.

* * *

Almond Icing—1 pound sugar, ¾ pound ground sweet almonds, 3 eggs, a little rose or orange flour water.

Mix well, sugar and almonds together. Make a well in the center, break in the 3 eggs, add a little rose water and stir to a firm paste. Turn onto a pastry board, dusting with sugar to prevent sticking. Roll with rolling pin to size of cake. Place on top and press smooth with a wide spatula.

Royal Icing—½ pound confectioner's sugar, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 egg white.

Put egg white in bowl, add sugar gradually and beat well with wooden spoon or spatula until smooth and white and brilliant. Add lemon juice. Spread on cake, over other frosting.

Transparent Icing—1 pound cubed sugar, ½ gill (one-half cup) warm water.

Put sugar and water into double boiler and et dissolve. Bring to boil and let simmer about 5 minutes or until thick syrup is formed (250 degrees). Pour into basin, stir until almost cold and set, then spread. Then decorate with royal icing, with aid of pastry tube.

* * *

IRISH MOSS BLANC MANGE—A small handful of moss (about ½ cup or less, to be purchased at drug store). Wash carefully; 1 quart sweet milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla or lemon, 1 egg white.

Put moss into quart of milk and allow to simmer about 20 minutes over very low flame, or until moss is dissolved, then stir in butter and remove from fire and strain through sieve. Add sugar and flavoring and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into molds and chill.

* * *

CARROT PIE—1¼ cups of carrots, forced through sieve; ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon each cinnamon and salt; ¼ teaspoon ginger; ⅛ teaspoon cloves; 1 slightly beaten egg; 1 cup milk.

Mix in order given. Bake in pastry-lined tin until mixture is firm in center. Serve with whipped cream.

* * *

PRUDENCE PENNY TEA SQUARES

One cup each, dates, water, butter, sugar and flour. One-half teaspoon salt. One tablespoon lemon juice. Two and one-half cups rolled oats.

Cook pitted dates with water over low flame until a paste is formed. When cool, add lemon juice.

Cream butter and sugar well together, then add sifted flour, rolled oats and salt. Stir until mixture holds together. Place half the mixture in an ungreased pan and smooth it (layer should not be more than one-fourth inch thick). Spread remaining pastry and bake. After removing from oven mark into 2-inch squares. Cut when cold. These cookies are more delicious if chilled before serving. Bake 30 minutes in 325 degree oven. Makes 24 squares.

* * *

PEACH SALAD

Six halves of peaches, two cups nuts, one cup celery, one cup dressing, one-half cup whipping cream, one head lettuce.

Mix chopped nuts and celery. Divide into even portions on six lettuce leaves. Keep well in the center and cover with one teaspoon of the dressing; cover with inverted peach, so it will have the appearance of a fried egg. Put dressing around the peach.

DRESSING:

Two egg yolks, one and one-half teaspoons flour, four tablespoons sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup vinegar or lemon juice.

Sift dry ingredients, add to beaten egg yolks. Stir in vinegar or lemon juice and cook until it thickens. Thin with cream if necessary. Add whipped cream when cooled.

* * *

BRIDE'S CHOCOLATE PIE—½ pound chocolate wafers, 1 teaspoon granulated gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, ⅓ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ pint whipping cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 egg whites, ⅓ cup boiling water.

Roll wafers and put half of them into buttered pie tin. Dissolve gelatine in cold water and let stand 5 minutes. Add boiling water, mix well and cool. Beat egg whites stiff, beat in sugar and salt. Whip cream and add to egg mixture, add gelatine. Mix well and add vanilla. Pour into pan lined with crumbs. Cover with remaining crumbs. Let stand in refrigerator over night.

* * *

DELICIOUS STUFFED ONIONS—6 medium onions, 1½ cups corn, 1½ cups milk, 4 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 small can asparagus tips, ¼ pound young American cheese, sprinkling of paprika.

Remove skin from onions and remove center. Drop into salted boiling water and cook until slightly tender (being careful not to break). Heat milk and butter together in sauce-pan, add corn, salt and pepper and cook about 5 minutes if canned corn is used (20 minutes if fresh corn is used. Remove from pan; turn upside down to drain. Place onions in pan with just a little water. In center of each sprinkle first with grated cheese, 3 stalks of asparagus with tips up; then fill in center with corn. Sprinkle top lavishly with grated cheese and sprinkling of paprika. Place in moderate oven long enough to melt cheese, about 10 minutes. Serve on platter garnished with broiled tomatoes and chopped parsley. Serve hot.

* * *

CHERRY PUDDING—One can cherries, 1 cup butter, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¾-cup flour, 1 cup sugar, ¼-teaspoon nutmeg.

Line a deep glass dish with cherries and juice. Mix butter, flour and sugar together and crumble over fruit. Sprinkle with cinnamon and nutmeg. Bake 45 minutes.

* * *

SPICED OATMEAL PUDDING—One quart cooked oatmeal, 1 pint milk, 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup raisins, 1-3 cup molasses, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-3 teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg, ½-cup chopped walnut meats.

Mix all together and bake in a

Potato Found to Be Valuable In Overcoming Acidity

This Staple Vegetable Has Been Found by Chemists To Be Alkali-forming. A Well-balanced Diet Should Include This Food.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

We do get a lot of surprises about foods when they are studied critically. Even our old friend the potato is not fully understood. Some persons continue to be skeptical that the potato is an alkali-producing food. They insist it causes acidity.

When I became commissioner of health of New York City I was forced to unlearn a lot of things I had regarded as absolute facts. For example, I couldn't get used to the idea that actual physical contact with a scarlet fever case is necessary to get the contagion. It was hard to believe it isn't necessary to "fumigate" a house as we used to do after the patient recovered from an infectious disease.

In the world of foods great changes are recorded. The food chemists are traveling so fast it is difficult to keep up with them. One needs to be a mental acrobat and gymnast to keep abreast of their rapid progress.

REDUCES ACIDITY

The chemists have actually determined that the potato is alkali-forming. This staple food has been found to be very efficient in reducing the acidity of the body.

We think about the starch it contains and naturally compare it to bread, which is really acid-forming. Eggs, meat and oatmeal, too, produce acid. But the old-fashioned potato is alkali-forming.

Suppose I give you some figures: Dried beans have alkali-producing qualities of from 25 to 40 per cent; lettuce seven per cent; oranges, six per cent; turnips, three per cent. The potato is between seven and eight per cent alkali.

ALKALINE ELEMENTS

As a matter of fact, the potato is particularly valuable in overcoming acidity. Let me give you the exact language of one of the great food authorities. This is what he says:

> "The alkaline salts are found in greater abundance in the potato than any other staple vegetable food. The potato furnishes 40 times as much of these alkaline elements as do some of the cereals. Human beings require the potato and green vegetables to furnish these salts for the same reason that the animal requires grass."

You see the ancient and honorable potato deserves all the honors. It was one of the most important of the food discoveries.

In potatoes and meat we have a combination admirably suited to the needs of the body. When there are added vegetables, particularly the green vegetables, or fruit, we have a well-balanced meal.

hot oven until firm. Serve with white sauce and whipped cream.

WHITE SAUCE

One quart milk, scalded, thickened with flour, then add sugar to taste. Boil several minutes. Let cool, then add vanilla, and if desired, fold in a cup of cream whipped stiff.

* * *

DELICIOUS VEAL

Veal steak from the round, cutting out fat and bone. Cut into convenient serving pieces, dip first in crumbs, then egg, then crumbs and then egg again. Fry to a light brown in skillet. Then cover and allow to stand over very low flame about 10 minutes. Then pour in enough hot milk to cover, and place in oven for one hour. The milk will be absorbed and the meat will be so tender only a fork will be needed to cut it. Always season the bread crumbs before breading the meat.

* * *

GRANDMOTHER'S GOLDEN PLATE

Cover bottom of a buttered pan about 5x9x2 inches with sliced, smoked raw ham about ½-inch thick. Pour over 2 cups milk and 2 or 3 eggs slightly beaten together. Then carefully cover with slices of buttered white bread, cut about ¾-inch thick, buttered side up. Bake uncovered in slow oven about 1 hour. Serves 2 or 3 persons.

* * *

PEANUT BUTTER FUDGE.—2½ cups white sugar, 1 cup milk or cream, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cup light or dark syrup, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 tablespoons peanut butter.

Place sugar, syrup and cream over slow fire and stir occasionally to prevent burning. Boil until a few drops dropped into cold water form soft ball that will hold together when rolled between fingers. Take from fire and add salt, butter and vanilla. While hot stir in the peanut butter. Let cool until it begins to thicken, then beat well until thick and creamy. Pour in buttered pan and mark in squares.

* * *

CARROT MINCEMEAT.—2 pounds carrots, peeled and cooked tender, chopped fine: 2 quarts chopped apples, 2 pounds seedless raisins, ½ pound chopped suet, ½ pound chopped citron, grated rind of 6 oranges, grated rind of 6 lemons, juice of 1 lemon and 1 orange, 1 pound brown sugar, 3 teaspoons each cloves, cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg, one pint cider.

Cook until raisins swell, and can.

* * *

SOUTHERN CHOCOLATE WALNUT CAKE—1½ cups sugar, ½ cup butter, 1 cup sour cream or water, 1 cup chopped walnut meats, 4 eggs, separated, 2¾ cups flour, 2 squares chocolate, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each, cinamon and vanilla, ¾ cup potatoes (mashed.)

Mix shortening and sugar until very creamy. Add yolks of eggs, beaten well, sour cream and nuts. Stir in flour that has been sifted with baking powder and salt. Add cinnamon and mashed potatoes (measure into cup lightly—do not pack down.) Then add melted chocolate and vanilla and fold in egg whites that are beaten to a stiff froth. Bake in greased and floured pan, 360 degrees for 40 minutes. Ice with seven minute frosting. This makes a large cake.

* * *

CREAM OF WATERCRESS SOUP—Pick over and thoroughly wash 1 large bunch of fresh watercress, and chop fine. Add 3 cups of veal, bring to boiling point and gently simmer 10 to 12 minutes, then strain through double cheesecloth. Then add following: 4 tablespoons butter, melted, and blended with: 5 tablespoons flour. Sift until smooth. Add to veal mixture. Heat again to boiling point and add the following: ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup hot rich cream, ⅛ teaspoon white pepper, a little green vegetable coloring to make light green tint. Sprinkle over each portion finely chopped pistachio nuts or finely chopped parsley.

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples. If neglected, it can seriously impair health.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MY OWN LIFE STORY :: By EVELYN NESBIT THAW

needed some; we were wondering how we could purchase it, not having any cash.

Suddenly, we remembered the $500 letter of credit which Stanford White had given us and which we had not used until this time. So we went to Cook's office and cashed a small check.

Then Thaw returned from London. The lingerie we had purchased happened to be on a small settee in the living room.

"What's this stuff?" he asked. "Where did it come from?"

Without thinking, I said:

"We bought it yesterday."

"I thought you said you lost your money playing petits chevaux," said Thaw, staring at me.

"Well," I said, "my mother had a little extra money."

"Oh, she did, eh?" said Thaw.

He called her.

Not knowing of the tense situation which existed between Thaw and myself regarding Stanford White, and being a guileless soul anway, it did not take Thaw long to worm the truth out of her.

"Show me that letter of credit," he demanded.

He seized it and we never saw it again. To this day I do not know what he did with it. He made a terrible scene. His rage and fury knew no bounds. He threw things about and terrified my mother into a fit of hysterics.

Then we went to London. By the time we reached London my mother was reduced to such a state of nervousness and hysteria by Thaw's behavior that she even stopped speaking to me.

Mother in Tears

Unless we went to one hotel and Thaw to another, she said, she would go to the American embassy. This was the last thing Thaw wanted, so he took my mother and myself to the Claridge and he went to the Carlton.

Arrived at the hotel, my mother went promptly to bed and there she remained all during the time we were in London. When we went to dinner or to the theater, Thaw had to invite someone else to accompany us as a chaperone for me.

All my mother did was to weep bitterly. She wanted to go home. But, unfortunately for me, we didn't. I wanted to see more of Europe.

Thaw had promised to behave himself and take us to the cities I wanted to see. Now, in London, he was quite pleasant. He was particularly sweet to me. He stopped drinking so heavily and his conduct was exemplary.

I really had a good time. With Thaw on his best behavior, things began to look different. When he finally had succeeded in getting back into my good graces, he came to me one day, all sweetness and charm, and said:

"If your mother is so homesick and wants to go back to New York, I will get someone to take her back. I will engage a chaperone for you, and we will make a tour of the cities you would like to see."

"Well," I answered, "you'd better have a talk with my mother."

But that night when he attempted to talk to her she wouldn't answer him. She would have nothing to do with him whatsoever.

The next day Thaw announced to me that he thought it would be a good idea to send for Vera Simonton, an old friend of my mother's, and have her come to London and take my mother home. Vera Simonton later became the author of "Hell's Kitchen," a famous book about Africa, upon which she based her plagiarism suit against the author of "White Cargo."

Thaw also said that he had booked passage for himself and me to return to Paris, from which starting point we would tour Europe.

Finally all arrangements were completed. Thaw said that he had cabled Vera Simonton and she had agreed to join us in Paris, then proceed to London and take my mother home.

My mother could remain comfortable at the Claridge, he said, until Miss Simonton arrived, and all would be peace and quiet.

I felt greatly relieved, and being at the age when thrills and excitement loom uppermost in a girl's mind, I looked forward eagerly to the European tour. If I only could have foreseen the results of that fatal trip!

Buying a Wig

With Thaw's plans working out so nicely for him, he was in gay good humor. He readily assented to my slightest wish.

For some time I had noticed that my hair had been affected by the high temperatures I had suffered during my illness, and I decided to shave my head and wear a wig for awhile. Thaw agreed to buy me one.

We went to Clarkson, London's famous wigmaker, and I bought a dazzling blonde wig. Thaw was in a playful mood and decided that inasmuch as I was wearing a wig, he should have a mustache. And so he bought one. He was in fine humor.

"Drive to Tiffany's," he ordered the driver, when we left Clarkson's.

Outside Tiffany's, he said to me:

"You stay in the cab. I will be out in a few minutes."

Presently he emerged from Tiffany's with a long white velvet box in his hand.

"Here," he said, "is a little present for you."

I opened the box and to my astonished gaze were revealed four huge diamond brooches, all alike, but graduated in size. Even in the London fog hey glittered with astounding brilliance and, something new, they were set in platinum—not the usual gold!

I took leave of my mother and we left for Paris. At the boat train we waited until the last minute. But no chaperone appeared.

"Never mind," said Thaw. "We will get another in Paris."

Arrived at Paris, he engaged the improverished widow of an English army officer as chaperone for me. Once again, let me remind the reader that the line of social demarcation is strongly drawn in Europe and an unchaperoned girl is branded.

Again, instead of going to a hotel, Thaw rented an apartment—this time an even larger one, on the Rue d'Antin.

Mother Stranded

All this time I thought he was taking the best care of my mother, that she was living at the Claridge, the smartest hotel in London, with everything she needed.

It was a long, long time before I learned the truth.

What had actually happened was that he had left her stranded in London without a penny and she left the Claridge and went to live in a chambermaid's flat. That was where Vera Simonton found her later.

Before Miss Simonton went to London, however, Thaw had arranged for her to meet us in Paris. It was his intention to win her over to his side. When she arrived in Paris Thaw planned a series of gay entertainments for Miss Simonton's benefit, theater parties, dinner parties, etc.

Then he told her all about the deadly secret of Stanford White and myself, with instructions that she tell my mother, but not until they were in the middle of the Atlantic on the way home. If I had only known that! That fact alone would have sent me post-haste back to London, alone.

Miss Simonton eventually arrived in London and took my mother back to New York. Years later I learned that Miss Simonton had a tough job on her hands.

She found my mother ill, semi-hysterical, in a terrible state of mind as you can well imagine. Poor woman! She certainly has suffered dreadfully through this whole affair. Most unjustly and without reason!

Painted as a typical designing stage-mother, calculating and mercenary, when in reality she is just the opposite type!

Eventually, we left Paris and started on our tour of Europe, traveling sometimes by motor, sometimes by train and sometimes by landau. My health was improving and Thaw was in good humor most of the time. I was really enjoying the trip.

Then we reached Meran, in the Austrian Tyrol. And Schloss Katzenstein! The second major episode in my life was destined to be staged in the tower of that ancient, historic castle.

slice of bacon, secure with toothpicks and pan brown. Serve with gravy made as follows:

2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons shortening, 2 cups stock, 1 small bay leaf, 1 slice onion, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Blend shortening and flour, add liquid, stirring constantly over fire. When mixture boils add seasonings and onion. Cook until thickened.

* * *

TASTY GREEN BEANS—2 onions, medium size; 2 tablespoons olive oil, 2 cups tomatoes, strained, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ⅛ teaspoon cayenne, 2 whole cloves, 2 teaspoons sugar, 4 cups fresh cooked or canned green beans.

Slice onions fine and fry in oil 10 minutes. Add tomatoes, seasoning and sugar. Bring to a boil, add beans and simmer 15 minutes. Serve hot.

* * *

APPLE PIE (WITHOUT PASTRY)—2 very mellow apples, 1 cup flour sifted before measuring, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon white sugar ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

Mix well brown sugar, flour and butter (dry). Grease deep baking dish, put in all the apples sliced very thin, add an extra piece of butter about the size of an egg, slice the buter thinly over apples, sprinkle white sugar over this. Add 1 teaspoon of water, nutmeg and lemon juice. Place over this the butter, sugar, flour mixture. Cover and bake in moderate oven 30 minutes. Serve hot or cold with whipped cream. Great for those inexperienced in handling pie dough.

* * *

GOLD SALAD—1 tablespoon gelatine, ¾ cup cold water, 1 cup pineapple juice, ½ cup pineapple cubes (canned), ½ cup grated carrots, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, salt to taste.

Soak gelatine in the cold water, then dissolve in hot pineapple juice. When beginning to stiffen, add pineapple cubes and carrots. Turn into wet molds. When firm unmold on lettuce and serve with mayonnaise.

* * *

BUTTERMILK RAISIN BREAD—4 cups pastry flour, 1 teaspoon each salt and soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ cup each shortening and sugar, 1½ cups raisins, coarsely chopped and lightly floured with 2 tablespoons flour, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1½ cups buttermilk.

Sift together flour, salt, soda and baking powder. Cut in shortening, add sugar and raisins. Mix together eggs and buttermilk and stir into dry mixture. Beat well, turn into greased loaf pan, let stand 10 to 15 minutes, then bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 1 hour, or until done.

* * *

PROPER FOOD COMBINATIONS—With breaded chops of veal serve scalloped potatoes and tomato sauce.

With roast pork, serve white or sweet potatoes, squash, onions, creamed cabbage, scalloped tomatoes, parsnips and apple sauce.

With roast lamb, serve potatoes, green peas, string beans, spinach, beet greens, summer squash, new turnips, asparagus and mint sauce or jelly.

With roast beef, serve mashed or scalloped potatoes, whole browned; cauliflower, stewed or scalloped tomatoes, onions, squash, green corn, beet greens, new beets, peas, Brussels sprouts.

* * *

EVER BEST PASTRIES—4 tablespoons shortening, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk (scalded and cooled,) 1½ cakes compressed yeast, 3 tablespoons warm water, 2 eggs, ¼ teaspoon each, vanilla, lemon extract and mace, 1 cup butter, 3½ cups flour.

Place sugar and salt in mixing bowl, add shortening and scalded milk. Let mixture cool to luke warm. Add yeast softened in warm water, then add eggs, well beaten, flavoring, and only 2½ cups flour. Beat well, then add remaining cup of flour. Stir well until very well mixed, then add enough flour to handle dough. Place on board and knead until smooth and elastic. Set in a warm place and let rise until double in bulk, then roll out to ¼ inch thick. Dot the center of dough with butter, fold one end of dough over, place remaining butter on top and cover with other end. Turn one-quarter way around pat with rolling pin, and roll as thin as possible. Fold each end to center, pat firmly, fold to make four layers again, turn one-quarter around and pat, lift, roll and fold three times. Cover, and let rise for 20 minutes. Roll, let rise half way, then cut and shape pastry into various forms, such as knots, horns, coils and pinwheels. After it has been cut and shaped, let rise again for 10 or 15 minutes. Then bake in a very hot oven, 500 degrees, for 10 minutes, then reduce to moderate (425 degrees) and bake until surface becomes a shining brown. Bake on cookie sheet. Cool and fill with lemon butter filling, or raspberry or strawberry.

* * *

RHUBARB DELIGHT—1 pint stewed rhubarb, 2 ounces citron, Pistachio nuts, ¼ cup cold water, ½ pound green grapes, 2 tablespoons gelatine, 1 cup pineapple juice, mint leaves.

Add pineapple juice to stewed rhubarb and sweeten to taste, then bring to boil, then stir in gelatine which has been soaked in the cold water, add finely chopped citron and let stand until it begins to set, then add the skinned and seeded grapes. Line a mold rinsed in cold water with fresh mint leaves and halved pistachio nuts. Pour in the rhubarb mixture. Chill, turn out and garnish around the edge with whipped cream sweetened and flavored with a little green coloring and pistachio nuts.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Blindness Doesn't Shut Out Desire for Companionship

Here's a heart-twisting problem—

Suppose your mother lost her sight, would you feel that you should give up everything—youth, with all its sweet, reckless dreams of romance, freedom and adventure——

Or would you let her go to a home for the blind?

A tragic question to answer! But here's Ann, in real life, who must face it, and she can't make up her mind what to do.

What would you do, in her place? And why would you do it?

Dear Miss Robinson:

I don't know whether mine is the kind of problem you advise people about or not, but I am taking a chance and writing you about it. Please help me, if you can, to decide what's best to do.

I am a girl 25 years old. About two years ago my mother had a terrible accident that left her totally blind.

At the time this accident happened I was working and I worked for a while afterward. Then my firm went out of business, and since that happened I have been at home taking care of mother.

Before this accident I came and went whenever I pleased, but now I have been at home for about a year and a half, and have no chance to get out during either day or evening, because I can't leave mother alone. I keep house, and stay with her. She is so lonesome, and she can't do for herself.

I have a younger brother who has just been graduated from college, and a married sister; but my brother works, and it is hard for my sister to do anything to help me because she has two small children.

HER PROBLEM

Now the problem is—my mother insists that I let her go to a home for blind people, so that I can have more life of my own, but I can't seem to agree to that. If I did, I would feel that I had done terribly wrong, and my conscience would bother me.

Please help me, won't you, and tell me what you think is right? I am terribly shut in, yet I can't bear to do as my mother wants me to. It just doesn't seem right. What do you think? Am I terribly selfish to want to go out more?, Ann.

Once upon a time there could have been only one answer to your question, Ann—the sentimental answer. People didn't think about such problems as yours in the old days; they just sentimentalized over them—

Sobbed and sobbed and slithered, and usually ended up in a mess that made things ten times as bad as they were in the beginning.

NEEDS NEW FRIENDS

But nowdays we try to see things straight, and the more tragic the problem, the more it needs straight, clear thinking. So, let's stop looking at mother as a Heart Breaking Tragedy, and look at her instead as a Woman—a woman who still longs for life and companionship even though she is blind—a woman with pride and eagerness for adventure which is at present being entirely thwarted.

Mother wants to go to a home with other blind people, and the idea shocks you. But aren't you, by keeping her with you and giving up your own life, dooming two lives to a darkness more terrible than any accident could inflict?

My answer is this: If your mother were mine—and I knew of a nice home with friendly people where she could find her way back into normal life again—I'd let her meet new people, people who, like herself, cannot see, and who have triumphed over their affliction and learned to be active and useful in spite of it. I'd feel that she'd forget her blindness much more quickly there than she could by staying in a home where she could think of nothing else.

That's my answer to Ann. What's yours? If this were your mother, what would you do?

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Making the Declarer Guess

It is a sound principle of defensive play at Contract to give the Declarer as many difficult guesses as possible. Even the best players have far from perfect records when a situation confronts them that is, after all, a guess, pure and simple.

A correspondent in Sweden sent me a hand the other day, played by Mr. M. Wilander, one of the leading players of Stockholm, who has made a well-earned reputation for both sound and brilliant defense. The hand exemplifies the principle discussed in the opening sentence, and is a type of very good play frequently overlooked. The Declarer, South, had played the hand brilliantly, and left to his opponents only the barest hope of a defeat of the contract.

North, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

♠K 5 3 2
♡A 6 3
♢A 8 4
♣A 9 5

Mr. Wilander
♠9 4
♡K Q 10 9
♢K Q 10 7
♣Q 8 2

♢J 9 3
♣J 7 6 4

♠A Q J 10 8
♡J 5
♢6 5 2
♣K 10 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1 N.T.	Pass
2♠	Pass	3♠	Pass
4♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

West's Opening lead was the heart King, and the Declarer saw that the contract was probably one too high. Apparently there were two losers in diamonds, one in hearts and one in clubs. The last loser—namely, the one in clubs—may possibly be avoided if the club honors are divided or if South can tempt a favorable lead of that suit. Basing his whole play of the hand upon these assumptions, he led two rounds of trumps, then started in with his plan of campaign by returning a heart. His plan was to eliminate hearts and diamonds and then let his opponents open the club suit. West won the heart trick and returned the diamond King, which South permitted him to hold. West then shifted to the third lead of hearts, the Declarer trumping.

Now a small diamond was led and won with the Ace in Dummy, and the suit at once returned, East playing the Knave and West brilliantly overtaking with the Queen. West, Mr. Wilander, could see that the Declarer's plan of play had succeeded. The only chance to turn defeat into victory was by a ruse, and that was to create the impression that the club Queen-Knave were both in the same hand. Therefore he boldly led the club Queen, which South won with the King. South now laid down the Ace of spades, hoping to gain some information that might help him determine whether the club lead indicated the possession of the Knave or not. However, West discarded a diamond and East discarded a heart, and South, placed, after all, in a very difficult position, now led the club Ten and played the 9 from Dummy. The trick was won with East's Knave.

Of course, it is easy enough to see when all the cards are exposed that South should not have believed Mr. Wilander when he led the club Queen, and should have played the Ace from Dummy and then finessed against the Knave in the East hand, but the illusion created by the play was such that this course did not appear wise to the Declarer. It is obvious that had Mr. Wilander permitted East's Knave of diamonds to hold the last diamond trick, East would have been in an unfortunate position in making any lead. Sometimes, in defense, the only thing we can do is to give to our opponents the opportunity to make a mistake. The good player is the one who makes the making of the mistakes doubly probable.

TODAY'S QUESTION

How should the following hands be bid?

West	East
♠K 10 9 8 5	♠A Q
♡7 5	♡A K Q 10 9 8
♢J 6	♢K Q 8 4
♣A K Q 5	♣10

Answer: The bidding on these hands should go as follows:

West	East
1♠	3♡
3 N.T.	4♢
4♡	4 N.T.
Pass

This hand is an example of a new response to the four-notrump bid. West cannot afford to bid four clubs over three hearts, as his hand is almost a minimum. His four-heart bid over four diamonds is a second "Sign-off." When his partner persists in his Slam invitations and bids four notrump, it is now time for West to show that he holds some slight extra values. The bid in a new suit conveys this information. East is now justified in bidding for the Small Slam.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

White for Mourning

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me if it is correct to wear white for mourning in the summer time?

C.

Yes, all-white is as deep mourning as all-black, and it is very refreshing to see all-white worn in the summer by people in mourning. Many people in mourning also make it a point to wear all-white in the house in any season.

Cheese Served With Pie

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—How should cheese be served with pie be eaten?

2—Regardless of how the cheese is cut when served with pie, is it ever eaten with the fingers?

3—Which is the correct word to use in this sentence, "affected" or "effected"—"Any monies sent to apply on these taxes are trust funds, and will not be ——— by the bank holidays, as they are held in a separate trust?"

H.

1—Cheese served with pie should be eaten with the fork, as is the pie.

2—It really is best to eat the cheese with the fork, regardless of how the cheese is cut.

3—"Affected" is the word to use in this sentence. Then the sense will be "will not be influenced by the bank holiday."

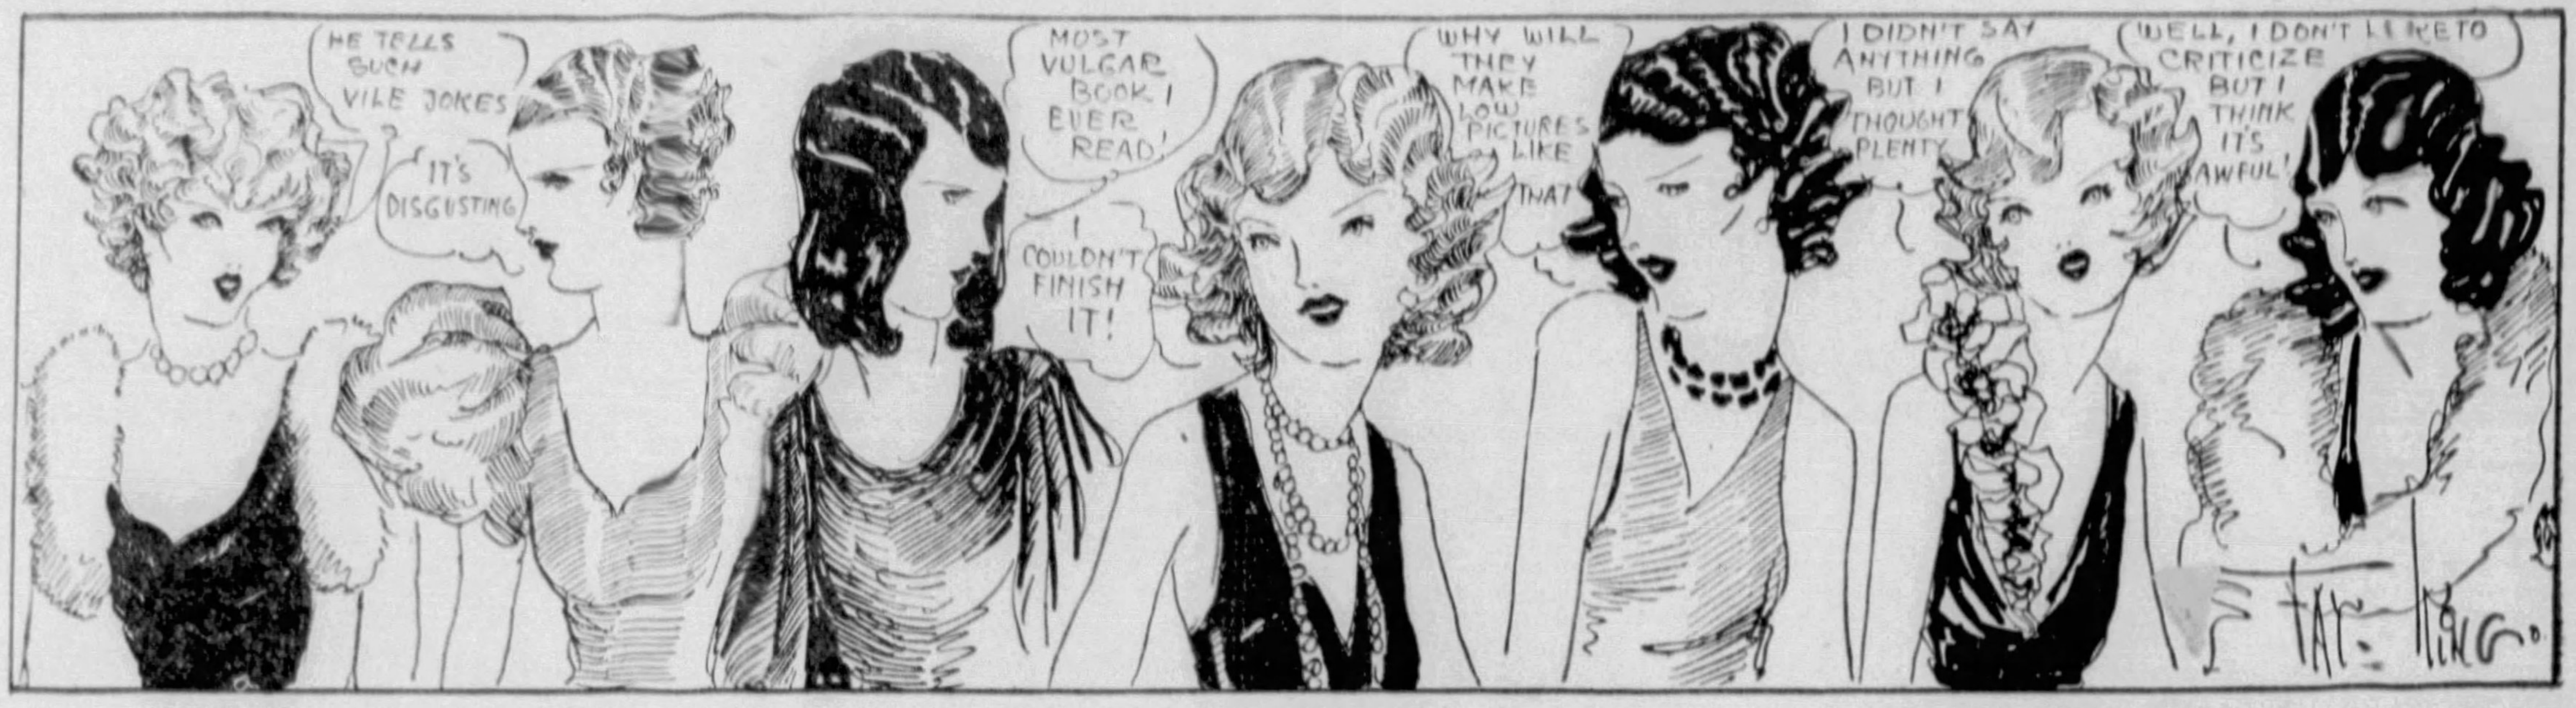
Fay King Condemns Those Who Falsely Voice Approval



HE TELLS SUCH VILE JOKES
IT'S DISGUSTING
MOST VULGAR BOOK I EVER READ!
I COULDN'T FINISH IT!
WHY WILL THEY MAKE LOW PICTURES LIKE THAT I DIDN'T SAY ANYTHING BUT I THOUGHT PLENTY
WELL, I DON'T LIKE TO CRITICIZE BUT I THINK IT'S AWFUL!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

There are some hypocrites who utter pious opinions but secretly collect obscene books and gloat over vice.

But there are others who in private vociferously condemn vile jokes, plays, books and pictures, but would not have it known that they hold such opinions against them. In public they approve and applaud such.

We have heard beautiful and worldly young women express the same disgust and disapproval for which club women and church members are often ridiculed and cried down.

But not for anything would these beauteous ones be quoted, lest it offend men they know who promote such vulgarities.

It seems to me that in this they also are guilty of a deplorable hypocrisy, even more harmful, for their false approval influences many more.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

"Nick" Proves to Be Madge's Champion

Fortunate, indeed, it was for me that there was so much antagonism between the two men in the big maroon sedan. I do not think I should have been successful in any attempt to have Nick, the man in the driver's seat, aid me in my plan for trailing Marion, if it had not been for the continued and determined opposition to anything I asked which Tony, in the back seat, evinced.

My request to turn the car around the corner and let me out for a minute brought an explosive "No" from Tony, followed by an agitated query: "How d'ye know it ain't a signal?"

"To what: the jack-rabbits?" Nick asked derisively. And indeed there was no opportunity along this road for any larger animal or any man to hide.

"All right, Babe," he added, "I'll let you out if you'll tell me what you expect to find."

"A little bag like this piece of silk." I took from my pocket a tiny strip of silken cloth, all that was left of my beautiful scarf. "It is filled with tiny pieces of stone and tied, so that it won't blow away."

"Why do you expect to find it around this corner?"

I thrilled to his tone. For the first time there was something beside mockery in his voice. I had succeeded in arousing his curiosity and his interest, and with an experience born of years of teaching high school pupils, I knew that I had him. It was exactly the same reaction I was getting from him that I used to receive when I had outlined a lesson successfully, and could see the gleam of interest come into eyes usually wearing that expression of intense boredom that has been brought to its perfect fruition in high school students.

CAR STOPS

"Because the young man who jumped to the back of the car planned to throw one of the little bags to the right of every corner where the car turned off," I said.

"But how do you know which corner to look?" His tone was puzzled now.

"I have to look at both of them," I returned. "If it is on neither one, then I shall know that the car has gone straight on."

He had slowed the car down as we talked, and now drew it to the side of the road and stopped.

"All right, Baby," he said grandiosely, "I guess it won't hurt us none to wait while you rummage around the road. Do you want any help?"

"If you get out of this car," Tony's voice came venomously from the back seat, "I'll drive it on and leave you. It's bad enough having you let that dame pull a stunt like that, but by the——"

"Oh, please don't quarrel!" I tried hard to make my voice terrified. "And I don't need any help. I won't be but a minute or two searching. Ronald said he would throw the bag to the right of the road near the cement, so it ought to be easy to find if it's there."

POSSESSIVE ATTITUDE

"Now——You, Tony!" Nick's voice was furious. "You've almost made Baby cry. If I wasn't afraid of scaring her some more I'd come back there and——"

"Be careful there, Babe; don't sprain your ankle. You'll need it when this stunt is done. We'll go to a joint where there's the swellest music this side of New York. And will we dance? I'll bet you sling a wicked hoof!"

But I was already at the side of the road searching along it for the little silken bag that would be Ronald's token, telling me which direction the car holding Marion had gone. And I pretended even greater absorption in the search than I needed.

It was plain, too plain, that Nick would not consider this adventure finished when I should come up with the fleeing car, even if his newly found credulity lasted that long. I had put myself outside the pale of my own standards, and inside his far different ones, by my appeal to him to help me. He patently considered that the rest of my evening was his, to direct as his fancy chose.

I rose from my bending posture over the roadside with a sense of futility which Nick's voice emphasized.

"Didn't you find the little bag of stones?" he drawled, and in his voice was more than a hint of his former mockery. "Then where do we go from here?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Don't Think of Measles as Harmless

Only recently I wrote on the subject of measles. But I cannot refrain from writing again about this common and often neglected ailment. Many mothers consider measles a harmless disease and a normal occurrence of childhood. Yet measles is a serious disease and frequently results in pneumonia and other serious complications.

Dr. Copeland

Measles is highly contagious. It is quickly transmitted from one child to another. In most instances the disease is not recognized until long after the child has transmitted the disease to others.

Some time ago I told you how measles could be recognized in its early stages. I warned you that a child with a cough and a sneeze should not be allowed to attend school even though he has no fever. In the very early stages of this disease the child appears to be suffering from a mild cold. Within 24 hours the child complains of sore eyes and a running nose. Measles should then be suspected.

The characteristic rash of measles appears at about the fifth day of illness. It is first seen behind the ears and about the neck. It rapidly spreads over the face and body. The rash lasts about five days and is followed by "desquamation," or peeling of the skin.

The child should be kept in bed, isolated from other children and given a nourishing but light diet. Protect the eyes from sunlight and glaring lights. Bathe the eyes with boric acid solution. Bear in mind that the disease is contagious until after the rash has disappeared.

Measles is a serious disease when it afflicts children under five years of age. It is particularly serious when it afflicts weak or undernourished children. Pneumonia is the most dreaded complication of measles. This can be traced to negligence and improper care of the victim of measles.

Every effort should be made to prevent the spread of measles. When measles is suspected in a household, infants and other children should not be exposed to the danger of this disease. It is criminal deliberately to expose a child to measles. This was a common practice of former years when measles was believed to be a normal and necessary event of childhood.

Early recognition of the disease and immediate medical attention assures the child of a rapid and successful recovery. The danger of complications, such as pneumonia, may sometimes be averted by the prompt injection of a small amount of the parent's blood into the child. Ask your doctor about this.

It is a grave mistake to neglect measles. We can only remove the danger of this disease by recognizing measles as one of the serious menaces to the health of our children.

Answers to Health Queries

A Daily Reader. Q.—What causes bones to crack in elbows and knees?

A.—Cracking joints are usually due to lack of synovial fluid. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

* * *

Mrs. M. R. B. Q.—What would cause eczema or tetter on the hands? How does this act and what is the cure? I have been told that I have this disturbance but am not sure.

A.—Eczema is usually due to some underlying infection. There are several different types or kinds of eczema. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. Bear in mind that the wrong diet may be responsible for it.

HERRON -:- Mayor Speaks Tonight; Hill Quizzes Tunney -:- ON AIR

Seibel Talks On Network Tomorrow

George Seibel, Sun-Telegraph literary and dramatic critic, will speak over the red network of the National Broadcasting Company from the studios of WEAF, New York, tomorrow at 2:15 p. m., on the personality and works of Willa Cather.

Mr. Seibel's talk, based on a long-standing friendship with the Pulitzer Prize winner, will be carried locally by WCAE, replacing the regular afternoon Globe-Trotter period on that station.

The broadcast will take the place of Mr. Seibel's two regular local broadcasts, his New York sojourn canceling the Sunday night "World of Books" and the Tuesday "Plays and Players."

* * *

Herron on Air

Featuring an address by Mayor John S. Herron, two special Frank and Seder broadcasts are listed on WCAE tonight and tomorrow.

Mayor Herron's talk, an address by Jerome Seder, son of the founder, and a musical program by the University of Pittsburgh Glee Club, under the direction of Dr. W. H. Wright, are broadcast from the studios tonight at 6:45. An open air show from the store lobby starring Earl White, lobby starring the Andrini Brothers, string wizards; Ford Miller, basso-announcer, and Stephanie Diamond is scheduled at 8:30 tomorrow morning.

* * *

Gene Tunney, one-time United States Marine, world heavyweight boxing champion, Shakespearean student and more recently campaign orator for the Democratic party, goes on the air via CBS-WJAS tonight at 9:30 to tell his "inside story" to Edwin C. Hill and the eaves droppers.

* * *

Banker as Musician

Tonight's "Music Is My Hobby" bill—on KDKA at 10—brings the senior partner of a large Wall street banking house, Walter Rosen, of Laudenburg-Thalmann & Co., to the microphone as a pianist. Assisting is Mrs. Rosen, demonstrating the theremin, the electrical instrument which produces music at a wave of the player's hand.

* * *

The story of the rise of Alexander T. Stewart, an Irish immigrant who became one of the most wealthy department store owners in America, is dramatized during the weekly WCAE "Adventures of Great Merchants" broadcast at 9 p. m.

* * *

Herbert Spencer, Frick Training School head and engineering graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology, discusses the topic, "The Housewife as a Mechanic," as the "New Deal for the Home" guest speaker on WWSW at 6:15.

* * *

On the same station at 7, a special program in connection with the American Legion's "Poppy Day" observance is listed.

* * *

Rosario Bourdon's newest composition, "Sixty Wall Tower," is played from manuscript by the string section of his orchestra as a highlight of the WCAE-at-8 concert tonight.

Globe-Trotter's Schedule Changes

In deference to a network broadcast by George Seibel, Sun-Telegraph literary and dramatic critic, to be carried locally by WCAE, the 2:15 broadcast of news by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, will be cancelled on that station tomorrow, going on the air via WJAS only. The 9:30 a. m. and 12:15 p. m. news flashes will be broadcast by both WCAE and WJAS, and the 6:30 p. m. by WCAE only.

Mr. Kaufman's news airings today are scheduled on WCAE-WJAS at 9:30 a. m., 12:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m., the 2:15 broadcast having been cancelled due to NBC and CBS network broadcasts of a Mother's Day address by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A comic-reading fest with Grandpa and Lillian highspots the WCAE children's program, the Sun-Telegraph Family, today at 4:45.

Magazine Drama On 3 Stations

Three stations in the Pittsburgh area today present the American Weekly dramatic program, "Guido and the Devilfish," drawn from an article published in the next issue of the enlarged feature magazine distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph. They are WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., [illegible] p. m., and WALR, Zanesville, O., 5 p. m. John Anthony, Theater Guild star, has the lead.

F. R. Moves To Ban Crime On Radio

By AIRCASTER.

It was a recent play, "Whistling in the Dark," I believe, in which the plot revolved about a coterie of murderous crooks who ran out of ideas and so kidnaped a crime story writer to devise new, safe and easy schemes of skulduggery.

The playwright made his criminals resort to a kidnaping for replenishing their famished minds with criminal technique, but it would have been much simpler for the crooks to have merely turned on their radio.

Almost any night they might have heard a lesson in the fine art of murder, kidnaping, burglary, torture, arson or even mayhem, by tuning in to one of the many crime dramas which, for months have been frightening little children, chilling the blood of adolescents, and supplying amateur or would-be crooks literal correspondence courses in deviltry.

Crime experts have not the slightest doubt that many major crimes undertaken by experienced outlaws have had their inspiration from the clutching claw type of radio drama.

The McMath kidnaping in Harwich serves as a possible instance, for the crime paralleled, in many respects, a recent dramatization. Naturally the question arises:

"Should crime stories, which amount to lessons in crime, be banned from the air?"

They should, indeed, and the major networks, which, to give them their due, frown on such scripts, are getting action.

It has become known that by indirect means, President Roosevelt has let his disapproval of radio crime stories in general become known.

First to leave the air as a result of the nationwide protests is "The Case of Jane Doe," serial crime drama which began only two weeks ago on the Sunday Rubinoff hour. It has been yanked by the agency, the J. Walter Thompson Company, under its new policy to ban all stories dealing with crime.

"The Orange Lantern," NBC crime serial, was ordered off May 28, but by some mysterious process was reinstated yesterday.

Further developments are due.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Leave it to Ripley to coin a descriptive yet different word for his exhibit at the Chicago World's Fair. It is a "Believe It or Not Odditorium."

* * *

I'll probably break my arm on this one, but here goes. Last Saturday evening, the Wards, of Cordova road, returned from dining out to find their radio stolen. Mrs. Ward, who has never missed a globe-trotter broadcast, was glad the thief was considerate enough to wait until after the last trot. She immediately had another installed in time for the 9:30.

Mrs. Ward, the culprit might have thought he was doing you a favor. It was sweet of you tell me.

* * *

Mrs. Katharine Hohman, of 229 Burgess street, remembers when Chambersburg was burned down and the residents forced to flee. That was 68 years ago when the Confederates captured the town. She came on to Pittsburgh, living here ever since. Her father and her husband both fought in the battle of Gettysburg. In fact, four generations of her family have served Uncle Sam, a son and three grandsons serving during the World War. Congratulations on her ninety-second birthday, Tuesday next. She hopes to reach 100. May she exceed that mark by many years.

'Our Family' Goes On Air Later

The attention of readers is called to the schedule change, effective tomorrow night, which moves the popular WCAE dramatic program, "Our Family," to an 8:30 spot from its previous 8 p. m. period.

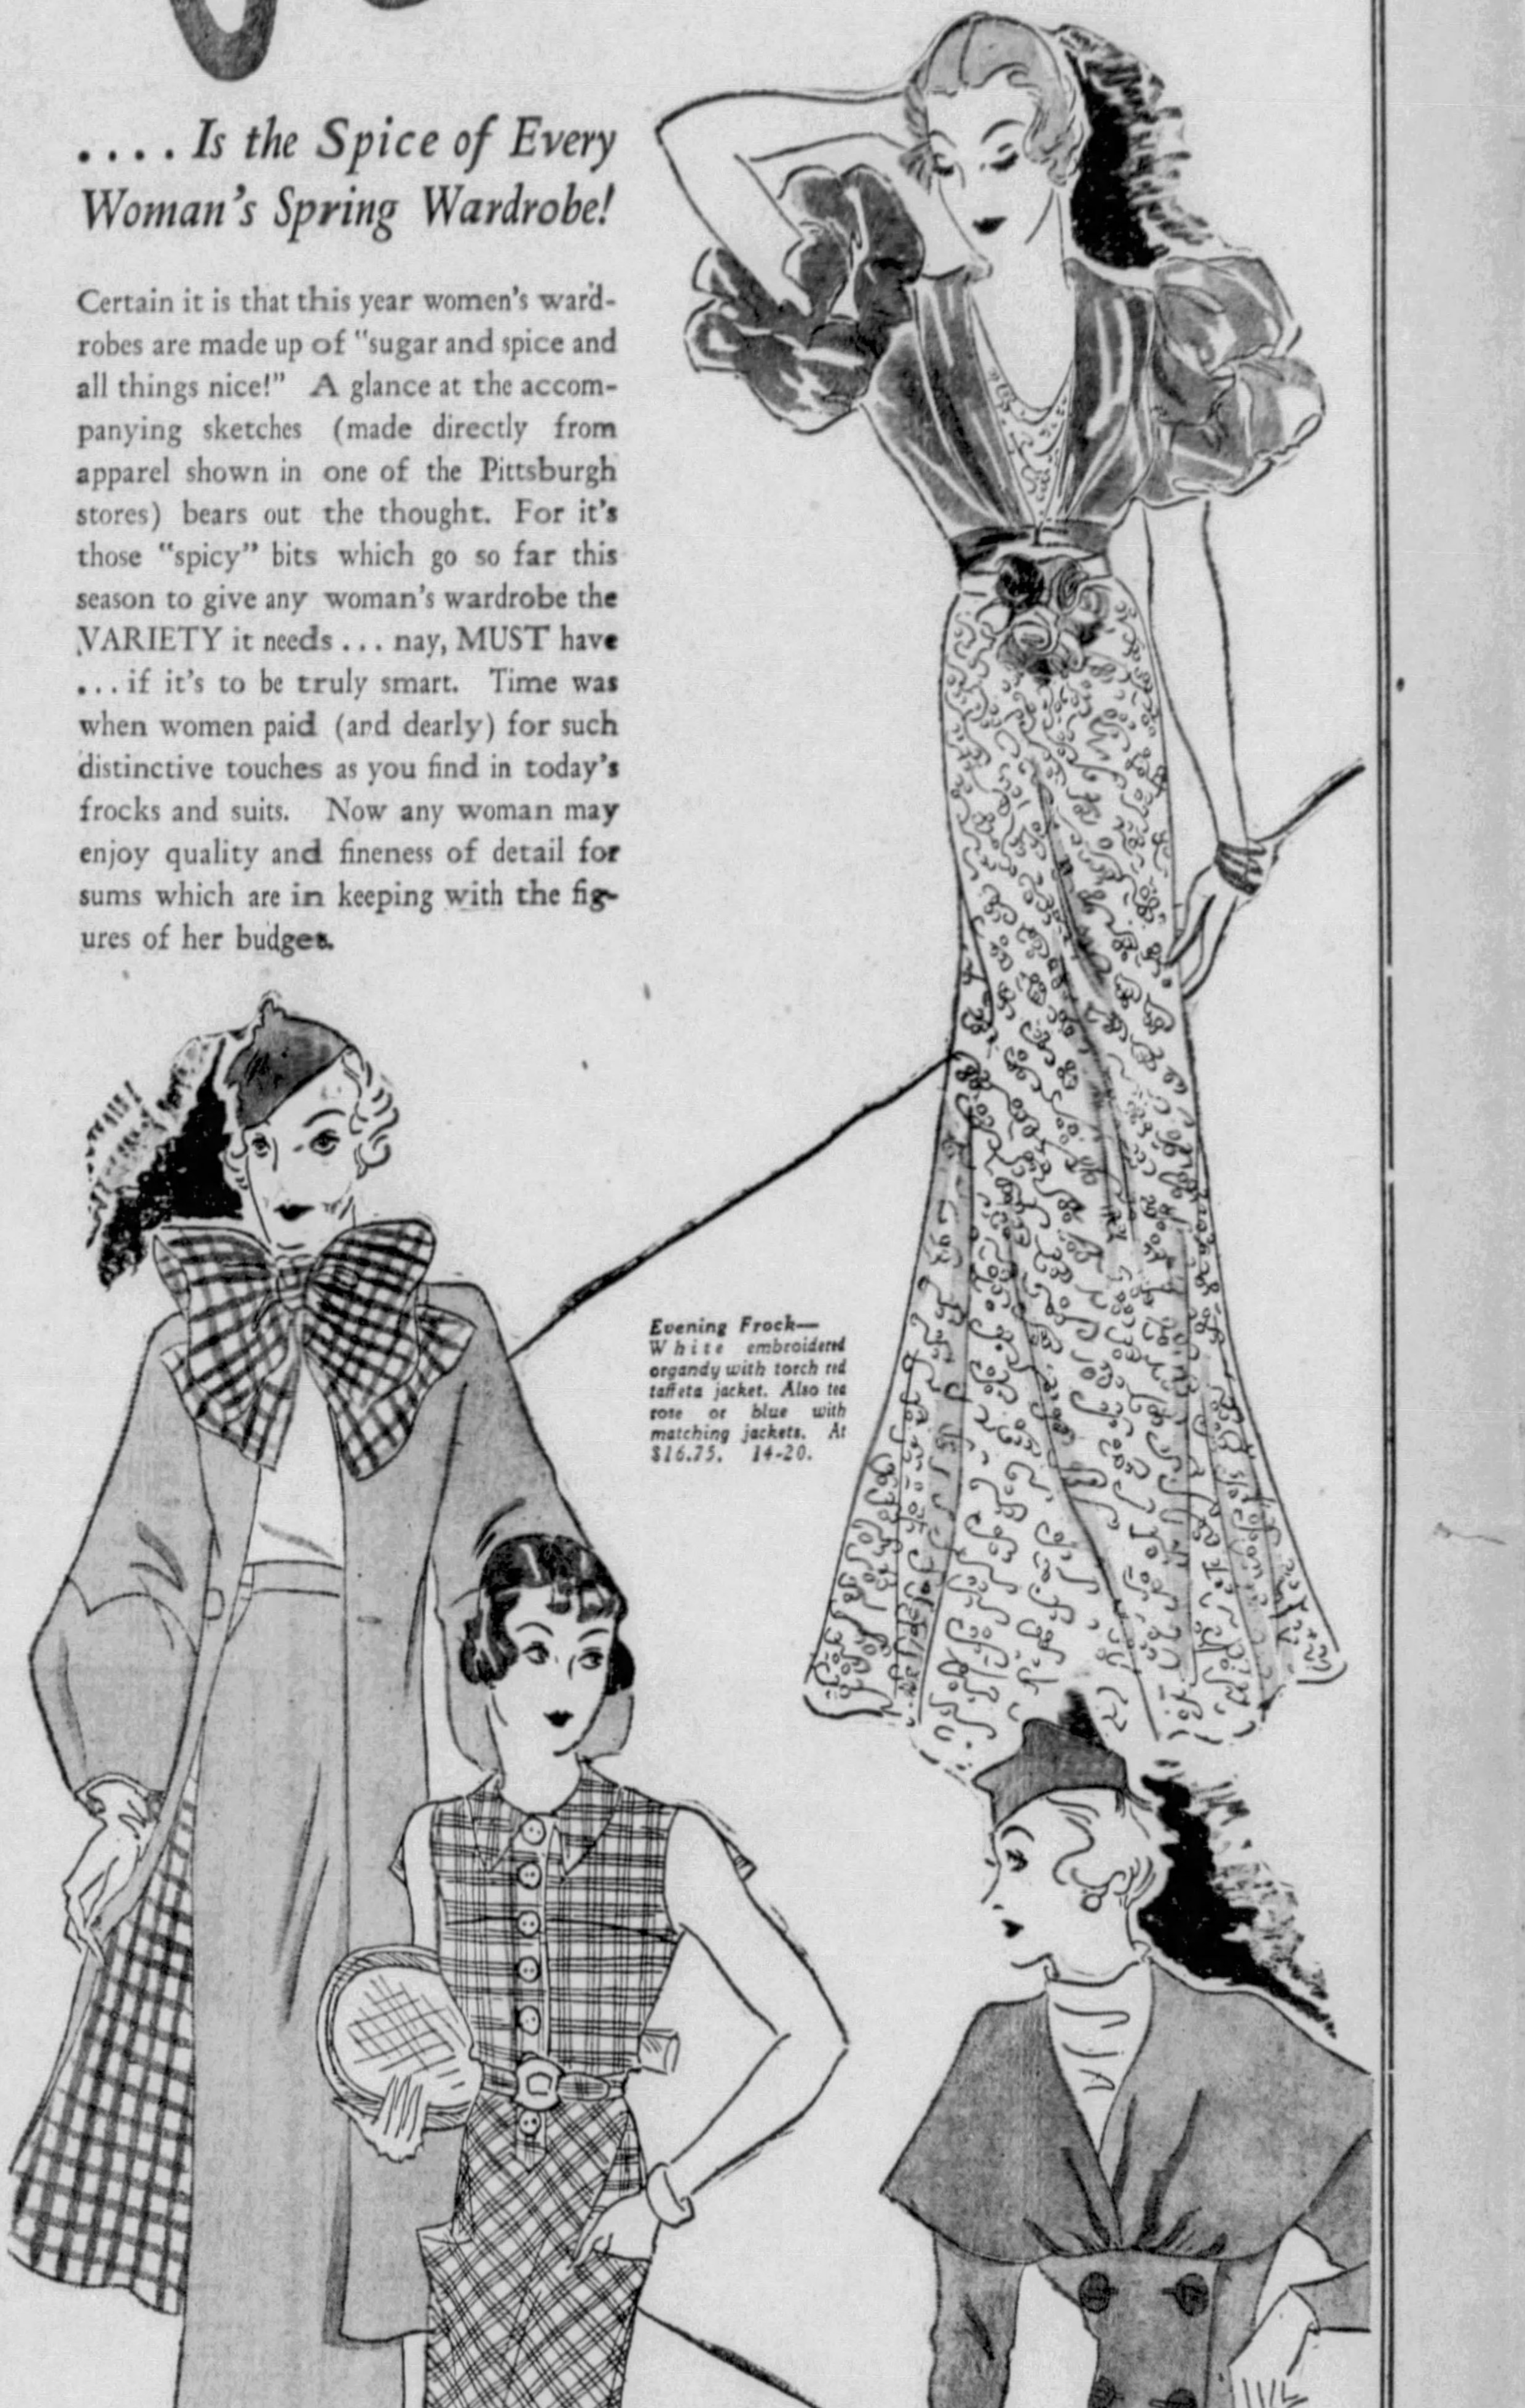
Variety

. . . . Is the Spice of Every Woman's Spring Wardrobe!

Certain it is that this year women's wardrobes are made up of "sugar and spice and all things nice!" A glance at the accompanying sketches (made directly from apparel shown in one of the Pittsburgh stores) bears out the thought. For it's those "spicy" bits which go so far this season to give any woman's wardrobe the VARIETY it needs . . . nay, MUST have . . . if it's to be truly smart. Time was when women paid (and dearly) for such distinctive touches as you find in today's frocks and suits. Now any woman may enjoy quality and fineness of detail for sums which are in keeping with the figures of her budget.



Evening Frock—White embroidered organdy with torch red taffeta jacket. Also tea rose or blue with matching jackets. At $16.75. 14-20.

Swagger Suit—Woolen mixture with plaid taffeta lined swagger coat and tie. Grey, beige and sailor blue. At $29.75. Sizes 12 to 20.

Sports Dress—For Juniors. Silk shirting with boyish collar showing new squared effect in back. Red, blue, green. At $10.75. Sizes 11 to 17.

Tailored Coat—Fitted bodice with shoulder cape collar. Sailor blue or black. At $25. 14-20.

We have brought these swank new things to your notice through the co-operation of one of the Pittsburgh stores. For details on where to find them, 'phone Miss Blake at Grant 6500. And keep an eye open for more wardrobe information which will appear in these pages. The advertisements you see in this newspaper always bring you fresh, interesting accounts of what you want when you want it, at the prices you want to pay for it!

THE PITTSBURGH
SUN-TELEGRAPH

FOREST TOWNS CORDIAL TO WORKERS

By GRAYDON F. SMART
International News Service.

KANE, Pa., May 11.—President Roosevelt's great reforestration experiment insofar as it affects the relations between the C. C. C. recruits and the communities adjacent to the encampments apparently is destined for success.

A survey of the five camps in the Allegheny national forest and the towns of the area, following reports that the reforesters have met with discourteous treatment, today revealed that cases of unpleasantness were rare.

Rather the recruits and townspeople alike appear inclined to view the situation with a tolerance born of a desire to bring the vast program to a successful conclusion.

FOUR RECRUITS HELD

Only four recruits of the 1,076 encamped in the Allegheny forest have had experience with John Law in the 17 days since their arrival. They were booked on intoxication charges. Two were fined by the civil authorities and the other two discharged with reprimands.

The consensus of opinion of the natives of the region appears to be that a certain amount of trouble is to be expected from any large group of men, but that the behavior of the C. C. C. members as a whole thus far has been exemplary.

The smaller communities are patiently waiting the time when recruiting will be done locally. In the meantime they have launched determined efforts to make the recruits in the five camps of the area more comfortable. Depots have been established in the larger communities for collection of reading matter and athletic equipment donations now being distributed in the encampments.

Y. M. C. A. AIDING

The Y. M. C. A.'s of Kane, Warren, Ridgway and Bradford are considering an organized C. C. C. program. Meanwhile, any recruits who visit the associations are permitted the use of facilities the same as regular members. Thus far this has been done without cost to the recruits or government, but the associations are having economic troubles of their own and some way probably will be devised to absorb this expense.

Ministerial associations of the various towns have appointed pastors for each camp and services are held regularly with large attendances reported.

In the camps themselves, the army and reserve corps officers in charge reported the discipline excellent with very few desertions and only rare cases of insubordination. Pebble Dell, Pennsylvania's prize camp and the one which it has been reported will be the model for the others to be established throughout the nation, has had no desertions and has lost but two men. They were discharged yesterday for insubordination and attempts to incite discontent among the other members of the camp.

Lieut. W. L. Richardson, regular army officer in charge, stated that with exception of these two men the morale has been splendid.

Homestead Boy Injured by Truck

Robert Boyle, 12, of 141 Sixteenth street, Homestead, was in the Homestead Hospital today with a fractured right arm and head injuries suffered when he ran in front of a truck driven by Harry Sutcliffe, of Etna, near his home, last night, according to a police report.

Crops Held Back By Incessant Rain

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 12.—Heavy rains in this district for the past three weeks have seriously retarded farmers and vegetable growers.

Fields have been washed and farmers have been able to plant but little grain. The rain has been the heaviest over a 10-year period.

Church Leader Dies At Work in Mine

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., May 12.—John H. Starr, 38, Vestaburg church trustee, was killed yesterday when crushed under a locomotive at the Vesta Coal Company's No. 5 mine.

2 PASS BOGUS BILLS ON N. S.

Two well dressed men, who passed two counterfeit $5 bills in two North Side stores last night, were sought by police and federal authorities today.

The pair made a small purchase in Brock Grocery, 946 Western avenue, giving a bogus $5 bill in payment, police said.

A short time later police were informed the pair passed a similar counterfeit note in the Smith Market, Allegheny and Pennsylvania avenues.

Shoe Workers End Walkout in Ohio

WILLIAMSBURG, O., May 12.—(AP.)—Mayor Harry McKeever announced last night that striking workers of the P. Sullican Shoe Company here had reached an agreement with officials of the company. About 300 walked out several days ago in a wage dispute.

Woman Legislator Talks Here Tonight

Anna M. Brancato, of Philadelphia, a member of the House of Representatives, will be principal speaker tonight at a public meeting sponsored by the Ladies' Roosevelt Club of Wilkinsburg, to be held in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel. She will speak on "Legislation Affecting Women and Children." Mrs. Frances Johnson will preside.

'Clip Joint' Killing Pair Given Terms

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Sentences of five to 15 years each in Sing Sing Prison were imposed yesterday by Judge John J. Freschi upon two men who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the first degree in connection with the death of Achille Mirner, Parisian jeweler, who received a fatal beating in a so-called "clip joint" speakeasy October 31, last.

The two prisoners were Lawrence Ganze, 32, and Herman Nerenberg, who was indicted as Herman Newberg, 30, both of the Bronx.

Renomination Won By Mayor-Manager

WHEELING, W. Va., May 12.—(AP.)—Thomas V. Beckett, Wheeling's Republican Mayor, was nominated to succeed himself in municipal primary elections yesterday.

Gordon P. Fought, Wheeling businessman, was chosen to oppose him on the Democratic ticket.

Brownsville Youth Wins Oration Prize

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., May 12.—Charles Thornton, Brownsville High student, returned yesterday from Wooster, O., where he finished fourth in the national oratorical contest. Thornton and Michael Taimuty, West Newton, Pa., who placed second, were the only two Pennsylvanians to reach the finals.

Pittsburgh Woman Denied Cut in Tax

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP.)—The Board of Tax Appeals yesterday denied a petition by Mrs. Anna A. Frank, of Pittsburgh, to deduct $7,584 from her 1928 and 1929 income tax assessments. The board ruled amounts received during those years from trustees of a trust left by her husband, Abraham Frank, were part of her taxable income.

F. R. DEMANDING INDUSTRY FIND LEADERSHIP

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD

Famous Author and Diplomat, Former United States Ambassador to Italy.

(Copyright, 1933, Universal Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—This is the most significant news of the moment:

If industry can give birth to a new leadership of its own, with the help but not the complete dictation of Uncle Sam, then Uncle Sam may escape in this session the role of receiver, conservator, administrator and dictator of his somewhat befuddled, overgrown, leaderless debtor—unplanned industry.

Partnership with industry is the latest dish just going, no doubt, onto the Congressional short-order electric grill. Conferences today are approaching final decisions. Congress will go into action.

"Partnership" is the name the chef has printed on the menu. But the more accurate and frank description, depending on how the issue is settled, is: A—Self-management under the federal wing, or B—Federal management.

Fascism Bogey

The most active if not noisy "pressure-group" appearing since Roosevelt began to make Congress a machine gun nest of legislation has been the manufacturing and labor forces who saw in the proposal to control industry by the Black 30-hour-a-week bill, minimum wage measures and the prospect of a national official czar machine of industry, something that looked dreadfully like fascism.

Of course, this projected experiment with government control is no more like Italian fascism, for instance, than it is like polyandry. Nevertheless, industrial leaders and their particular spokesmen in government together with the remnants of the Hoover trench warfare, who once were yelling for an American Mussolini, are the same anxious gentlemen who now, when Roosevelt sounds a charge against depression and accepts the challenge of the new deal by going over the top and into No Man's Land, are wailing at the apparition of "the Fascist Monster."

So far as the country is concerned, though it may and should balk at dictatorial excesses of any kind, it will not credit the fascism bogey man. And as for dash and experiment, attack and win, that is precisely why the Republicans of this land elected the President.

What the industrial issue is, can be simply and broadly stated. It is an issue based upon the facts.

The facts are that American industry grew like a weed. It grew anyhow and anyway. It grew luxurious and no head gardener planned it, arranged it, watched it, controlled it. It grew so fast that few of us knew or realized, for example, that we are growing also an auxiliary industry, gigantic, overwhelming in its proportions.

White Elephant

That white elephant was new construction, expansion of our plant, of factories, machines, houses, offices, towns, all stimulated by false values, by false promises of the continuation of our yesterday's boom.

The truth about American industrial leadership is that it had no head. The industrial leaders we knew had watering pots for their own beds, but master gardener, there was none!

What Roosevelt insists is needed for our way out of this jam is something like a master gardener.

If industry or its banks has borrowed or will borrow via the R. F. C. amounts from the government which will realize on forced sale less than the borrowings, it would appear clear that, if we foreclosed, the government would have industry on its hands.

Those members of Congress who are stickling about preservation of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust era are in opposition to any freedom of action for the industrial gardener. And this is true whether or not that industrial gardener is to be a reluctant Uncle Sam or industry's own device.

The oppositionists are said by the more adventurous minds to be living in the last pews of yesterday. If they or other diehards stand in the way of a Rooseveltian demand for a national industrial plan it looks as if we would have to foreclose in the end on a garden grown wild and now drooping with blight. Even that would not be Fascism, because it would be government ownership of industry, which true Italian Fascism detests.

Baruch Counsel

The issue, therefore, is whether governmental control is to furnish us an industrial management with an official head gardener—a Czar-directorate of industry. This is said to have been the counsel of Baruch; he had learned that form of control in his experience with the War Industries Board.

Those who would thwart that plan prefer to say that industry will accept the proferred partnership and paternal interest and the protecting wings of government and then build its self-leadership.

They are rounding up the remnants of the basic idea of the National Council of Defense and calling the new body Council of National Security.

I wonder, incidently, whether they realize that it was Franklin Delano Roosevelt who first offered the seed of the idea of the National Council of Defense to President Wilson.

It appears at the moment—though no man, not even the President, knows—that industry will be given the chance to procure and run its own broad machinery of planning and control. This means arranging to cut out competition and duplication, and other fetters to business, always wasteful but fatal when the margins between going concerns and shut mill gates have hit a new low.

This means permitting trade agreements and accommodations now outside the law. This means that Roosevelt is demanding a new industrial leadership—self-produced.

Make no mistake—if it is not self-produced, the President is preparing because of flat necessity to impose it.

FLAMES IN THE NIGHT: THE $2,000,000 FIRE THAT LEVELLED TOWN OF ELLSWORTH, ME.

TRUE TO WIFE LOST 30 YEARS

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Thirty years ago Constantino Bialzi arrived with his bride of three months from Italy, envisioning a rosy future in America.

In the confusion of debarking at the Battery, the two were separated. Last night Bialzi appeared at the East Fifty-first Street Police Station, asking:

"You find my wife yet?"

Detective Herman Meyer, one of the patrolmen on duty at the same station house when Bialzi first reported his wife missing, on May 11, 1903, recalled the incident and promised to renew the search.

Bialzi, now 59, a hotel chef, called at the police station every night for a while but gradually his visits became more infrequent.

Believing he will find his Marie some day, he has not remarried.

FOREST CHECK HOLDS FATHER

Emil Albert, 46, of 2203 Mahon avenue, was held over today in Morals Court, following trouble with his wife over a check from the reforestation army, testimony revealed.

Albert was arrested last night on complaint of his wife, Katie, after she said he had only $1.20 from a $10.65 check coming from their son, Norman, at Warren, Pa.

Police were unable to find "a man on Clark street," who had cashed the check for about half its amount, promising the rest today, Albert said, adding he had only spent enough for a glass of beer.

There are four other children in the family, which is destitute, according to Mrs. Albert's testimony.

VOTE MACHINE HAUL AWARDED

A contract for the transportation of the county's 1,100 voting machines from the county building to the plant of the Thomas Spacing Machine Company at Glenshaw, has been awarded to the W. J. Dillner Transfer and Storage Company at a cost of $1,763.20. Under terms of the contract the company will start work Monday and move 25 machines a day.

The Court Typewriter Company was given a contract for the overhauling and repair of typewriters used in the 50 county departments and bureaus. More than 1,000 machines are used.

Judge Rowand Talks To Church Members

Judge Harry H. Rowand last night addressed the members of the Observatory Hill Christian Church and explained the workings of Criminal Court.

TAG CRUSADERS FACE CHARGES

JACKSON, Mich., May 12.—(AP.)—The crusading Morosses, whose campaign against the Michigan automobile weight tax came to an end yesterday in a Jackson garage, today faced state warrants charging them with such things as resisting an officer, assault with intent to do great bodily harm and assault with intent to kill.

Those charges are in addition to the accusation of driving an automobile with improper (1932) license plates which brought about their original arrest.

Ernest A. Moross, 58, and his wife, Katie, 56, pleaded not guilty late yesterday.

Apprehended by state policemen early yesterday, the couple barricaded themselves in their car, refusing to accept court summonses. Finally the car was towed to Jackson and chained to a post in a garage where the end of the 12-hour siege finally came in a shower of glass, tools, canned goods and other articles.

CHARGES WIFE BALKED CAREER

Dr. Charles H. Girt, Elizabeth dentist and former member of the University of Pittsburgh faculty, testified today in his uncontested divorce suit against Helen Girt that his wife interfered with his profession.

He wanted to take a special course at Nashville, Tenn., but his wife objected, he testified. She also neglected their home, he said, particularly some fine Oriental rugs which he feared moths would destroy.

Girt told Judge W. H. McNaugher that when he returned from a trip South his wife was living with her aunt in Elizabeth and would not return to him.

Husband Loses Rolling Pin Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—(AP.)—The rolling pin, legendary weapon of domestic wars, left William Black decidedly a casualty.

Police said Black fled from his home, climbed into his automobile, locked the doors and appeared safe from his wife, Helen.

But Mrs. Black, the officers said, turned loose a terrific rolling pin barrage on the car windows until the attack reached its objective—Black's head.

Police confiscated the rolling pin.

SCHOOL BOARD SUIT SNAGGED

Judge W. H. McNaugher today directed Frank S. Delp and others, in their school tax suit against the Pittsburgh Board of Public Education, to amend their charges within five days or the suit would be dismissed.

The court ordered the plaintiffs set forth in what particulars the board has exceeded its authority.

In the suit the plaintiffs asked the board be required to apply insurance and general funds to reduction of the tax levy and refund for 1933 all taxes in excess of an 8-mill levy.

Homestead Boy Injured by Truck

Robert Boyle, 12, of 141 Sixteenth street, Homestead, was in the Homestead Hospital today with a fractured right arm and head injuries suffered when he ran in front of a truck driven by Harry Sutcliffe, of Etna, near his home, last night, according to a police report.

BUC PITCHER STARS IN RELIEF ROLES

Bill Harris

THE SUCCESS OF the Pirates in the opening game of the New York series was in the records today as a victory for Heinie Meine, his fourth in a row, but it was Bill Harris who protected a one-run lead and saved the day by striking out George Uhle with the bases full in the ninth inning, when a single would have meant defeat. All of which draws attention to the fact that Harris has been doing this same excellent kind of relief pitching since the season started and has played a very helpful part in the spring drive of the Bucs without once starting a game.

On April 15, against the Cubs, Harris relieved Meine in the seventh inning and held the Bruins in check until the Gibsons won out in 10 frames. On April 21, against the Reds, he supplanted Bill Swift in the ninth and held that game safe after the Rovers had gone to the front in the eighth. On May 1 he finished a game in Philadelphia that already had been lost. In four rescue appearances not a run had been charged against him. They don't make better relief pitching than that. Relief hurlers are going to be important factors in this race when the games become crowded and there is more of a drain on the regular starting staff, and there is encouragement in the prospect that the Pirates will have in Harris one of the best in the league.

THE IRISH STILL rule major league baseball, after all. It seems that only the names are changed. Henry P. Edwards, the American League's capable publicity man, has completed a survey which shows that the ancestry of 60 per cent of the players in the big show traces back to the Emerald Isle. On the A's, both sides of the families of Connie Mack and Jimmy Foxx originated in Ireland, and eight others mingle the blood of Erin with that of Scotland, England and Denmark.

Ten races, including the Indian, are represented on the Mackmen. Cochrane, Grove, Cain, Mahaffey and McNair are Scotch-Irish; Higgins and Williams, English-Irish; Peterson, Danish-Irish; Johnson, Swedish-Indian; Claset, Dietrich, Krausse, Miller and Rommel, German; Bishop, Coleman and Blackburne, English-German; Madjeski and Cihocki, Polish; Earnshaw, English; Freitas, Portuguese; Walberg, Swedish; McDonald, Scotch, and Cramer, Dutch.

CASEY STENGEL declares that Honus Wagner owes him $155. Stengel thought he could fool Wagner one day in Brooklyn, when Honus was taking a throw from the Pirate outfield. The play was at second and Casey slowed up going into third to draw a throw. He drew it, all right, but to his own sorrow.

Though Wagner was looking toward second after turning, he threw off his right shoulder and nailed Stengel at third. Uncle Robby fined Casey $150 for making a dumb play. "I claim I wasn't dumb," Stengel told Sid Mercer, "and that Wagner was just oversmart, but Robby couldn't see it. So that's why I say Honus owes me $155." "What's the other $5 for?" Stengel was asked. "For my ticket to the Coney Island banquet Monday night," he replied.

A SUGGESTION THAT Dazzy Vance probably would be found easier to catch now than in earlier years, when he was throwing the fastest ball in the National League, brought from Otto Miller, veteran Brooklyn backstop, the assertion that Dazzy always was easier to catch than Burleigh Grimes. Miller says that Vance always pitched a light ball, as is true of nearly all great fastball hurlers. It is the curve and spitball flingers who give a catcher his main trouble. Moundsmen of the latter type throw a heavy ball, and that, Miller explains, is why Grimes was tougher than Vance for a backstop to handle.

Walter Johnson

INSISTING THAT IN his fastest days Walter Johnson was easy to catch, American League men laughingly recall that Gabby Street used to make a great fuss over handling him. Gabby would take a piece of raw steak to the park and insert it in his glove. This caused him to become famous as the only catcher who could handle Johnson's terrific speed.

But after Street left Washington, Eddie Ainsmith caught Walter with ease and said his delivery was a cinch to handle. Street is said to have admitted later that Johnson was as easy as Ainsmith claimed, and that he had made a great ado about catching Walter merely for effect. It helped Johnson's reputation with the crowd and with opposing batsmen.

CLARK GRIFFITH has beaten even John McGraw's record for making new deals to recover players he once traded. He always has admitted that the worst trade he ever made was that in which he gave Buddy Myer to the Red Sox for Topper Rigney and then had to give up five players to get Myer back.

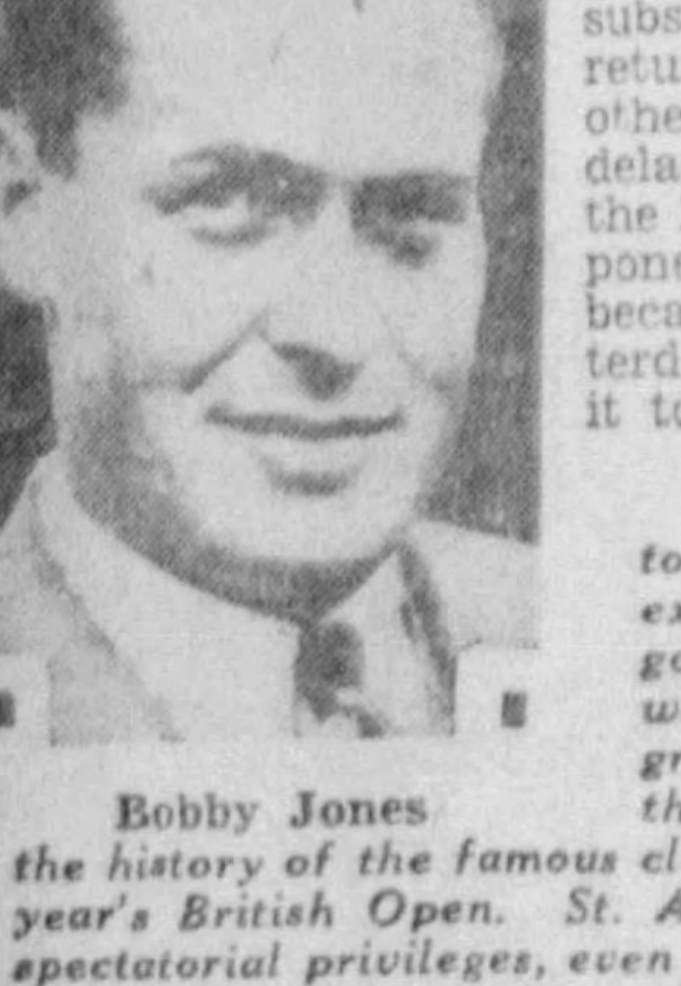
But Myer was only one of a number of players Griffith let go and got back again. Among the others were Goose Goslin, Carl Fischer, Dick Coffman, Tom Zachary and Alvin Crowder.

THE TACTICAL BLUNDER by Herb Fisher that cost Head Play the Kentucky Derby prompts veteran turfmen to observe again that there are many riders in the saddles today, but few real jockeys. There's a great difference, similar to that between a thrower and a pitcher in baseball. The old-timers sigh for the days of Garrison, McLaughlin, Murphy, Sloan, Fitzpatrick, Hamilton, Redfern, Griffin, Odom, Miller, Powers, Robinson and Sande. They say almost anybody can ride a horse, but it takes a real jockey to be a judge of pace, to grasp the winning opportunity that presents itself during a race, and to show the skill required to conserve the fluttering strength of a tired thoroughbred for the one sprint that will make him a winner.

IT IS CONTENDED that at least 40 per cent of the present-day races are not truly run; that the best horse often loses because he is poorly ridden by a saddleman who knows nothing but the overland route and just throws his leg over a runner to push and pull him along, heedless of the waste of valuable ground.

At that, Fisher's error on Head Play, involving the loss of Derby glory and almost $50,000, wasn't the most costly fluke financially in recent years. That doubtful distinction belongs to Jockey Jones, whose faulty riding of Ladysman in the 1932 Futurity lost the race and $89,000 to Kerry Patch.

EVEN IN THE old days of the ring, when they were chased from place to place by the law and were kept busy finding a spot where they could pull off a fight without interference, no greater difficulty was experienced in staging a bout than has been met by New York promoters in trying to bring Kid Chocolate and Seaman Watson together in a tilt for the featherweight championship.



Bobby Jones

Some sort of hoodoo has trailed the match ever since it was arranged early in the year. The deportation of Chocolate, the substitution of a Watson-La Barba bout, the return of Watson to England, and several other obstacles have bobbed up in turn to delay the meeting of the Cuban Negro and the Englishman. And now it has been postponed again from tonight until next Friday because Chocolate's tummy went wrong yesterday. In the end they may have to leave it to the world court.

THE PRIZE FOR optimism goes to the officials of St. Andrew's. They expect Scotchmen to pay to look at a golf tournament. Overlooking a bet by waiting until the tourney had lost its greatest drawing card, Bobby Jones, they have decided, for the first time in the history of the famous club, to charge an admission fee for this year's British Open. St. Andrew's never before put a price on spectatorial privileges, even when Jones played there, but the plan is to be tried for 1933, and, if successful, it is expected to mean better things for British golf in a financial way. It will help the tourney in one respect, for it will cut down the attendance and relieve the congestion that usually caused the competition to go to pieces when crowds of 10,000 were swarming over the course.

WALLACE, RILEY IN WINDUP TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Frankie Wallace vs. Georgie Riley, Alabama Kid vs. Joe Rugguzzoni and Johnny Datto vs. Petey Sarron, 10 rounds each, and Joey Bazzone vs. Jack O'Britton, 6 rounds, Arena, North Side.

Freddie Miller vs. Eddie Trujillo (nontitle), 10 rounds, Hollywood, Cal.

Jimmy Evans vs. Eddie Murdock, 10 rounds, San Diego, Cal.

Art Lasky vs. Charley Retzlaff (for Minnesota heavyweight championship), 10 rounds, St. Paul.

Tiger Roy Smith vs. Fritz Heinz, 10 rounds, Detroit.

Jackie Purvis vs. Johnny Phagan and Johnny Fitzpatrick vs. Kid Irish, 8 rounds each, Cicero, Ill.

Frankie Clinque vs. Meyer Rowan, 10 rounds, Brooklyn.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Another one of those intriguing all-star cards such as only Lew Raymond among the local matchmakers seems to be able to concoct serves as the fistic menu at the North Side Arena tonight. Boxers, punchers and willing mixers are tossed together in a manner calculated to provide heated action.

Three 10-round bouts top off the bill, with a six-rounder as an appetizer.

Here's the lineup:

Main bout—Frankie Wallace, of Cleveland, victor over Jackie Rodgers, Mose Butch and Georgie Riley, of Detroit, here, meeting Riley in a return engagement after having won by a technical knockout over the Negro flash in the same ring recently. Just before that defeat, Riley took the local fans by storm in stopping Johnny Datto.

Semi-final—The Alabama Kid, Negro southpaw puncher, who stopped Carl Montebano twice in his last two appearances here, against Joe Rugguzzoni, rugged Detroit middleweight, who gave Frankie Goosby a good fight at the Moose Temple and whipped Anson Green at the Arena.

First 10-rounder—Johnny Datto, Filipino Dynamiter, vs. Petey Sarron, of the South, who has just held Tommy Paul to two draws, which should be a sufficiently good recommendation for anyone.

Preliminary—Jack O'Britton, of Akron, vs. Joey Bazzone, McKeesport, welterweights.

Between Rounds

Tony Marino, back in fighting trim again with his bad hand mended, is ready for bouts at 118 pounds instead of continuing to campaign as a flyweight.

Reed Brown, manager of Marino, has taken over Shorty Washko, Duquesne 122-pounder, who hereafter will be known by his correct name, Frankie Washko.

The suspension plastered on Clare Repoie, Burgettstown boxer, by the boxing commission "for conduct detrimental to the sport," really was for "sassing" Referee Joe Zivic in his bout at the Arena last Friday night, it develops. Repoie did not obey Zivic's instructions and talked back to the official, according to the latter's report.

The Tony Herrera-Tracey Cox return bout at Indianapolis, has fallen through and they have been rematched for the main bout of the second show of the season at Hickey Park, Millvale, May 29.

K. O. Christner, whose many knockout defeats these days are fattening up the records of young heavyweights around the country, is in with Frank Van Hee, of Seattle, at Portland, Ore., next Tuesday night. Leroy Haynes stopped the Kayo in San Francisco a few nights ago.

An amateur boxing show of seven bouts will be held by the Ambridge A. C. in Croatian Hall, Ambridge, May 23.

The boxing show at East Liverpool, O., Wednesday night drew only $78 with Tug Phillips and Ray Lyle boxing the main bout. This was worse than Youngstown, O., which played to $134 a week ago.

PIRATES PLACE HURLER

Errol Stoner, a right-handed rookie pitcher who was a part of the Pirates' spring training roster, will leave Pittsburgh to join the Springfield (O.) club of the Mid-Atlantic League. William E. Benswanger, Bucco president, secured the berth for Stoner, who is a Los Angeles youth of promise.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THIS THING CALLED TIME—While we obtain our time from the sun and thus employ what is called Solar Time in our daily lives, it is startling to realize that the sun is most unreliable as a timekeeper, and that our time is not really solar, in the sense that it is disassociated from the apparent motion of the heavenly luminary; the true solar day does not furnish a uniform measure of time. The fiery orb is either behind or ahead of our clock with bewildering irregularity. It was necessary to invent an artificial sun by which to regulate our time. From this fictitious star we obtain our "mean" time. For only four fleeting instants every year does "mean" time coincide with the time dispensed by the real center of our solar system.

TOMORROW: THE PATH THAT HATH NO TURNING.

PETRO DEFEATS DUTCH WEIR

Dutch Weir, state A. M. A. junior and Greater Pittsburgh amateur heavyweight champion, found the going against John Petro, of the Mon Valley A. C., hard last night in the feature scrap of the 12-bout amateur show at the Palisades, McKeesport, and dropped the decision after three hard rounds.

The show was the final amateur affair of the season in the Tube City.

Seven of the 12 bouts ended in knockouts. In the quickest kayo, Young Cowboy De Luca, of East Liberty, stopped Paul Reed, of the Superior A. C., in the first round. The boys are welterweights. The summary:

112-pound class—Jimmy Meyers, Charleroi, defeated Tony Begler, McKeesport.

118-pound class—Charles Meyers, Charleroi, defeated John Burkholder, McKeesport; Gene Burley, Superior, won by a technical knockout over Mike Nichy, Charleroi, third round.

135-pound class—William Watson, Superior, defeated Tony De Sanders, J. L. Thomas Club; Jimmy Ferry, Monon Valley, defeated Young Gizzy, Donora.

147-pound class—Regis Golden, J. L. Thomas Club, won by a technical knockout over Teddy Movan, McKeesport, third round; Young Cowboy De Luca, East Liberty, knocked out Paul Reed, Superior, first round; Red Vissatt, West Newton, won by a technical knockout over Albert Lilja, East Liberty, third round.

160-pound class—Jimmy Clark, Superior, won by a technical knockout over Gene Ferrante, East Liberty, first round.

175-pound class—Floyd Walcott, Monon Valley, defeated Andy Todd, Donora, three rounds.

Heavyweight class—John Petro, Monon Valley, defeated Dutch Weir, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C.

PREAKNESS ON AIR

The Preakness, to be run at Pimlico, will be described over the NBC network, including KDKA, from the track tomorrow afternoon at 6 o'clock. Clem McCarthy will describe the running of the race. He will be assisted by John Wilburn, WBAL announcer, during the broadcast.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Howard Harpster, back at his alma mater, Carnegie Tech, as head football coach, already has acquired the master coach's touch . . . When he completed spring practice the other day, an old grad stepped up to him and remarked: "Well, Howard, old kid, we ought to win a game or two next fall, eh, wot?" . . . "Yeah," replied Harp, "which one?"

The most talked about amateur boxer in these parts these days is William Eley, who recently won the state lightweight title . . . He also is the possessor of the Allegheny Mountain Association senior and junior championships in the lightweight class and last year won the Allegheny County Golden Gloves featherweight title and the Monongahela Valley 135-pound championship . . . He is much sought after by the professional managers, but a Dr. Harrington, of New Salem, Pa., his mentor, so far has been able to steer them off.

Eley, a Negro, is a junior in the German Township High School . . . He is training to be a deacon in his church and won't train, box or talk fights on the Sabbath . . . He has had 89 bouts, of which he has won 77. He is a good boxer and a puncher.

When Wesley Ramey, of Grand Rapids, recent decisive conqueror of Tony Canzoneri, the very efficient lightweight champion, and Harry Dublinsky, of Chicago, meet for Lew Raymond in the Arena next Friday night, it will be their second clash, the first having occurred in 1930, when Ramey was the winner. . . . Both are loaded down with class, Ramey being a beautiful long-range boxer, and Dublinsky a busy infighter . . . Dublinsky has shown here twice, at Motor Square Garden, stopping Frankie Bojarski and really beating Tony Falco, although the latter got the decision . . . Ramey has appeared around here only once, beating Battling Gizzy at the Meyers Bowl, after having previously turned the trick in Detroit.

For the benefit of those fans who thought Eddie Shea, of Chicago, did not step out all of the way in his losing bout with Jackie Wilson at the Garden last Monday night, let it be known that the Garden planned to keep him here to box Tommy Paul next Monday night if he won, and he was very anxious to g[illegible] that bout.

Miss Lenore Kight, America's new mermaid queen, says it is her ambition to break every one of the 16 world records held by Miss Helene Madison, her predecessor, who has turned professional . . . She is looking forward to the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin, and, if she continues her development at her present rate, she has a good chance of achieving her aim and going down in the records as one of the most amazing girl swimmers of all time.—HARRY KECK.

TITLE SWIM DUEL TONIGHT

Miss Lenore Kight, national free-style swimming champion at three distances and holder of several world records, will defend her Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U., 500-yard free-style championship in a meet in the pool of the Carnegie Library, Homestead, tonight.

Two other title events are on the program, the A. M. A. 200-yard junior free-style for women and the A. M. A., 500-yard junior free-style for men, as well as a complete program of competition.

The meet is the first featuring Miss Kight since she attained her national laurels and a capacity crowd is expected to jam the Library pool to see her perform.

Outfielder Costs Braves $50,000

MINNEAPOLIS, May 12.—(AP.)—The price paid by the Boston Braves for Outfielder Joe Mowry, of the Minneapolis American Association Club, was reported to aggregate $50,000.

It was understood the Millers were to receive $25,000 cash, Outfielder Bob Holland and an unnamed pitcher.

Mowry, former star at the University of Iowa, has been a consistent .350 hitter in his brief professional career.

SCHOOL CARD REVISED

C. W. Nethaway, supervisor of athletics in the Pittsburgh grade schools, today announced a revised list of baseball games for next week. The changes in the original schedule were brought about as a result of the many postponements of the early weeks of play. Two track meets also are listed for disposal next week. Ten schools will compete in the Central-East End Section I meet at Schenley High field on Tuesday, while seven schools will compete in the Homewood-Brushton sectional meet at Westinghouse High field on Thursday. The revised baseball card for next week follows:

GAMES MONDAY

Section I, Group I—Beitzhoover at Spring Lane.
Section I, Group II—Lee at West Liberty, Beechwood at Brookline.
Section I, Group III—Westlake at Obey.
Section I, Group IV—Oakwood at Bell.

Section II, Group I—Logan at Holmes.
Section II, Group II—Forbes at Frick.
Section II, Group III—Garfield at Fort Pitt.
Section II, Group IV—Morningside at Rogers.
Section II, Group V—Fulton at Lemington.

GAMES FRIDAY

Section II, Group VI—Regent Square at Sterrett, Linden at Swisshelm.

Two scholastic track meets will be held in the district tomorrow. Burgettstown Union High will sponsor the "Little Five" meet at Donora Athletic Field. Among the schools will be Burgettstown, McDonald, Oakdale, Canonsburg, Washington, Donora, Waynesburg, Uniontown, Monongahela, Monessen and Brownsville. The anual Westmorelad County championship will be decided at Greensburg High School field.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Fairmont—Jimmy Reilly defeated George Schiee, 10 rounds; Paul Oger defeated Joey Marcus, 8 rounds; Sunny Jim McVey won by a technical knockout over Ace Dobbins, 1 round.

At Billings, Mont.—Al Webster won by a technical knockout over Fred Benner, 4 rounds.

CITIZENS BAND TOGETHER FOR CELEBRATION

The greatest "Honus Wagner Day" of all was in the making today!

Inspired largely by the remarkable homage paid him by cities and towns in practically every section of the United States since his return to baseball and his beloved Pirates, representative Pittsburgh citizens of long standing today banded themselves together for the purpose of tendering Honus a "day," which, they feel sure, will surpass all previous tributes to the famous "Flying Dutchman."

A unification of purpose for the gala occasion was promised today by the various groups behind the plan. Officials of No. 11 Lodge, B. P. O. E., who already had launched a tentative program to honor Wagner, were in conference with the other groups, the majority of which were represented by Albert K. (Rosey) Rowswell, longtime Pirate booster.

JUNE 9 BIG DATE

Rowswell and Harry L. Wilson and William F. Jones, ranking officers in No. 11, Elks' Lodge, were in communication with William E. Benswanger, Pirate president, who gave them his permission and the club's co-operation on the big proposition.

The big event is slated to be held at Forbes Field, Friday, June 9. To further arrangements a committee luncheon has been set by Rowswell at the Keystone Club for next Thursday noon. Rowswell's group is working in conjunction with the Elks' officials and the latter will be represented at the committee luncheon on Thursday.

MAY DECLARE HOLIDAY

Wagner is a member of the Carnegie Lodge of Elks and it is on this account that the fraternal organization will play a big part in the testimonial. Wilson, who is chairman of the board of trustees of No. 11 lodge, this afternoon stated that a wonderful tribute is assured for Wagner now that the various groups have merged for the event. Honus' fraternal brothers from all points of a radius of 100 miles of the city will take part.

Pittsburgh has yet to pay any signal honor to Honus who has been thus eulogized far and wide. But, like the Biblical injunction, "the last shall be first," the city may take precedence on its "Honus Wagner Day."

Mayor Herron will be asked to declare a half holiday and a parade from downtown district to the ball field will be a feature.
—CHARLES DOYLE.

Minimum Wages For Boxers Set

INDIANAPOLIS, May 12.—(INS.)—The poor, underpaid prize-fighter looked to Al Feeney, State Boxing Commissioner, today as his benefactor.

In a bulletin to all fight promoters, Feeney announced that the pay for boxers must be raised immediately, based on the following minimum:

Four rounds, not less than $5.
Six rounds, not less than $10.
Eight rounds, not less than $25

Miss Hicks Gets First Hole in One

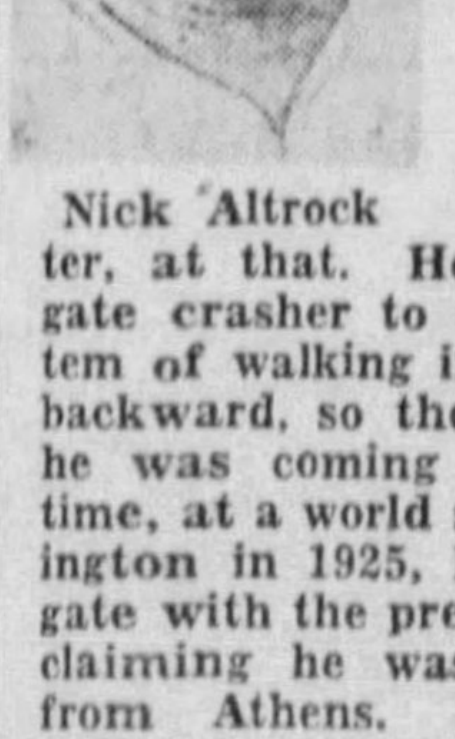
NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Helen Hicks, former women's national golf champion, finally has scored a hole in one.

Playing on her home course at Inwood, Miss Hicks' mashie tee shot at the 146-yard fourteenth rolled into the cup. It was the first hole in one of her career.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

CHICAGO, May 12.—I see One-Eyed Connolly has retired from the gate-crashing business. It simply means One-Eye has gone off the brass standard and ain't trying to outstare the gatemen any more. I don't know whether Mr. Connolly in the future will pay his money at the ticket window or use his good optic to peek through a knot-hole in the fence.



Nick Altrock

But One-Eye always was quite a character, at that. He was the first gate crasher to devise the system of walking into a ball park backward, so they would think he was coming out. Another time, at a world series in Washington in 1925, he crashed the gate with the presidential party, claiming he was the Minister from Athens. He flashed a menu from a Greek restaurant as his credentials, and darned if it didn't work.

I can't believe he's retired from the industry for good, though. You see, One-Eye is getting along in years now. And maybe this is just a stall to get St. Peter off his guard so Connolly can scram past the pearly gates when it comes his time to check in.

ONLY 11 HORSES ENTERED IN PREAKNESS

FIELD FOR RACE SMALLEST IN MANY YEARS

BALTIMORE, May 12.—(INS.)—The smallest field in years will compete tomorrow for the $25,000 Preakness, second only to the Kentucky Derby in American turf tradition.

Only 11 horses were entered when the books closed at Pimlico at 11 a. m. and of this number three were by the same owner, W. R. Coe.

However, a return engagement between E. R. Bradley's Broker's Tip, winner of the Derby, and Mrs. Silas Mason's Head Play is assured, for both were numbered among the 11.

All the horses will carry 126 pounds, the same weight as in the Derby.

COE NAMES THREE

Coe named Ladysman, the winter book choice, which disappointed in the Derby, Pomponius and Pompoleon fofr the classic, but is expected to start only two.

The remainder of the field will be composed of Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Poppyman, J. E. Hughes' Silent Shot, Leo Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, H. C. Phipps' Utopian, the Wheatley stable's De Valera and Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Inlander. Utopian and De Valera will run coupled as the Trainer James Fitzsimmons' entry.

The weather today was far from promising for the owners and trainers who prefer fast racing strips for their fleet-footed thoroughbreds. The "Old Hilltip" course was heavy, and the prospects were for more rain before post time at about 5 u. m. (eastern standard time) tomorrow.

CHANGE IN RIDERS

With Don Meade and Herb Fisher on the ground as the result of suspensions following their rough riding in the Derby, Bradley is expected to put the veteran, Jimmy Smith, up on Broker's Tip in an effort to make it two straight in the famous Maryland stake. The master of Idle Hour won the event last year with Burgoo King.

Mrs. Mason, who purchased Head Play on the eve of the Derby for $30,000, has secured Alfred (Slim) Robertson, veteran contract rider for C. V. Whitney, to guide the powerful son of My Play.

STARS ENTER RACE

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP.)—Broker's Tip and Head Play, arch rivals of the American turf, will get another big chance to settle their racing argument at Washington Park, June 3.

Before a World's Fair crowd, the two 3-year-olds, which supplied the drama in the Kentucky Derby, will match strides in the American Derby. A promised record-breaking field, picked from an eligibility of 84 of the nation's leading thoroughbreds, will oppose them.

Charley O, which finished third behind the two rivals in the Kentucky Derby, will be in the race for $25,000 added over the same route, a mile and a quarter.

SENATORS WIN SECOND FRAY

The Charleston Senators, defending champions in the Mid-Atlantic League, dropped their first three games of the season but once having tasted victory, apparently are going to be tough to stop.

Yesterday they won their second game in succession, defeating Zanesville 11 to 3 with a fruitful early attack. The Senators punched over seven runs in the first inning and added four more in the third. M. Miller, on the slab, limited Zanesville to four scattered hits.

Dayton and Johnstown broke even in a doubleheader, the Johnnies winning the first game, 3 to 2, but being walloped in the second, 16 to 0. Gilvary kept Johnstown's eight hits in the second game well scattered.

Beckley defeated Huntington, 5 to 2, at Beckley, staging a three-run rally in the seventh. Wheeling and Springfield were held idle at Wheeling by rain.

Klein Reported Headed for Cubs

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—Rumors were flying thick and fast here today that Chuck Klein, hard-hitting outfielder of the Philadelphia Phillies, would be traded to the Chicago Cubs for Outfielder Riggs Stephenson and Infielder Bill Jurges in time to permit Klein to leave with the Cub squad for Chicago tomorrow night.

Another report had Babe Herman and Charley Root, of the Cubs, involved in the transaction.

CATCHER MANCUSO MISSES RELAY TO PLATE AND PIRATES WIN SERIES OPENER, 7 TO 6

The Pirates opened their first "crucial" series of the year with a victory over the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds yesterday in a free-hitting battle. As the margin of victory was only one run, this tally, in the third inning, was of paramount importance. The triumph increases the Pirates' lead over the Giants to three games. Lindstrom, former Giant, starred in the battle with a trio of safeties. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

CHOCOLATE GO POSTPONED

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—The long-delayed title bout between Kid Chocolate, from Cuba, recognized in New York state as the featherweight champion, and Seaman Tom Watson, holder of the British crown, again was postponed when the Ebony Flash reported ill at his training quarters in Orangeburg, N. Y., yesterday.

As the result, the 15-round bout, scheduled for tonight in Madison Square Garden, now has been moved back to May 19—contingent on Chocolate's recovering from a severe stomach attack in time to resume training.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, New York State Athletic Commission physician, examined Chocolate yesterday afternoon. Following upon his report, the commission approved the Garden's request for one week's postponement of the match.

The two titleholders among the 126-pounders were first signed for a bout last January, but Chocolate had failed to provide himself with the proper re-entry papers when he went back to Cuba on a visit and was stopped at Key West.

UNLEASH WRIST POWER 1½ FT. BEFORE IMPACT.
CONTINUE TO APPLY POWER FOR 2 FT. AFTER.

UTILIZING THE WRIST POWER

In order to gain the greatest amount of speed at impact it is essential that the wrists do not uncock too soon. Good golfers as a rule do not start to unloose this power until the hands are at hip level on the downswing. However, should all the wrist power be unleashed at this point, the greatest momentum undoubtedly would have spent itself by the time the ball was reached. The point is to conserve this energy until the time arrives for it to be utilized most fully.

Naturally, as the clubhead descends it gradually gathers speed, and, if the power stored up in the wrists is not brought into full use until the clubhead is about a foot and a half from the ball and gauged so that the momentum continues on for two feet past, a hit at nearly maximum speed will result.

This wrist play sends the clubhead through the ball with that snap that means added yards.

LINDY RETURNS TO HUMBLE OLD MATES

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Freddie Lindstrom, the boy wonder of John McGraw's last triumphs with the Giants, stepped up out of a dugout and onto the playing field of the Polo Grounds for the first time in the gray uniform of the enemy.

He looked quickly around, an eager grin on his square, Scandinavian features. Instinctively he glanced toward the Giants' dugout. Then he turned away, and picked up a bat. Half in apology, he said:

"I guess you can't break a habit of nine years so easily. I feel as if I should be on the other bench. But it's a thrill to be back, just the same."

WAS M'GRAW PRODIGY

That was all there was to the return of Freddie Lindstrom to the Polo Grounds, where he first came up as an 18-year-old kid in 1924, a third base prodigy of Old Master McGraw. He stayed until the great Jawn retired last summer, turned the reins over to Bill Terry, and started the wholesale breaking up of a ball club. During the winter, Terry sent Lindstrom to the Pittsburgh Pirates amid a cloud of rumors that Freddie was dissatisfied because Terry, and not he, had been given the club management.

Memories mean little as far as today's ball games are concerned. Lindstrom did not look again at the Giants, and the Giants ignored him. Bill Terry, in particular, did a masterly job of ignoring, while Lindstrom went out and got himself three hits and helped the Pirates increase their lead to three games with a 7-6 victory.

HAPPY WITH PIRATES

Lindstrom says he is happy with the Pirates, particularly playing center field with the Waner brothers on either side of what critics say is the best outfield in baseball. He said:

"I'm just a traffic cop out there. That pair can catch anything that stays in the ball park."

He thinks the Pirates will win the National League pennant, that the Cubs and Cardinals will be dangerous. The Pirates' pitching will hold up through the season. Because they are "spot" pitchers, the fielders anticipate every ball that's hit. He added:

"But you can't kid the hitters around this league. They've changed balls on us again. The seams have been raised so the pitcher gets a better grip, and they've taken the life out of it. That's the main reason no one's been hitting much this spring."

BUCS TROUNCE HUBBELL

In trimming the Giants yesterday, the Buccos evinced special satisfaction in that they were able to triumph over Southpaw Carl Hubbell, who has been a source of worry to the Buccos since he reached the big show. They nicked the screw-ball lefthander for 12 hits and all of their runs.

Heinie Meine, the winning pitcher, also was a victim of a fusilade of safeties before he retired in the ninth. Bill Harris went to the rescue of Heinie after two were out and with enough runs on the sacks to give the home club the victory. Harris brought the game to a close by fanning Pinch Hitter George Uhle, with the bases loaded.

CANADA LEADS IN CUP DUEL WITH CUBA

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 12.—(AP.)—Canada is within one match of victory in the first round of the North American zone Davis Cup play with Cuba, today, having won both of yesterday's singles matches in impressive fashion.

Playing in between showers that threatened to postpone the second match the Canadians showed two outstanding players in Dr. Jack Wright, of Vancouver, a veteran of Davis Cup competition, and the more youthful Gilbert Nunns, of Toronto, under fire for the first time in Davis Cup singles competition.

Wright needed all of his skill to output Cuba's Ricardo Morales, in the second match, 8-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2, after Nunns had made short work of Lorenzo Nodarse, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0.

Wright and Marcel Rainville will play morales and Arturo Randin, fourth ranking Cuban, in the doubles today, with a victory by the Canadians all that is needed to give them a chance against the United States in the zone finals.

VOLLEYBALL PAIRINGS SET

Pairings for the fifth annual interscholastic volleyball tournament, sponsored this year by the physical education department of the University of Pittsburgh, which will be staged tomorrow, have been announced by Dr. John Dambach, head of the department.

The tournament will be conducted in the Stadium Pavilion and the Herron Hill High School gym.

At Herron Hill, Allderdice and Oliver will clash at 9:30, with Bridgeville and Edgewood School for the Deaf meeting at 10:15, and Peabody taking on the winner of the Oliver-Allderdice clash at 11 o'clock. At 11:45 Legonier will engage the winner of the Bridgeville-Edgewood contest.

At the Stadium, Carrick meets Coraopolis at 9:30, with Allegheny facing Westinghouse at 10:15. At 11 o'clock, Dormont meets the winner of the first match and at 11:45 Fifth Avenue takes on the winner of the second. The semi-finals and final will be held in the Stadium in the afternoon.

PITT NETTERS, DUKES PLAY ABROAD

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Though the college racqueters have been washed out locally both early and often the past fortnight and have not, in very fact, broken into action here since Grove City nosed out the Dukes on the Bluff a week ago last Saturday, varsity squads still cherish the idea that all has not been lost to the weather man as Pitt's Panthers swing through the East and Duquesne swings away on a two-game jaunt that carries the Red and Blue to Waynesburg today and to W. & J. tomorrow.

Carnegie Tech, deprived by rain of the opportunity to battle the Presidents on the Skibo lot yesterday, continues loafing until Pitt is met next Wednesday.

Frank Serany, Hazelton basketball star, will be given his first crack at the No. 1 singles assignment for the Dukes at Waynesburg this afternoon. Capt. Frank Casey goes to number two, with Joe Thompson, Cliff Soisson, Bill Purcell, and Roy Getty following in the order given. Serany, who has displayed considerable punch and gratifying all-around improvement of late, will be realigned with Casey at top doubles, Thompson and Soisson having been teamed at the second station.

Pitt's sparring partner of the day is the University of Maryland at College Park. The Blue and Gold moves on to George Washington University on the morrow to wind up a trek which, unless distinct brace is promptly effected, will hardly be listed successful. Other district outfits on the jump today include Penn State at Lehigh and West Virginia at Muhlenburg. Attempt will also be made this afternoon to run off several Interscholastic Conference contests called off yesterday.

Secretary Don Monjot of the Belmont Tennis Club, recently admitted to membership in the P. T. A., states that the Ingram contingent's team will be selected from the following group: Jim Patin, Dr. Jim McNerney, Art Graham, Bob Baker, Bill Reynolds, A. L. Chapin, Bob Patin, A. C. Stapf, Coleman Murphy, A. B. Kiser, Jr., P. W. Hatfield, George McClintock, Jim McDonald, Harvey Sutton and Don Monjot.

INDIANS TAKE LEAD IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

TRIBE LIKELY TO BE TOUGH TO DISLODGE

Associated Press.

The Cleveland Indians have captured first place in the American League and it may be quite a task to get them out of there.

When the campaign started, there was considerable doubt as to just where the Indians belonged. Now that they have settled into their stride with the pitchers going great guns and batters picking up, there's no longer any question about it.

Melvin Harder, youngest member of the mound staff presented a clinching argument yesterday as he took personal charge of a 4-to-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox that gave Cleveland undisputed possession of the lead with a half game margin over the New York Yankees, who were kept idle in Chicago.

HARDER HITS HOMER

Harder held the Red Sox to six hits and walloped a homer for the run that put the Indians ahead to stay, after scoring the first run off Ivy Paul Andrews on a two-base hit. Another bright spot appeared for the Indians when Joe Vosmik hit a single to break a string of 18 futile visits to the plate.

Washington dropped into fourth place in the only other American League game when the St. Louis Browns took the home run route to their second straight victory, 4 to 3. Oscar Melillo hit for the circuit with one on in the fifth and Ted Gullic, rookie outfielder from Koshkonong, Mo., repeated the feat in the ninth after Ossie Bluege's homer had put Washington ahead in the first half of the last inning.

O'DOUL HITS FIVE

Frank O'Doul, National League batting champion, emerged from his customary spring batting slump, battered Paul Derringer for a homer and four singles and drove in five Brooklyn Dodger runs in a 7-6 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. His last blow drove in the tying run in the ninth and enabled Jake Flowers to send home the winning counter.

Pittsburgh's league-leading Pirates muddled through a 7-6 victory over the second-place New York Giants with the aid of four Giant errors and a dozen hits off Carl Hubbell. Fred Lindstrom, making his first appearance in the Polo Grounds since he was traded by the Giants last winter, led the attack with three hits.

CARDS BEAT BRAVES

The reconstructed St. Louis infield and Southpaw Bill Hallahan held the Boston Braves in check to give the Cardinals a 2-1 victory. Hallahan gave only seven hits but it took some sparkling fielding by Pepper Martin, Leo Durocher and Pat Crawford to keep the Braves from getting more.

The game between the Chicago Cubs and the Phillies was rained out.

Schlee and Marcus Lose in Fairmont

FAIRMONT, W. Va., May 12.—(AP.)—Jimmy Reilly, 139, Fairmont, was awarded an eight-round decision over George Schlee, 139, of Pittsburgh, here last night. Reilly was Schlee's superior, but was unable to knock him out.

Paul Oger, 148, Fairmont, gained a disputed decision over Joe Marcus, 142, Braddock, in eight rounds and Sunny Jim McVey, 182, Homestead, won on a technical knockout over Ace Dobbins, 181, Clarksburg, in the first round of the opening bout, which was scheduled to go eight rounds. McVey drove Dobbins to the floor 20 seconds after the first bell. Dobbins' seconds tossed in the towel.

TRACK DATE CHANGED

NEW YORK, May 12.—(INS.)—The National A. A. U. outdoor track and field championships, scheduled to be staged at Soldier Field in Chicago from July 6 to 8, have been set forward to June 29, 30 and July 1, it was announced by Secretary Dan Ferris. The women's title meet will be held June 30, in the afternoon.

'Speaking of the Rabbit, Boys—'

Prof. Robert E. Beaton, Wilkinsburg Junior High School principal, caught by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph cameraman as he dismissed Aristotle, Plato and a lot of other big leaguers of the old days to discuss Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, the Ponce de Leon of baseball, with two of his schoolboys. The professor played third base alongside the Rabbit at New Bedford, Mass., in the New England League, in 1911. A graduate of Wesleyan University, Bobby Beaton was a very he decided to forsake the diamond to follow teaching as a profession. In the picture, he is showing the boys how Maranville for many years has made his famous "vest-pocket" catches.

DAVID POLLOCK, 14 BILL RIAL, 13 PROF. R. E. BEATON

Wilkinsburg School Head Maranville Teammate

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

When Walter Maranville comes to Forbes Field next week in his twenty-second year of major league baseball, he will have the full moral support of a New England schoolmaster, who holds the destinies of 1,600 Wilkinsburg Junior High School students in his hands.

It may be a far cry from directing a big high school to watching the antics of the perennial Rabbit, but the gap has been bridged gracefully by Prof. Robert E. Beaton, principal of Wilkinsburg Junior High School. And, while he is a dignified professor to his admiring students, he is plain "Bobby Beaton" to Maranville, for the two were infield mates back in 1911, when the Rabbit made his first bid for fame.

A native of Woburn, one of Boston's suburbs, the typical pedagogue was camera shy in the midst of a fanning bee which may have disrupted a class or two at Wilkinsburg. He remarked:

FOND OF THE RABBIT

"I don't wish to bask in the reflected glory of the great diamond game, but, since you have asked me for an expression on Walter Maranville, I will state gladly that Walter is a great fellow and a wonderful player."

Note—The very human professor at this point indicated by his manner he would like to add, "and you can kick that around awhile," but, after all, a high school is hardly the place for the propagation of the baseball vernacular).

Prof. Beaton will have to be forgiven for the execution, in the heat of the fanning bee, of a couple of hook slides which caused strange reactions in the young lady instructors. The subject at the time was base running and the good professor for the moment forgot the locale.

Maranville, the litle marvel of the infield, who now is a member of Bill McKechnie's Braves, started his career with the New Bedford (Mass.) club, of the New England League, in 1911. Bobby Beaton, a graduate of Wesleyan University, was the team's star third baseman.

CHOSE TEACHING CAREER

Beaton used professional baseball as a means to assist in his education. He played summer ball in the vacation periods of his college career. After graduation he was offered a contract by Montreal, of the then Eastern League. The following season found him hooked up on the same club which Maranville used as a stepping stone to the majors. Dwelling on the Rabbit when Walter was a stripling, Prof. Beaton said:

"Walter was a fine player the day he reported. He was smart from the start and his good nature made him a popular figure all over the league. I enjoyed every day of the season I played near him, but ' had my goal set to become a teacher, so I left baseball, although I still thrill when I see a ball field."

RATES TRAYNOR BEST

Prof. Beaton's home is within a few miles of Somerville, which town sent Harold (Pie) Traynor into baseball. Beaton saw Jimmy Collins in his heydey and he is convinced Our Pie is the greater third sacker, if a distinction must be made. Collins, he said, had marvelous grace, but "Traynor makes plays on his right that were beyond Jimmy."

Prof. Beaton would be glad if baseball were to come into its own as a scholastic and collegiate sport in the Pittsburgh district. The big colleges and universities of the East stress this sport.

PITT TRACKERS MAY WIN OVER PENN STATE

By JESS CARVER

Penn State and Pitt have been meeting on the track annually since 1921, after a somewhat hit or miss relationships that had its inception back in 1907, and only once in the last 12 years have the Panthers been able to trip the Lions. The trick was turned, probably as much to the surprise of the Panthers as to the Lions, in 1929.

But it looks now as if the local collegians might take the Lions when they tie up tomorrow in their dual engagement in the Pitt Stadium. The Lions have been taken in both their starts to date, by the Army and North Carolina, while Pitt made an exceptionally good showing against West Virginia, losing only by the margin of a single point last week.

TARHEELS STRONG

North Carolina, always a power on the track and in the field, only beat State by a narrow margin, and it is considered as worthy of applause to hold a team as strong as the Tarheels close as it is to wallop a lot of other squads, so maybe the Panthers won't get so far tomorrow as they expect.

Pitt has more balance and all-round strength this year than ever before. Only in the high jump and pole vault are the locals out and out weak. In all other events they can count on points.

The district track and field campaign literally has been a washout to date. Several meets have been rained out, notable among those being yesterday's Carnegie Tech-Geneva engagement.

But it is the Wash-Jeff trackers who are a burnin' up. Here are the Presidents with the strongest and most formidable squad they've been able to gather together in y'ars and y'ars, fuming and fretting and suffering the pains of inaction. They've not had a single second of action, both meets with Waynesburg having been called off and no one from the team entered in any other meets.

CREDIT DUE LLOYD

Ellwood City High School's track and field squad made a fine showing in the Pitt interscholastic here last week, which caused by slight surprise at the time, due to the fact that in recent years Ellwood City teams have usually been dangerous. But had it not been for the unselfishness of Todd Lloyd, former Geneva College track and field star, a member of the Ellwood City faculty, the Beaver countians might not have had a team at all.

Up until two weeks ago, track and field definitely was "out" at Ellwood. The school athletic exchequer was lower than an Ubangi's lower lip, and what little dough was on hand [illegible] not to be devoted to hiring a track coach.

Lloyd, who has a whole chest full of medals and records, went to the school authorities and told them he'd serve for nothing. The officials said it was k.o. by them, but for Todd, not to be after any dough. Lloyd called what track and field men he knew to be in school together, issued old equipment and went to work. His efforts, in the short space of nine days before the Pitt carnival, netted a team strong enough to count nine points, take fifth place in the scoring and develop a shot-putter capable not only of winning the event but of shattering the meet record.

Metric System Adopted for Meet

The metric system of measurements will be used for the Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. junior track and field championships to be held on the Bellevue High School Field on the afternoon of Saturday, May 27.

A special high school relay race will be a feature.

J. J. Quinn, of the North Side, has entered the 1,500 and 10,000 meters run, the 400 meters dash and the 1,500 meters walk.

Entries close May 24, with J. T. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the A. M. A., with offices at 35 Vandergrift Building.

TRACK MEET TOMORROW

Men, women and children will participate in the first annual inter-church track and field meet of the Lawrenceville community at Schenley Oval at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The Lawrenceville branch of the Y. M. C. A. is sponsoring the meet.

ALUMNI GROUP GOLFERS TO PLAY TODAY

By TOM BIRKS

Members of the Shady Side Academy Alumni Association are engaging in a special one-day golf tourney at Ch[illegible] Valley today, with a large crowd of members and friends attempting par-cracking feats over Jimmy O'Donnell's course.

Many well-known amateur golfers are alumni of the Shady Side institution, and competition should be keen. Following the golf, there is to be a smoker and plenty of entertainment.

In the interscholastic ranks, five matches are carded. Oliver meets Connelly and University School clashes with Peabody in Section I, while in Section II, Shady Side goes to Wilkinsburg, McKesport travels to Springdale and Turtle Creek makes the trip to Brentwood.

The opening duels in the Western Pennsylvania Women's team competition originally scheduled for last Wednesday, and then postponed until today, have been set back until next Tuesday. Section I will open at Oakmont, while Section II will swing into action at Highland.

The Taylor Allderdice team will step out of its class to meet the Carnegie Tech freshmen at Valley Heights today.

Due to the condition of the course after the heavy rains of the past few days, the Schenley Park municipal course was closed yesterday, on the order of Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang. In the event there is no more rain today, the links will be opened at once.

CLOSING RALLY AIDS STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Financial markets were compelled to hurdle high profit-taking barriers today, but they finished with relatively few casualties and with their resistance, as a whole, apparently unimpaired.

Stocks, off 1 to 2 or more points at times, rallied in the final hour and erased most of their declines. The close was steady to firm.

Although irregular price movements were the rule throughout most of the session, many of the recent speculative favorites were early victims of the realizing movement. Activity diminished considerably on the decline, but came back sharply in the last quarter hour. Some of the specialties, notably the so-called "wet" shares, were in demand at substantial gains.

Considerable short covering appeared in American Telephone in advance of the dividend meeting next week. Wall street has recently been convinced that a substantial downward revision would be made in the annual rate of $9, but in view of the improved business outlook, is now inclined to be somewhat more cheerful. It was learned in quarters close to the company, however, that disconnections are still running in excess of new installations, although the ratio has improved.

Profit-taking was inspired in part by the report showing an increase of $52,000,000 in brokers' loans during the week ended Wednesday. This made a total increase of $178,000,000 in this item in three weeks. While loans had fallen to the lowest level in years, and any brisk resumption of speculation such as has been seen in recent weeks would naturally bring a sudden bulge, the increase in marginal trading has been sharp enough to inspire caution in some quarters.

Business news remained largely cheerful. Tomorrow's freight car loadings report is expected to come very close to the like level of last year, although it may be somewhat under the previous week. Bituminous coal output was reported for the week ended May 6 at 4,825,000 tons, or 350,000 over the like period of last year. Textile and rubber tire manufacturers are running at capacity in many cases. Dun & Bradstreet's weekly review said a steadily gaining volume of retail trade was reported from many centers, with dollar volume in many districts running ahead of a year ago.

BOND MARKET IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, May 12.—(INS.) Bonds turned irregular in the closing hour today, with large-scale profit-taking in second-grade rails and domestic corporation issues, coupled with reactionary tendencies in foreign government loans offsetting further improvement in United States governments and selected industrials.

Among the hard-pressed carrier issues were the New York Central 4½s new and the Southern Pacific 4½s of '½9.

United States governments continued to make headway.

Volume of turnover continued on a par with yesterday's record-breaking dealings.

Copper Market Up, Spot Silver Down

NEW YORK, May 12.—Copper has sold in the domestic market at 7 cents a pound delivered, up ¼ cent. The copper wire companies have advanced prices ½ cent a pound.

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Bar silver was down ⅝ cent to 33⅞ cents an ounce in the New York market today. Futures also declined, losing 1/5 to ½ cent.

Membership Sells At $15,000 Advance

NEW YORK, May 12.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership at $150,000, an increase of $15,000 from the last previous transaction.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Philadelphia Company and subsidiaries for 1932 shows net earnings after all charges of $9,051,217, the same as the preliminary report, available for dividends. Preferred dividends were $3,719,816, and after payment of common dividends and sundry adjustments total earned surplus declined from $12,988,165 to $11,423,718. In 1931 net earnings were $14,278,285. Total current assets December 31, 1932, including $7,579,450 cash, were $15,026,022. Current liabilities were $1,734,537 and accrued liabilities—taxes, rentals, dividends, etc.—were $7,457,759.

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Corporation report for the quarter ended March 31, 1933, shows net loss of $203,925, after expenses, depreciation, interest and other charges, compared with net loss in the first three months of 1932 of $250,140.

Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil Company had March quarter net loss of $240,300, against net profit of $323,294 in the same 1932 period.

Foundation Company net loss for the year ended December 31 was $35,767 after expenses, depreciation, etc., compared with net loss of $560,788 in 1931.

National Supply Company of Delaware report for the March quarter shows net loss of $1,009,321 compared with net loss of $1,420,761 in the first quarter of 1932.

INDUSTRIALS UP ON LOCAL MARKET

Price movements were a little irregular on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, but volume held up well and slightly exceeded yesterday's turnover during the early part of the market. Most fluctuations were fractional, with a stocks showing changes of a point or so. The widest gain in the early dealings was in Armstrong Cork, which moved up more than a point. Mesta Machine was strong, reflecting the broadening of activity in the heavy machinery field. United Engineering held around its previous close.

Fuels were active, but changes in this section were confined to the smaller fractions. Brewings were dull, with the exception of Renner Brewing, just listed today. The issue had a fractional rise and then fell back.

WHEAT EASES AT FINISH

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP.)—Profit-taking late today led to reactions for all grain values after new top prices for the season had been reached. Wheat and corn were both up more than 5 cents since Tuesday.

An overbought condition for at least the time being as to wheat in particular was disclosed. Signing of the Roosevelt combined agriculture and inflation bill had little effect on the grain markets, as for some time the majority of traders had been operating on assumption that the measure would become a law.

Wheat closed irregular ¼ off to ¼ up compared with yesterday's finish, corn ⅛-1⅛ advanced, oats showing ⅛-½ gain, and provisions at a rise of 12 to 40 cents.

TRADE UPSWING CONTINUES

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Business is still on the upswing despite the fact that the period of normal seasonal expansion has passed, the Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., weekly trade review said today.

"The stride which progress has assumed, reveals the general feeling of assurance that the current revival rests on a firm foundation which has been built slowly and solidly during the last two years.

"Reports received from the leading centers of distribution emphasize the steadily gaining weekly volume of retail sales, the appearance of price markups in other than staple grades of merchandise, and a dollar volume in many districts running ahead of the comparative totals of a year ago."

Less Cottonseed Reported Crushed

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP.)—Cottonseed crushed in the nine-month period, August 1 to April 30, was reported today by the Census Bureau to have totaled 4,067,053 tons, compared with 4,925,337 tons for the same period a year ago, and cottonseed on hand at mills April 30 was 594,997 tons, compared with 527,738 tons a year ago.

GAIN IN STEEL SMALL, BUT FAVORABLE

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, N. Y. University.

NEW YORK, May 12.—To many, the small increase in the unfilled orders of the Steel Corporation were a disappointment. That, however, should not have been the case, for any increase was really favorable.

Normally, unfilled orders decrease in April. Even a small decrease this time would, therefore, have amounted to a better-than-usual performance. The "adjusted" index rose sharply.

Furthermore, the rise occurred despite a good gain in production and presumably in shipments. This means that orders had to rise considerably to run ahead of shipments and put the "unfilled" orders up at all.

UTILITY QUESTION.

The only question concerning the significance of the increase, which can be raised, concerns the quality of the buying. To the extent that the new business was merely to protect buyers against a possible inflationary rise in prices, the orders may represent a sort of speculation. The buyers may not actually "specify" or take the steel. Steel orders are booked on that basis, namely that the buyer is not committed as to how much steel he will actually take.

The car-loading and electric power figures have also begun to look more favorable.

You see, it has been impossible to draw any certain conclusions from April figures, because they compare with the extreme depression of March, when the financial crisis caused sharp curtailment. The late Easter also makes comparisons difficult, either with March or a year ago.

But as May weekly figures begin to appear, they suggest that the apparent jump in April may carry through, at least for a while. It is now not without significance that for several weeks various business indices have been little if any lower than a year ago.

One should be a bit cautious about jumping to conclusions concerning the employment figures. There was a fair rise in April as compared with March, and we may hope for further gains. But we should remember that employment in March had slumped very sharply to new lows.

Similarly, it is hard to interpret the department store figures for April. They show a smart recovery from March, just as they did in each of the last two years. That variable Easter date affects the data. However, we may tentatively consider the showing as being favorable.

SPECULATION OVERDONE

I must say that I feel that we are overdoing speculation a little. That does not mean that I am "bearish," but that I am cautious and conservative.

For example, wheat prices are up sharply on a "bullish" crop report. This means that a very small crop is anticipated. It mean higher prices per bushel. But it also means fewer bushels to sell.

It means less acres to harvest, and less need of farm machinery, as well as less wheat traffic for southwestern railways.

If we do not overbuy now, thus hurting markets later on, and if we stick to the really favorable factors, thus avoiding the mistakes of indiscriminate "optimism," there are possibilities of betterment. Is it not well to heed President Roosevelt's suggestion that we should not seek to be swept into "prosperity" on a wave of speculation?

Fireproofing Books Postoffice Orders

National Fireproofing Company has received several large orders, among them contracts for material for the new federal buildings at Philadelphia and Minneapolis. The company has begun shipment on materials for the new postoffice buildings here and at Cleveland.

Jump From One Farming Pan Into Another

By B. C. FORBES

HOPE SPRINGS eternal in the American breast. Announcement that the government had finally eliminated itself from agriculture — though at a Federal Farm Board loss of several hundred millions of dollars—inspired national rejoicing.

Mr. Forbes

Yet, passage of legislation plunging the government — meaning taxpayers — still more deeply into agriculture, is hailed with widespread enthusiasm!

There is not the slightest guarantee that our new excursion will prove any more pleasant than the last.

During discussions of a sales tax, it was practically unanimously agreed that the most elementary necessaries of life should be excluded, including food. Now we gaily proceed with plans to increase food prices infinitely more than they would have been increased by any sales tax ever proposed.

The sophomoric "brain trust" can hatch the weirdest panaceas for our economic ills. What a glorious — and irresponsible — time these theorists must be having. In their wildest flights of youthful imagination they could never have pictured themselves as being able to impose their pipe-dreams on the entire nation.

A GENTLEMAN long officially and importantly connected with the misnamed "United States Chamber of Commerce," commenting on this column's recent description of it as an all-talkies, abortive, futile body, writes:

"I enjoyed your observations very much. I don't think you are entirely correct, but I think you are dominantly so. The primary error in that organization was introduced into it about eight or ten years ago when, in order to avoid the suspicion of being publicly accused of being controlled by 'big business,' they introduced a direct primary system of election for the selection of directors. The resulting indecisions have been largely a reflection of this change.

"I am hopeful that your pertinent observations will cause others to look further into the operations of the organization with the idea of ultimately taking a very good foundation and developing an equally good institution."

Leading lights in the chamber are so well pleased with themselves that another talkfest is to be held on May 24 to indulge in self-congratulatory oratory.

Unless the country can organize more effective means of guiding industry than the so-called "U. S. Chamber" has provided, industry cannot remotely hope to set itself right with the public, cannot hope to function socially satisfactorily in the future any more than it has done in recent years under the "leadership" of the Washington chamber.

Unfortunately, industry's shortcomings have instigated political action which may or may not work out successfuly. Industry should have done the job itself. Having failed, it cannot logically complain over the prospect of being rigidly regulated — perhaps politically dominated hereafter.

Business

Gain in Industrial Output Still Under Way

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE INCREASE in business activity still continues. The week following the end of the bank holiday marked the low point for the present year. Since that time recovery in nearly all phases of business has been continuous.

The extent of the revival as it has affected Pittsburgh can be seen in the rise of the weekly index of business activity in the Pittsburgh district which is prepared by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Pittsburgh. The preliminary index for the week ended May 6 stood at 48.0. This compared with a revised index of 47.0 for the previous week and 45.5 for the week ended April 22.

Business has more than regained the loss occasioned by the bank closings. The weekly index dropped from 44.7 in the week ended February 18 to a low of 39.5 in the week ended March 18. The recovery to 48.0 last week was sufficiently great to be of major interest.

* * *

Most Index Factors Record Increases

THE INDEX represents the trend in iron and steel output, electric power production, coal output, rail shipments and trade activity. All these factors, except coal output and rail shipments, increased in the week ended May 6. In the previous week, all the factors increased.

The index is corrected for trend and seasonal variations so that it may be assumed that the continued gains represent genuine improvement and have not been due to seasonal influences.

Electric power production showed the greatest gain for the last week covered by the index. It increased from 60.5 to 64.4.

Business Nearing Level of Last Year

AFTER SHOWING a general downward trend for nearly four years, business activity is beginning to come close to the levels of last year. The index for the Pittsburgh district of 48.0 in the week ended May 6 was at the the highest level since the fourth week of May, 1932, when it stood at 48.1. In the corresponding period of last year it stood at 50.1, which was only slightly above the level for the week just reported.

In Memoriam 1-B

ANDERSON—Esther H. In loving memory of our dear daughter who slept away one year ago today, May 12, 1932:

She bade none a last farewell,
She said goodbye to none,
The heavenly gates had opened,
A lovely voice said "Come!"
And with farewell unspoken
She gently entered home.
Our dear daughter sleeps in silence,
We'd not disturb her rest;
Sad and lonely are the hearts
Of those who loved her best.

—Her loving father, mother, brothers and sister.

CHAPTER XLV.

For fully five minutes there was no sound in the little kitchen but the clatter of dishes, the hissing of water as Edna turned on the faucets, the tap-tap of Sharlie's high heels as she walked back and forth between the sink and the cupboard, putting away the dishes.

It was she who spoke first. "Well, Edna," she said, "are you going down to Arizona with Mr. Collins?"

Silence for a moment. "Or haven't you made up your mind yet?" she asked.

Edna went on scouring the bottom of the meat pan with a ball of steel wool. "What I do depends on what you do," she said without looking up from her work. "You know how I feel about him —how I've always felt about him —don't you?"

"Oh, I don't know. You've been going around with Jim Barnum a lot lately, and—" Sharlie was beginning when she stopped her by speaking again.

"You know that I don't care for Jim Barnum, or anyone else— except Mr. Collins, don't you, Sharlie?" Her dark blue eyes swept up to Sharlie's and she turned around from the dishpan to face her. "You know I've been in love with him for years."

FINANCIAL STANDING

"Yes, I do know it," Sharlie answered. She always had known it, no matter how much she had tried to tell herself anything else. She never had gone anywhere with Mr. Collins, never had asked him to the flat, without having a little feeling of guilt.

"And I think I know how you feel about him," said Edna. "I think you told your father the truth about him this morning— when you said you'd had a 'crush' on him, but that you'd gotten over it. Remember what I said to you then?"

Sharlie did remember. "You said it would be a crime for me to marry him unless I were wild about him because he hadn't been happy with his wife. Wasn't that it?"

Edna nodded her head shining with its blue-black waves of hair. "That's what I said—and, Sharlie, if you don't care a great deal for him he won't be happy. He's going to have a hard time down there. He has a few acres of land, not very close to Phoenix, and about $40,000 that he got from the sale of his house last week. And that's all. I know, because I know about his business just as well as he does. I've gone to his safety deposit box for him. I've paid his bills. I know every penny that he owns, and I'm telling you the truth.

WOULD WORK HARD

"If you were marrying a very rich man twice as old as yourself you'd stand a better chance of happiness, I think. You'd have cars and servants and trips to Europe and beautiful clothes—all the things that make some women think they're having the time of their lives. But to go down to a strange place and try to get along on very little—doing your own housework, hunting through the stores for bargains, pinching pennies, worrying, helping your husband in his office, too, perhaps— wouldn't be the sort of thing to bring happiness to you unless you loved the man you were doing it for with all your heart and soul and body."

She shook her head. "You don't care for Mr Collins lake that," she said sturdily. "I do."

She nodded vigorously. "I do —and I'd go down there and work for him without a salary if he asked me to! I'd scrub his office floor or do any other thing that I could do to help—but I wouldn't go if you were going to marry him. I couldn't do it, Sharlie. I worked for him for years when his wife was alive, thinking sometimes that he liked me a little and would let me know if it weren't for her. So, like a lot of other female office-slaves, I kept on working for him although sometimes it was all I could do to keep myself from leaning forward, when I was taking down letters for him, and saying 'Do you know I love you?' I used to think about getting another job somewhere, but I knew I never could leave him—but now I can let him go 'way down to Arizona without me. I mean if he marries you. I never could go on, year after year, helping him build up success and make money for a new wife. Oh, no! Not even if the new wife were you!"

She turned around to her work again, wrung out the dishcloth and wiped the bottom of the meat pan with it

SHARLIE'S ATTITUDE

"I'll tell you something else," she said after a pause, and Sharlie saw that she was smiling at herself. "When I first went to work for him—the first week or two—he didn't treat me like the adding machine that I have since become in his eyes. He made love to me, asked me to have lunch and dinner with him, tried to get me to drive home with him in his car." Her blue eyes opened wide. "I've never mentioned this before to a living soul—I've always pretended that it never happened—but, let me tell you, my girl, he gave me more of a chase than he ever gave you or his Mrs. Wilmot or any of the other women who have swum into his lake of vision since."

The dishes were done. Sharlie switched off the lights in the dim little kitchen, and the two girls walked to the front of the house side by side.

"Edna," Sharlie said, plumping up the couch cushions and stretching herself out on them, "I've been months trying to make up my mind about Mr. Collins—whether I wanted him or not, I mean. And about 20 minutes ago when he was talking to you out in the kitchen it all came straight to my mind just like a flash. Edna, you must be blind not to see that he's in love with you. Why, he was begging you to work for him as passionately as if he were asking you to elope with him! I stood there listening to him, and I knew he was crazy about you whether he knows it or not. I don't think he does know it, as a matter of fact—but, anyhow, the interesting part of it all to me was that I wasn't the least bit jealous. I didn't care the least bit when he put his arm around you and held your face up to him to talk to you. And that was before I knew just how poor he is, Edna. I gave him up in my own mind 20 minutes ago when I thought he was a rich man—or at least when I didn't know he'd lost almost all of his money."

EDNA CHANGES MIND

At 6 o'clock when Dodie brought her guests to supper the two girls were in the kitchen once more, making the coffee and talking and laughing together as they hadn't laughed and talked in weeks.

The table was set with cold beans, and as soon as everyone was seated Edna came in with a plate of fresh Parker House rolls.

"She made them herself—Aren't they lovely?" Sharlie asked, and Dodie raised her darkened eyebrows in a look that said, "Why play up Edna to your man, silly?" as plainly as words could have said it.

Mr. Collins sat next to Edna, and toward the end of the meal when Maude Hanaberry was telling how she had once won hundreds of dollars betting on a horse at the Kentucky Derby, Sharlie heard him ask her if she had made up her mind about Phoenix.

"Oh, I think I could be persuaded to go, perhaps," she said casually, and the look of relief that leaped into his face was like a light. He let out a short laugh, and Maud Hanaberry stopped telling her racetrack story to Sharlie's father, as if it had suddenly dawned on her that she was missing something.

"I knew you'd go," Mr. Collins said to Edna in the silence that had settled over the table. He was smiling down into her eyes. "I knew you wouldn't throw me down. You just wanted to be teased—like all women—didn't you?"

The look that Dodie threw down the table at the two of them was like a javelin. "Edna," she said sharply, "when you come out of your trance will you be good enough to pass me the cheese and crackers?"

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis.

Flying Days

The days are short; almost we see them fly,
Blue wings of morn and purple wings of eve;
And we, who watch the hours passing by,
Can scarcely welcome them before they leave.
We would not seek to stay the moving tide
Or ordered marching of the stars through space;
Why, then, must we be still dissatisfied
That time goes ever at a breathless pace?

In all the universe there is no pause,
Change follows change on never-resting wheels,
And he who seeks to read the cosmic laws
Must follow motion till his tired mind reels.
The days are short; why should we clutch to hold
Night's velvet wings or morn's bright wings of gold?

NATIVE TROOPS IN ACTION IN MOROCCO . . . INSERTS: RAISULI, LEFT; ABD EL-KRIM, RIGHT

By 1912 the French Protectorate had been declared over Morocco, divided already since the Anglo-French Treaty of 1904 into the French-Spanish and Independent Zones (within the Spanish) of Tangier. This was a precaution by Great Britain, who had been fearing a Spanish-German Alliance to counteract the British-French Entente. This independent Moorish Zone became the later center of obstruction against improvements introduced by the Spanish and French in Morocco. Raisuli and Abdel-Krim were the two Moorish leaders who caused much bloodshed. Since the death of the former (1925) and the surrender of the later (1926) there has been virtual peace. FUSE AND BLOCK (Plug Type)

Fuse is a short metal strip or wire of low melting point (lead) with a section offering resistance enough to generate heat and melt itself if the intensity of the current exceeds the allowed maximum. Every line-branch should have separate fuses to avert fire hazards. (Rowland: Applied Electricity.) (Science.)

HYDRAULIC FORGING PRESS

It serves to shape big pieces of hot steel by slow pressure. Above press exerts 14,000-ton pressure and is shown forging a large hollow cylinder. Hot forging improves steel quality; it is an expensive operation and is used for parts requiring extraordinary strength. (Steel Manufacture.)

ELECTRICITY TURNED INTO MECHANICAL ENERGY

Diagram (left) shows in a magnetic field a conductor carrying current (from eye toward the paper). The field of the magnet (N-S) and that generated by the conductor (circular) interfere and crowd the lines of force on the top, pushing (like imaginary rubberbands) the conductor downward as shown by arrow. Changing the direction of the current in the conductor (from paper to eye) it will be forced upward (right). The magnitude of the force acting on the conductor will be in direct proportion with the strength of the magnetic field and intensity of current. (Dawes: Electrical Engineering.)

ELECTRIC MOTOR

Between the poles N and S of a magnet the looped conductor (abcd) is placed having a shaft (xy) around which it can turn (left). If an electric current is sent through the loop in the indicated direction, the loop will turn counterclockwise as shown by arrows. The crowding of the lines of force and the resulting turning effect is shown in the sectional view (right). This is the principle of the electric motor. (Dawes: Electrical Engineering.) (Science.)

THE ELECTRIC BELL (Science)

It operates on the electromagnetic effect of the current. A, bell; B, push button; C, battery; D, E, electro magnets; F, yoke; G, clapper (on a flat spring); S, contact spring; P, contact screw. If B is open S and P are in contact. Closing B, current flows, D, E attracts G, which hits the bell and disconnects S from P, breaking the current. E and D lose magnetism, G jumps back contacting S and P and the whole play repeats itself as long as B is closed. (Jansky: Magetism and Electricity.)

Girls, Pul-lease, Girls!

The girls are all ready to branch forth on the bathing beaches after having decided that the new 3.2 beer will not tan you.

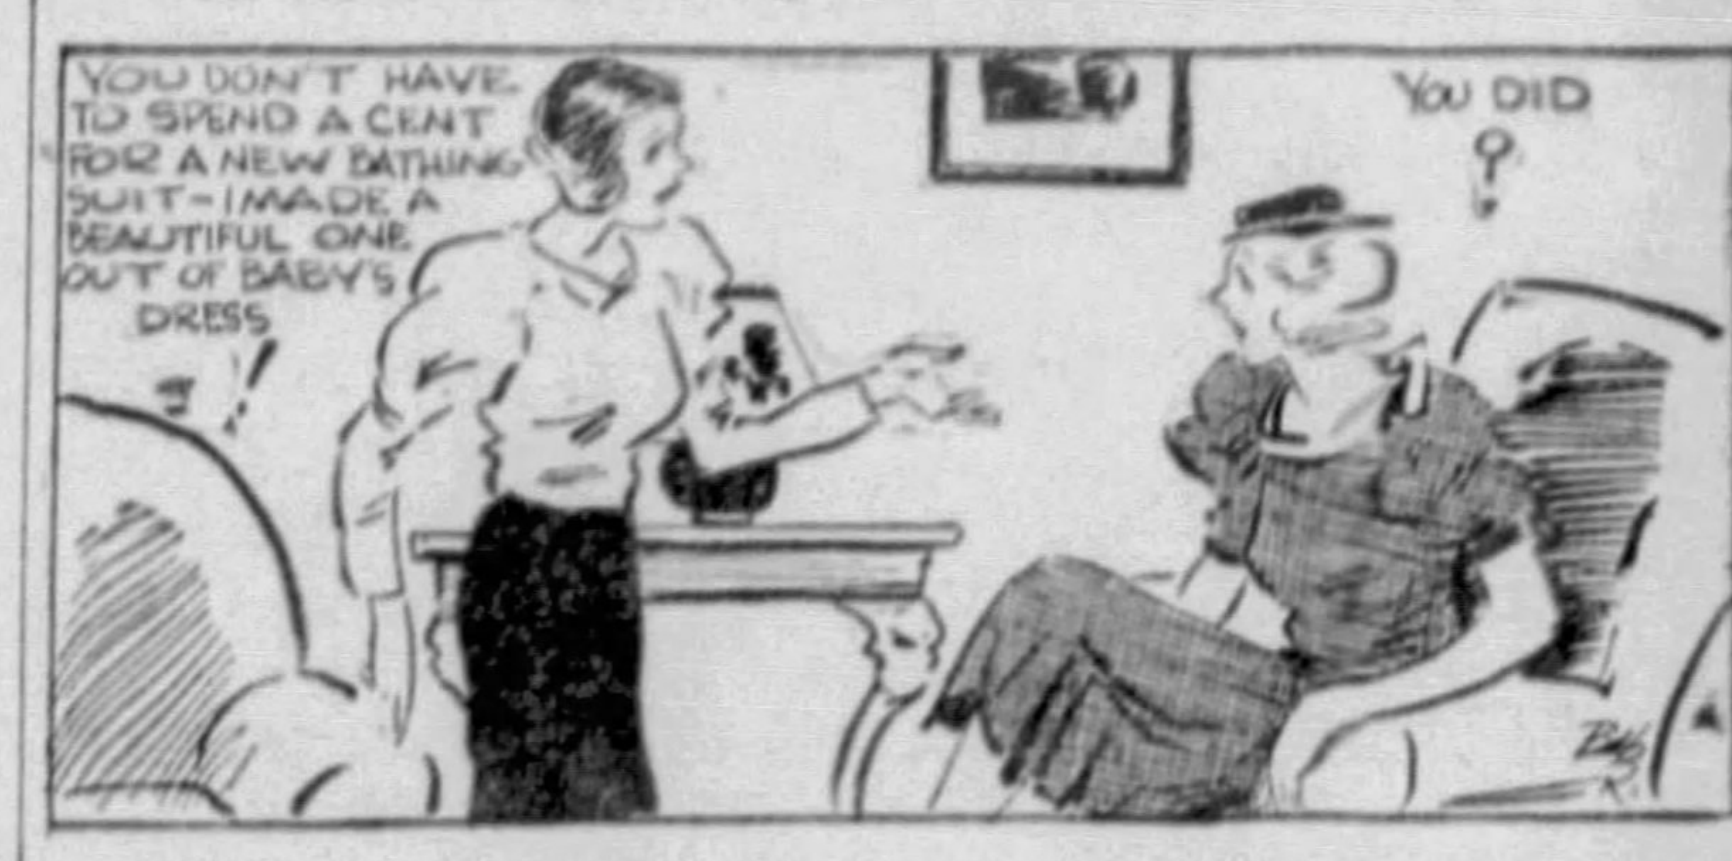
They're going to wear some beautiful swimming costumes if we can judge by the show windows.

Folks, we looked in all those windows just to see if those costumes were actually true.

Just to give you a rough idea of it all, we actually blushed when the bathing suits were empty. All they consisted of were a couple of straps, a cap and shoes.

We are dead set against it. Do you remember when ma used to trim down her dresses for little sister? Well, those times seem to have gone. Now, ma looks at little sister's bathing suit and says, "Emmie, when that gets too small for you, let me have it, that's a dear."

Our advice to the beach police is to arrest all those gals. Why, folks, they ain't wearing nothing at all. We could save more clothing than that from a boat wreck.



YOU DON'T HAVE TO SPEND A CENT FOR A NEW BATHING SUIT—I MADE A BEAUTIFUL ONE OUT OF BABY'S DRESS
YOU DID ?

We know it is healthy to get sun-tanned and freckled. The doctors tell us that. But, it ain't right for ma to buy little dresses for the baby and then to wear them herself.

Last year ain't going to be anything compared with the summer of 1933. The gals always go to extremes. Why wear shoes?

If a man blushes when he sees an empty bathing suit in a window what is he going to do on the beach when they're filled?

You know the girls always have powdered their noses because they didn't want them red and sunburned.

This summer they will have to jump in flour barrels.

Danger in the Dole

Preservation of Self-Respect Demands That Remunerative Work Be Substituted for Alms.

One thousand persons on the Allegheny County Emergency Association's charity list informed the association last week that they had obtained jobs and would no longer require relief; so their names were stricken from the list.

But at the same time 1,800 persons who had not previously received relief notified the association that they had come to the end of their resources and must have aid. The number of names on the relief list accordingly increased from 71,724 to 72,571.

One of Pittsburgh's foremost bankers estimated yesterday that there are 50,000 more persons on the payrolls of the district now than there were six months ago.

BUT THERE ARE 35,000 MORE PERSONS ON THE RELIEF LIST NOW THAN THERE WERE SIX MONTHS AGO.

Notwithstanding the revival in business and increase in employment, the number of people who depend on the dole for their living has shown a steady gain from week to week, and has almost doubled in half a year.

The cost to the taxpayers has increased in corresponding measure, and in Allegheny County is now little short of $300,000 a week.

There is danger in the dole; it tends to rob the recipients of their self-respect.

The cure lies in giving work relief, so far as possible, instead of direct relief.

Edgar J. Kaufmann calls attention to two methods by which work relief may be increased, and the list of dole receivers correspondingly reduced.

One method is by using the $500,000,000 appropriated by Congress for relief to finance rehabilitation projects that would give work to idle men.

The other method is by liberalizing the terms under which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation may disburse its $1,300,000,000 fund.

Mr. Kaufmann suggests that the government might be willing to lend relief money in small amounts for the improvement of private property—homes, shops, garages and the like—taking a lien on the property as security and allowing the borrower 10 years for repayment of the loan.

Congress has created the office of Federal Emergency Relief Administrator and authorized him to disburse $500,000,000 in grants to the states to aid in meeting the costs of direct relief and work relief. It is estimated that $75,000,000 of the money will come to Pennsylvania and $10,000,000 to Allegheny County.

Why should this money not be used in such a way that the recipients will give something of value in return for it—that is, their labor—and thus save their self-respect, increase the wealth of the country by improving the value of the property on which they are employed, and lighten the taxpayers' load?

This plan should be put into effect at the earliest possible moment, that a check may be placed on the steadily rising list of people in the county who are living on the dole and accepting charity as a matter of course.

If the idea is adopted the property owners of Allegheny County can help in placing it in execution by preparing plans for improvements to be financed with government relief funds.

Does your roof need repair? Would you like to have your garage enlarged? Would you like to have your hillside lot leveled? Does your factory require rehabilitation? Do you want your store painted?

How much would the job cost? Would you have it done if the government should lend you the money and allow you 10 years in which to repay the loan? How many days of work are there in your job, and for how many men?

These are some of the things that the people of the Pittsburgh District are requested to think about, in preparation for the compilation of a list of rehabilitation projects to be submitted to the Federal Emergency Relief Administrator.

We can cut down the charity list by giving jobs to applicants. If the alarming increase in the list is not immediately checked, the demoralization of a considerable part of the population is certain and the cost to the taxpayers soon will be insupportable.

Buy the Tunnel

The County Commissioners Should Choose Between the Two Wabash Tube Plans and Proceed.

For two years the County Commissioners have been vacillating over the proposal that the Wabash Railroad Bridge and Tunnel be acquired and converted into a new artery for motor traffic between the Golden Triangle and the South Hills.

Hearings were granted the advocates and opponents of the plan. Engineers, traffic experts and businessmen were consulted. Final decision was always put off.

At last Ole Singstad, one of the engineers connected with the construction and operation of the Holland vehicular tunnel in New York, was asked for his opinion.

After long study, Singstad has rendered a report. He declares there is need for the new outlet, that the location is satisfactory, that suitable approaches can be constructed, that the price is reasonable, that the facilities for expansion are adequate, and that the tunnel, if acquired, would give the county a valuable new asset.

The cost of the project would be $4,300,000, of which $3,000,000 would go to the railroad company as the price of the bridge and tunnel and $1,300,000 would be required to make them suitable for the use of automobiles.

Singstad recommends, however, that an additional tunnel be built, to provide for four lanes of traffic—two in each direction. The additional tunnel, he estimates, would cost $2,000,000.

The County Commissioners now have definite information, definite recommendations. They have the advice of an expert on such matters, an expert of their own selection.

Further delay is unnecessary and would be inexcusable.

A decision should be reached forthwith on the question if we are to have a single tunnel or a double tunnel.

The properties should be bought, and the Commissioners should proceed with the project.

One-third of the Navy's existing ships are to be "laid on the shelf."

Hundreds of naval officers are to drop out of the service.

Recruiting will cease and untrained new men will not be enlisted in the Navy until trained men go out to make room for them.

Added to this, the naval training stations will be shut down.

Not the Navy Department, which knows something about its own business, but the Director of the Budget—who learned about ships in Arizona—decrees these reductions by forcing "economy" to the total of $53,000,000.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Bigger, the Meeker

"I shall never marry," remarked a six-foot bachelor, "until I meet a husky, six-foot woman whom I can bully, without blushing. Nobody knows what a handicap it is to be born an outsize. Especially with the women.

"An overgrown fellow can't even protect his rights; because if he knocks the other man down, he's a 'coward'—and if he doesn't he's a 'sap.'

"I don't know why extra-portion men always fall for tiny women—but it's easy to see why a pocket-edition Adonis usually marries a towering Juno. It gives him the whip-hand right at the altar.

PICK ON SOMEONE YOUR SIZE

"If a six-footer bawls out his five-foot wife, he feels like a big bully. But when a five-foot husband threatens to 'paste' his bigger-and-better-half if she won't stop nagging him, he knows that he is making her only a gentleman's proposition and it's all fair play.

* * *

"When a male Cunarder refuses to strain his back moving the piano, hanging the curtains or running the vacuum cleaner, he feels like a slacker. But the male row-boat in tow of a large feminine liner can sit still and read his newspaper in peace, knowing that if his darling chooses to put her shoulder to it, she can move anything in the house by herself as well as he can.

* * *

"When a masculine heavyweight challenges his 90-pound wife to an argument, he feels that he must put on the gloves and be careful not to hit too hard, for fear of being ruled out of the 'gentleman's code.' But a bantam-scrapper can fly at his 160-pound braver-half and let go with an easy mind and a wallop. Because she can probably knock him cold with one hand, while she stirs her morning coffee with the other.

"Bulk in any man except a prize-fighter is just excess baggage. It makes him self-conscious and shy with women, and gives him the feeling that he is too big for a room and ought to go outdoors and lie on the mat.

* * *

"Theater seats always cramp his knees, bathtubs are usually too short for him, and he's always getting in somebody's way or knocking something over. This gives him a perpetual expression of apology and a deep-seated, incurable inferiority complex, which makes it easy for any little half-portion woman to bully him around and walk over him.

* * *

"The comic artists are all out of drawing when they picture a henpecked husband as an unhappy little shrimp, being bullied by a whale of a woman with a face like the Statue of Liberty. It's always the great big mastiff who meekly obeys commands from a fluffy little feminine Pomeranian.

* * *

"That's why, when I marry, I want to find a gal tall and strong enough to make the domestic Armageddon a fair fight! I'll bet Petruchio tipped the scales at 145 or he'd never have conquered Katharine!"

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 12.—Thoughts while strolling: Never saw a Jap whose hat fits. Loretta Young always seems obeying the photographer's "Look pleasant, please!" Milt Gross resembles a blown-up Chaplin. I can't think of Myrna Loy without saying "Ship ahoy!" And Ray Vir Den suggests a hop, skip and jump.

Who remembers when the world's worry seemed only halitosis? John Tainter Foote, a Covington, Ky., boy, who made good in the city. Where did Charles Francis Coe get that nick-name "Socker?" Probably from the prize ring. He's a buddy of Gene Tunney. No dog as cunning as the Boston.

One word descriptoin of Carl Van Vechten—sluggish. Nobody can draw a woozy eye like Rube Goldberg. Or will anyone believe I dreamed of falling out of a balloon the night of the Akron disaster. Bob Sherwood must grow weary of being asked how the weather is up there.

Arthur Samuels in gray with a bright red lapel flower, the dude. Galsworthy asked that money for funeral flowers be given to unemployed. And that's the way to throw a lot of gardeners out of work. The old magazine war horse—John S. Phillips. One of my favorite people—Don Herold.

Dorothy Parker is credited with many of Lois Long's smoothies. Edwin C. Hill, the handsome galoot, quit a big movie job because of a nostalgia for Park Row. And what a break he got! Many good reporters quit Park Row for Hollywood. And what a break they got! But—"Minstrel, what is that to you?"

* * *

Now that Don Herold has moved to New York for the umpth time, from California, people inquire archly if he's not glad to get away from temblors. He responds with this coolly-voiced retort: "I'd rather take a chance with a quake than a New York taxi. Mathematically and statistically, quakes injure fewer people in California per annum than bicycles, stepladders or bathtubs." After which he walks away stiffly with the high-nosed sniff of a star boarder.

* * *

Because asthma is looked upon as a comical complaint, common among gray whiskers, horses and pug dogs with cataract eyes, Don's joking friends like to couple him with it. He had a touch once but long ago. He discovered 273 causes—it being, according to medical belief, a symptom, not a disease.

* * *

On the avenue not long ago I walked behind Katherine Hepburn, looking as polished and successful as the Blue Train gliding out for Monte Carlo. Miss Hepburn is the most recent of the personality dramas, magnificently performed. Something about her suggests utter detachment from her sisters—the vague drift and homelessness of smoke.

* * *

Noel Coward, many thought, suffered a slump in public admiration on his most recent visit. His halo tarnished a bit. Largely because he fell in with fawners who hailed every gesture and utterance as irradiations of the divine spark and discussed him maliciously behind his back. He was given the same rating as the usual seasonal and verbal brilliant who sputters so electrically and flickers out, plus Broadway's customary whispered implications. Coward's Cavalcade would indicate he is streaked with sturdier stuff.

* * *

Since Mayor Gaynor I have not seen a square-crowned derby until today. It was worn by a venerable aristocrat stepping from a victoria with his cameo companion along West 57th street's Petticoat Lane. She was a wren among birds of gay plumage and he that querulous dodering type whose personality dominates by its sheer sickliness. Yet he handed her out of the conveyance and escorted her across the pavement with a touch of gallantry too seldom seen. Sidewalk crowds halted in quick pivot.

* * *

Don Marquis is recovered from his total blindness and is now fashioning a play on the life of Henry VIII. Four months ago, after a five-day siege of insomnia during which he was feverishly finishing a play, he looked up from his typewriter one sunny morning. And suddenly stared into fathoms of darkness.

Irving Caesar, asked by his barber if there was anything else, glanced in the mirror and replied: "You might trim my collar."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

SUPPOSE YOU'RE BUSTED—

AND OWE THE EX-MISSIS PLENTY ALIMONY—

SHOULD YOU HAVE TO GO TO JAIL.

AND STAY THERE UNTIL YOU CAN PAY—

WHICH WILL PROBABLY BE NEVER?

Maybe that question has never bothered you. Then you're lucky. For it's bothering thousands of your fellow citizens who are bound by the laws which YOU help to put over.

IN NEW YORK AND BROOKLYN SOME MEN ARE "DOING LIFE" BECAUSE THEY CAN'T PAY ALIMONY.

Of course, they weren't actually sent up for life. But that's what the sentence amounted to. For they went to jail because they didn't have money to pay—and in jail they must stay until they can find that money. So then, what?

So then—there they are. Eating on the taxpayer as more or less permanent guests. One hundred of them in New York and Brooklyn alone, with all our other big cities more than keeping up their quota. And all because America believes that an ex-wife is entitled to life-long damages for the breaking of her heart, regardless of whether or not she possesses such an organ.

But now comes Judge Joseph Sabath, of Chicago, with a few revolutionary ideas. Perhaps he thinks that if idle school teachers can't get upkeep in Chicago why should idle wives? Or maybe he's fed up on all rackets. Be that as it may, he has announced that he WILL NO LONGER SEND DIVORCED HUSBANDS WHO ARE UNABLE TO PAY ALIMONY TO JAIL.

Of course, if they can pay but won't, that's different. Then into the dungeon for them! But if they can't, they'll not only be permitted to go free without a sheriff dogging their steps, but they will be given advice, sympathy and assistance in search for employment.

So that's somepin'! But is it enough?

SHOULD WE HAVE ALIMONY AT ALL?

Support for women with children, or women over fifty, or women invalided during marriage, by all means. And, perhaps, help for a year after divorce, until the ex-wife finds a way to earn her living.

BUT SHOULD ANY CHILDLESS YOUNG WOMAN EVER BE GRANTED ALIMONY BECAUSE MARRIAGE PROVED A FAILURE?

It's a 50-50 break that the failure's as much her fault as the husband's. He lost as much by that unwise investment of time, money and emotion as she did—received as deep a scar. Then why should she be regarded as a victim and he as a criminal?

"Because some men are downright brutes! They've no regard for a fine woman's love and devotion. They enter marriage without the slightest intention of being faithful, or even acting decent."

Yes, in some cases that's true. And in such cases, if the woman is really "fine," nothing on earth could induce her to touch such a man's money after divorce.

But such is not the typical Alimony Grabber. No sensitive fastidiousness bothers her! She's only too pleased to cash in on her "martyrdom," with the full details contributed gratis to any Front Page that will take them. And when you find a femme of this ilk, it's safe to bet that the failure of her marriage is quite as much her fault as her husband's—if not more so.

Are, or aren't, the Russians more civilized than we, in this respect? They believe that marriage—apart from their responsibilities as parents—is a purely private affair. Fathers and mothers of a broken home must BOTH contribute to the support of the children who are, as with us, legally considered "wards of the state." And the laws regulating such support are more rigorous than ours in America. But for the man and the woman as individuals—freedom without fetter.

A couple are allowed to marry, and allowed to part, when and if they wish, without interference of court or necessity of employing council. Moreover, IF ONLY ONE OF THE COUPLE WISHES FREEDOM, THAT IS SUFFICIENT. THE OTHER CANNOT HOLD THE UNWILLING ONE BOUND.

Alimony? NO! Financial help for the woman for one year after divorce, if really needed. Then no more.

Coop an able-bodied man, who might be useful to the state, in jail for life to gratify the laziness or greed or malice of some woman? "Impossible!" say the Russians.

Now is, or isn't, that a more civilized attitude than ours? What do YOU think?

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Isn't It So?

Be wise in your own conceits.

Propriety is the least of all laws, and the most obeyed.

Respect the faculty that forms thy judgments.

A great soul ought to be more sensible of benefits than affronts.

When you are in doubt whether an action is good or bad, abstain from it.

Why should we despise those who have not wit? It is not a voluntary evil in them.

With men and women 'tis alike the way. To hate tomorrow what they love today.

A 'Highbrow' Family

Twelve Quadrillion Well-Trained Brain Dynamos.

SIR OLIVER LODGE, GREAT BRITISH SCIENTIST, WITH HIS LEARNED BROTHER AND SUPER-LEARNED SISTER

You have heard about "highbrows," human beings of exceptional intellectual ability. Here you SEE three samples of the genuine article. Two learned brothers, Sir Oliver Lodge and Sir Richard Lodge, and their sister, Miss Eleanor Lodge, are really "highbrows."

You know at a glance that these learned Britishers have used their brains from the start and still use them. Sir Oliver Lodge for nearly half a century has been recognized as one of the greatest scientists. His brother, Sir Richard Lodge, is the president of the British Royal Historical Society, professor of history, a man so learned that it would make your head ache if you knew even half of it.

As for Miss Eleanor Lodge, sister of these learned brothers, a glance at her face shows that what SHE doesn't know about difficult things is hardly worth knowing.

She was the first woman to take a degree of Doctor of Literature at Oxford, and has all sorts of learned titles, including "Hon. Fellow of Lady Margaret." She has been president of an important college, and could answer without a moment's hesitation 10,000 questions to which the average human being could only reply, "How should I know?"

It is a pleasure to think how proud the mother and father of these three learned human beings would be if they could see the two sons and their daughter now.

Some readers will find this picture less interesting than that of three charming young ladies from Hollywood, with legs to match, or that of the "giraffe-necked" ladies from Siam.

Others, recognizing that these three represent high intellectual development, remembering the American Doctor Crile's statement that each human brain contains "FOUR QUADRILLION" electric dynamos, will speculate with awe on the activity of the twelve quadrillions of dynamos locked up in these three skulls.

These are the REAL PEOPLE of the world, possessing the brains that add to knowledge and that create progress.

HOME TALENT

By Winifred Black

The man with a lot on his mind came home from a business trip the other day.

He wasn't crazy about the business—or about the trip either—kind of gloomy and down in the mouth, if you ask me.

"Rather quiet," said the man with a lot on his mind.

"We heard about mortgages, foreclosures and padlocks," and then all at once the man's face brightened.

"Do you know what I saw out in Los Angeles?" he said. "You needn't guess, you'd never think of it. A charade—with two pretty girls and four young fellows in it. They were 'dressing up' in the butler's pantry and they put the show on in the dining room and we all sat out in the living room and hooted and cat-called and whispered and had the time of our lives. Charades are all the rage out there, right now.

"And in Chicago they're doing picture puzzles, ma and dad and Uncle Hiram and little Sue and Cousin Charlie and the whole family.

"And what do you think—in St. Louis—they're remembering how to sing! I caught 'em singing at a friend's house one evening. Standing around the piano, if you please, and singing the 'Swanee River' just for a change. No special tenors or marvelous sopranos, of course, but they carried the tune, and then they went out in the kitchen and made fudge and we all stood around and drank coffee and nibbled fudge, and I had the best time I've had in 10 years.

"Business may be a little quiet, but I'll tell you what," cried the man with a lot on his mind, "homes and home talent are looking up."

Good news I call it.

What's the use of business if there's no such thing as a home or any kind of real happiness and content behind it? Look out for the bootleggers—if they hear about that piano and those charades and that home-made coffee, they may be driven to do something desperate about it!

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

In many homes either one or the other parent is too lenient with the children.

Perhaps the father forbids and mother permits a certain thing.

Naturally the parent who grants the more concessions is the popular one with the child.

If you are the strict parent in your home, you perhaps resent the fact or you are hurt at the evidence the children give of preference.

Your greater interest, because stricter, as you look at it, makes your children love the one who indulges them in what they wish.

Because your husband or your wife, as the case may be, will not do his or her part in discipline, hard feelings arise.

You never consider that you may be too aggressive in your efforts.

You don't realize that the children and your partner in the home, may have some cause to take the opposite side from your opinion, thinking you unjust.

Parents should stick together in methods and discipline.

If there must be compromise let it be between the parents.

Talk it over—have an understanding—and then stand by the one who is trying to make a correction.

TOMB OF SLAIN AZTEC KING DISCOVERED

NEW YORK, May 12.—(A.P.)—Count Byron Khun de Prorok believes his archeological expedition into the Mayan jungle of Mexico has discovered the tomb of Gautemoc, nephew of Montezuma and last of the Aztec emperors.

The French explorer, who gained wide recognition for his Carthaginian excavations and other work in Africa, said his party would return to the jungle next October to dig into the supposed tomb—in the state of Tobasco, on the Usamacinta River, some 1,200 miles south of Mexico City.

En route to Paris to report his archeological work among the Maya tribes, the young nobleman said:

"If true, this would equal in importance the discovery of the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen."

TRIBAL LEGENDS

Throughout this state, on the rim of the jungle, De Prorok said all legends led to the one spot.

In this locality, legend and history agree, Guatemoc died while a hostage in the camp of Cortez, the Spanish conqueror. De Prorok said:

"Guatemoc is still the hero of the peons. He was tortured by Cortez, who sought the hiding place of Aztec treasure. Refusing to divulge this, Gautemoc was hanged."

The archeologist said his discoveries among the Mayas convinced him that man did not originate in the Gobi Desert. He said:

"For years I've clung to that theory. But now I must abandon it."

He explained the purpose of his expedition was to compare ethnological data on the Mayas and the Gobi Desert excavations.

MAYA RACE DYING

De Prorok foresees complete extinction of the Maya race within a century or so. He declared:

"They've intermarried too much. Centuries ago, they were a huge people. Now the average height is 5 feet or so.

"The scarcity of women has led to continuous warfare between the villages. There are six men to one woman and it is a constant fight for the women."

Intelligence in the tribes is not much above that of animals, he said. Life is sustained by fruit, game and herbs. They have a fear of white man that has descended from generation to generation since Cortez ploughed through the jungle on his way south after the conquest of the Aztecs.

Others with Count de Prorok in the expedition were Prof. Jacques Saustelle, of the University of Paris; Warren Hayman, geologist of Bucknell University; Henry Rothermel, representing the Boston Fine Arts Society, and Rodney Saddlier, of London, in charge of photography and technical operations.

POLA FORGIVES SPANISH ARTIST

PARIS, May 12.—Pola Negri has forgiven Frederico Beltran-Masses for what she once called an attempt by the famous Spanish artist "to trade on my sentiment for a dear one now dead."

Beltran-Masses' contribution to the reconciliation was withdrawal of the $5,000 suit he brought against the film star when she refused to buy his portrait of her.

In the background he had painted the face of the late Rudolph Valentino, the "dear one" of Pola's accusation.

The suit dragged through Paris courts for about two years. Both Pola and Beltran-Masses grew weary of it. Mutual friends arranged the meeting in the painter's studio. There he and Pola embraced and decided to let bygones be bygones.

REPEAL VICTORY HELD SURE IN 23 STATES

NEW YORK, May 12.—(INS.)—Twenty-three states are certain to ratify the amendment to repeal prohibition, four states will reject it and 21 states may prove to be battlegrounds, according to a poll of the 48 governors of the United States made by the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

The states which will ratify were listed as Washington, California, Nevada, Arizona, Montana, Wyoming, New Mexico, Texas, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Georgia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Those which will reject were recorded as North Carolina, Mississippi, Colorado and Kansas.

The "battleground" states were given as Oregon, Idaho, Utah, North Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Minnesota, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, Florida, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine.

Claude G. Bowers, newly-appointed ambassador to Spain, analyzing the returns in the June issue of the magazine, writes:

"As the replies of the governors imply, the battle is not over by any means . . .

"The fact that most of the states which will act this year unquestionably will ratify the Repeal Amendment means that the repeal movement will receive an impetus almost certain to have effect on the wavering states.

"Even so, the advantage remains with the enemies of repeal, since to defeat the amendment, it is necessary for them to control but 1 3of the 48 states."

MOVIE STARS' GUARD COSTLY

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—(Universal)—Hollywood screen stars in the aggregate spend more than $1,200 a day, seven days in the week, for bodily protection, according to the estimate today of W. C. Bryant, head of the police department at Paramount Studios.

These bodyguards sometimes double as personal servants, sometimes as chauffeurs, but the majority of them are employed solely as bodyguards.

Bryant revealed that at least 10 players at Paramount Studios have such protection. Among them are Marlene Dietrich George Raft, Claudette Colbert, Miriam Hopkins, Jack Oakie, Adrienne Ames and Sylvia Sidney.

There are at least 160 men earning their living as bodyguards in Hollywood, Bryant declared.

These men mainly are ex-soldiers or former police officers and they all have permits from the police or county sheriff's office to carry guns."

Watchman 'Saves' Boy Sleep-Walker

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP.)—Lester Beall, Jr., is a trifle young for insomnia, but he apparently had a touch of it, despite his age—three years. So he got out of bed in the early morning hours and started for a walk.

A night watchman noticed him three blocks from home and took him to a police station.

World Fair Greeter Over 7 Feet Tall

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP.)—The very latest in official greeters comes high. He is Jacob Elms, 7 feet 7 inches tall, assigned the job of greeting children who visit the Enchanted Island, a World's Fair feature designed to amuse the juveniles.

HUMAN SKULLS DRINKING CUPS IN AFRICA

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 11.—Graphic accounts of how tribes of head hunters seek humans, slay them, boil flesh from their skulls and then use the sun-bleached skulls for drinking mugs were related today by the Rev. Carl J. Tanis, Presbyterian missionary to inner Nigeria, West Africa, who is here on furlough.

Tanis spent more than six years in a section of West Africa which, he says, was never before entered by a white man.

Calling the sector the "white man's grave," the missionary disclosed that Christianity among natives is on the increase and that the death rate among children of savages is 80 per cent as compared with 20 per cent among those embracing Christianity. He pointed out that medical attention to native mothers was responsible for the decrease in the infant mortality rate.

He said his thermometer, which registers up to 150 degrees Fahrenheit, must be taken into the shade at various times during the day to keep from bursting; that at nights the temperature "drops" to about 110 degrees, and that the natives are polygamous, but know that the practice "is not according to God."

He also said native witch doctors, at the birth of a child, force down the child's throat from 16 to 32 ounces of liquid, and that the native method of teeth extraction is to drive a steel arrow under an infected root and push the molar out.

U. S. TO WARN CHINA ON DOPE

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Vigorous protests will be made by American officials to T. V. Soong, Chinese Finance Minister, against establishment of a government opium monopoly in China, it is learned.

The administration will tell Soong "it is indefensible to traffic in human life," and will warn him that the traditional friendly relations between the two countries will be endangered if China takes this backward step.

Turning their backs on human suffering, Chinese officials are proposing monopolies to sell opium to all with the price to buy. Soong, here for economic discussions with President Roosevelt, is reputedly a leader of the move.

The pretext is gradual suppression of the opium traffic under government control. The same excuse is offered by European nations with Far Eastern possessions, where dope is as easy to buy as a package of cigarets in the United States.

The real objective in China, however, is the estimated $300,000,000 annual revenue from dope sales, which would make many Chinese rich.

ACTOR IN RACE FOR MAYOR

MINNEAPOLIS, May 12.—(AP.)—"Buzz" Bainbridge, the kid who ran away from home to spend 12 years with a circus, is buzzing about after the Mayor's job in Minneapolis and already has lost 20 pounds doing it.

Though his stock company has staged countless shows here for years, this is Alexander Gilbert Bainbridge's premiere political performance.

Actors on Broadway and his friends and acquaintances in the theatrical world know him best as "Buzz" Bainbridge.

The jovial, red-faced, chubby candidate astounded his critics in the first act—that of gaining first place in the city primaries. They might not be so surprised now should he bring down the house at the final curtain by defeating William A. Anderson, his incumbent opponent, at the election June 12.

Wants Lobbyists To Wear Badges

MADISON, Wis., May 12.—(AP.)—There are so many lobbyists around the Wisconsin Legislature, Assemblyman John J. Kaiser (Dem.), of Milwaukee, charges, that the lawmakers are continually mistaking them for clerks, pages and newspapermen.

He therefore introduced a resolution designed to compel lobbyists to wear badges or other means of identification.

Unemployed Stick To Family Auto

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP.)—The jobless, Whiting Williams, industrial consultant, says he finds, are keeping the family car for a ride back to prosperity.

Their faith in economic recovery is typfied in their retention of their cars, he told the Rotary Club. Besides that, he added, the autos help them to scout around for work.

Golf Ball Hoarder Found—It's Squirrel

TAFT, Cal., May 12.—(AP.)—Benny Dienstein drove down the fairway. A squirrel darted up from a hole, picked up the ball and scuttled with it back home. Dienstein got a shovel and dug. He found little Mr. Squirrel crouching over five hoarded golf-balls.
